ROOSEVELT HITS TAX BILL—BUT LETS IT BE LAW

Senator Harrison to Answer President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—[Special.]—The halls of congress rumbled with mutterings of resentment today when members received the text of President Roosevelt's speech at Arthurdale, W. Va., blasting the major provisions of the $5,300,000,000 revenue revision bill intended to relieve business from destructive taxation. Mr. Roosevelt refused to sign the bill, permitting it to become law automatically at midnight tonight without his signature. He declared it rejected in a substantial degree his theories of taxation.

Although calling the bill a good one in many respects, Mr. Roosevelt for the first time since becoming President took the course of letting it become law without his signature to "call the definite attention of the American people to those unwise parts" of the measure.

Refers to Salvaged Remnant.

One provision, he said, referring to the 2½ per cent remnant salvaged from the undistributed profits tax, "may restore in the future certain forms of tax avoidance and of concentrated investment power, which we had begun to end." The other provision, relating to the revised capital gains tax, he called "a definite abandonment of a principle of tax policy long ago accepted as part of our American system."

Most resentful of this presidential condemnation and first to protest was Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], who, as chairman of the finance committee, was the moving spirit in the senate repudiation of the punitive undistributed profits tax and of the Roosevelt principle of taxing capital gains as ordinary income. Immediately after Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky obtained permission to insert the President's speech in the record Senator Harrison obtained unanimous consent to reply to Mr. Roosevelt in a senate address tomorrow.

"There were certain statements made in that speech about the tax bill that I, as one who was instrumental in the drafting of the measure, believe should be commented upon," said Senator Harrison grimly.

Calls Bill Sellout to Rich.

Only the extreme radicals, such as Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana, Representative Maury Maverick and Representative William D. McFarlane, both of Texas, defended the President. Typical of their comment was the remark of Representative McFarlane, who said: "The bill is a complete sellout to the rich and I'm for the President."

The Republican reaction was epitomized by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, one of the conferees on the tax measure, who noted that the President "could have stopped it with a veto if he had wanted to."

"In the campaign he asked us to judge him by his deeds and not by his words," said Senator Vandenberg. "So once more when his deeds and words collide, as is so often the case, we find that the tax bill is not so bad after all. As a matter of fact, it is an unexpectedly good tax law which overtakes many of the major tax mistakes of the last five years. What the President said in his speech simply repeats what he said to his own party conferees eight weeks ago. Fortunately they rejected about 95 per cent of his advice. The country gains in proportion."

G. O. P. Sees Political Profit.

Privately the Republicans expressed the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt's assault on the business relief measure would do them a lot of good politically, since the tax innovations of the Roosevelt administration have been held responsible in a large measure by many leading Democrats for the present depression.

The Republicans also suggested that it was fitting and proper for Mr. Roosevelt to deliver his tax address before representatives of a generation that will have to pay the bill for the spending policies of his administration. While addressing the nation by radio the President's immediate audience consisted of thirteen high school graduates—ten girls and three boys—in the gymnasium of the school at the Arthurdale subsistence homestead project, a favorite of Mrs. Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt defended his spend-

PARTY LEADER, THREE OTHERS SEIZED ON SHIP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 27.—[Special.]—Four members of the crew of the German liner Bremen, including a man said to be a political officer of the German Nazi party, were seized tonight in what was termed the greatest spy investigation undertaken by the United States in peace time.

Every effort has been made to shroud the inquiry, which has been in progress for months, in the greatest secrecy. It has become known, however, that the government is hunting down an organized spy ring which has been seeking plans for American army airplanes and anti-aircraft guns, in which this country is believed to have outdistanced European powers.

Two Soldiers Arrested.

Two American soldiers, a woman hairdresser on the German liner Europa, and a German born aircraft worker previously had been seized in the inquiry into espionage activities.

It was learned today that recent serious developments in the spy drama had brought J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, to New York to assume personal charge of the wide-spread manhunt.

Soon after their arrest tonight, the four prisoners from the Bremen, which is now in port, were taken before Federal Judge Vincent Leibell. In addition to fixing high bail, the judge sternly warned the prisoners that ample measures would be taken to prevent them from slipping away from America. The four were locked up and the Bremen sailed late tonight without them.

Two Held in Bonds of $15,000.

Prior to the arrest of four members of the crew of the Bremen Capt. Adolph Ahrens was called before the federal grand jury, questioned and allowed to return to his ship. Two other officers also were summoned to testify.

Two of the prisoners were held in $15,000 bail each. They are Wilhelm Boehnke, listed as a pantryman, but said to be the political leader of the German ship, and Johann Kleiber, second radio officer. The other two prisoners, Walter Otto and Johann Hart, seamen, were held in bonds of $5,000.

Ellwood Cohalan, counsel for the North German Lloyd line, protested that the bail was grossly excessive and asked that it be reduced.

U. S. Will Not Be Thwarted.

"The government of the United States is not to be thwarted in conducting an investigation according to law," said Judge Leibell. "In ordinary cases I would consider a smaller amount, but in this case I believe the amount asked by the district attorney to be reasonable.

"Furthermore, I want these men to understand that they are not to leave the jurisdiction of this court nor to leave the country."

United States Attorney Lamar Hardy explained that the men were arrested in connection with a special federal grand jury inquiry into espionage activities. He said he wanted to ascertain whether there had been obstruction of justice in the recent sudden flight of Dr. Ignatz T. Griebl, former Nazi leader, and others who had been expected to be witnesses in the investigation.

Hardy declared witnesses had vanished shortly before the jury was convened. He suggested they had been helped in escaping from the spy hunt.

30 Are Drawn Into Case.

Thus far about thirty men and women, distinguished and lowly, have been drawn together in the case, and it is estimated that from a dozen to a score of those now under suspicion eventually will be charged with espionage.

Dr. Griebl slipped aboard the Bre-

Congressman Seized; Put Out of Jersey City

Jersey City, N. J., May 27.—[Special.]—Representative Jerry O'Connell, Democrat of Montana, attempting to make an anti-Hague speech in Pershing field here without a police permit, tonight was seized by police, held for an hour, and then put on a train for Newark.

Rep. Jerry O'Connell. [Acme Photo.]

Director of Public Safety Daniel Casey, who was in charge of 750 police, said O'Connell was "perfectly happy" and was leaving without compulsion.

But upon arrival in Newark, the congressman said, he was "handled very brutally" by the police.

Shoved Into Car, He Says.

"The moment they recognized me," said O'Connell, "Chief Walsh, one or two uniformed officers, and four or five plain clothes men jumped on me, threw their arms around me, and pushed me. As I got into the car one of the officers shoved me."

The congressman said he was not discouraged and would return to Jersey City at the first opportunity.

Casey later denied O'Connell was handled brutally. "O'Connell thanked me for the service performed by Jersey City police, who probably saved his life by rescuing him from the enraged crowd," he said.

The representative had no opportunity to deliver the speech he had prepared.

Crowd Estimated at 15,000.

O'Connell, upon arrival at the field, was recognized by several friends in the crowd, estimated at 15,000. Several yelled to him to go ahead with his speech. Others shouted "throw him out," and still others, "kill him," "run the Red back to Russia."

In the station, O'Connell was told that his wife, who was separated from him in the excitement, had returned to Newark with friends and was awaiting him there at the home of William Carney, regional director of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Drives from Washington.

A banned meeting in Journal square, at which O'Connell was scheduled to speak May 7, was canceled by the sponsors.

The representative had driven with Mrs. O'Connell from Washington. He was met here by representatives of the Hudson County Committee for Labor Defense and Civil Rights, the sponsoring organization.

Late tonight spokesman for the C. I. O. said that Sam Macri, sub-regional director for that organization, was found in a dazed condition at Pershing field. At a hospital it was said that he apparently was suffering from concussion of the brain.

CHIEF SUSPECT BAFFLES POLICE BY MIXED TALES

15 Seized in Slaying of Mother.

Police sought last night in the countless contradictory statements of a suspect 18 years old for some clew which might solve the mystery of the murder of Mrs. Florence Johnson. He is one of fifteen colored men seized in the investigation.

Mrs. Johnson, 34 years old, the mother of two small children and wife of a city fireman, Elmer Johnson, was beaten to death with a brick by a colored sex criminal early yesterday in her apartment at 631 Lake Park avenue.

She was found by her sister, Miss Margaret Whitton, who had been awakened as the killer was fleeing from the first floor apartment at dawn. The victim was still breathing when found in her bed, but she died of multiple fractures of the skull before the arrival of a physician living in the same building. The brick with which she was slain was found half hidden under her pillow.

Begin New Blood Tests.

Tests to determine if the blood found on the principal suspect's clothes is human blood and, if so, if it is the same type as Mrs. Johnson's were begun by Dr. Clarence Muehlberger, coroner's chemist. Seven finger prints found in the bedroom were being examined by experts for comparison with the finger prints of the suspect.

Capt. Ray Crane of the Hyde Park police said he believes the slayer is the same sex maniac who killed Miss Anne Kuchta with a brick last Aug. 21 in her room at the Chicago hospital, 811 East 49th street, a mile from the Johnson apartment. Miss Kuchta, 18 years old, was a student nurse. Both murders occurred at the same time in the morning, Crane said, and the details were almost identical. Crane said he believes the killer is a man who works nights and lives somewhere in the vicinity, committing his crimes on his way home.

Just Out of Bridewell.

The principal suspect is Robert Nixon, alias Thomas Crosby, who recently completed a ninety day term in the Bridewell for petty larceny, a charge resulting from the smashing of a store window in the neighborhood in which the Johnson slaying occurred.

He was seized five blocks from the Johnson apartment, at Ellis avenue and 47th street. Sergt. James Keeley and his detective bureau squad, speeding to the apartment to investigate, arrested him.

Nixon's appearance corresponded to the general description of the killer supplied by Miss Whitton. There were bloodspots on his clothes and blood was streaming from a fresh cut on his right hand. The knuckles of his right hand were skinned.

Nixon was taken to the detective bureau where he was questioned by John L. Sullivan, chief of detectives, Lieut. Otto Erlanson, and Sergt. McFadden, coöperating with Chief John Prendergast of the uniformed police, who has taken personal charge of the inquiry.

Fails to Explain Blood.

Nixon first said he got the blood on his hands in a fight. Later he said it came from fowls he had killed for an East 51st street butcher, but the butcher, called to verify this, said he had never seen Nixon before.

Pressed for his address, the prisoner gave numerous ones which proved fictitious. He finally said he had been sleeping in a poolroom at 217 East 51st street. The proprietor looked at him and denied ever having seen him before.

Trapped in untruth when he said he had been working as a car washer in a north side garage, he told another story: That he was on his way to his job on a WPA project on the lake front when arrested. But the police said he was walking west away from the lake.

He flatly denied that he had ever been arrested previously, until confronted with his Bridewell record.

Miss Whitton viewed Nixon and said he resembled the killer. But she was unable to identify him, as she

Judge Plucks a Cinder Out of Cupid's Eye

Mr. James F. Bransfield realized yesterday as never before that his one great mistake was in teaching Mrs. Clara Bransfield the cinder business.

This happened away back in 1918, soon after the Bransfields were married. He collected cinders from large buildings and sold them at so much a cubic yard to villages and citizens who used them for filling in streets, alleys and the like.

Clara was a good pupil. The business grew. In 1935, when she sued him for separate maintenance, she knew who his best customers were. And somehow, after she had started her own cinder business, they seemed to prefer her cinders to Mr. Bransfield's. In addition to this, she won her separate maintenance suit and Mr. B. was ordered to pay her $30 a week.

Another Cinder in His Eye.

He explained this to Judge John J. Lupe two months ago when he asked for a reduction in payments. When Mrs. B. countered with a demand for a raise, Judge Lupe set a hearing to decide who was the aggrieved party. This was the situation when the case was called yesterday. Mr. Bransfield and his attorney, a Mr. Norman Becker, were trembling in their eagerness to begin.

"Listen, your honor," said Mr. Bransfield, jerkily, "you remember that last time I told you how she got my best customer away by under bidding me a dime a yard? Well, that wasn't anything, judge. Look at this classified phone directory.

"I have always been listed as 'CINDERS, James F. Bransfield.' Understand, judge? Now this ungrateful woman has named her company the Bransfield Cinder company, so that it comes out in the book, 'CINDERS, Bransfield.' That puts it just ahead of mine in the listing and makes mine look like a branch of hers. She gets all the business now."

Judge Suggests Amalgamation.

"Smart woman!" commented Judge Lupe with feeling. "You ought to amalgamate. As a team you'd be unbeatable."

"I don't see what he could contribute to the team," snapped Mrs. B. as the spectators tittered. Mr. Bransfield reddened.

"No women partners for me," he snapped. "Not a certain one, anyway."

"Now wait a bit," said the judge. "I like the idea. It would be great for the industry as well as for you two. Come into my chambers."

When the three emerged after two hours, the judge was smiling and the Bransfields were casting shy looks at one another.

Disprove Saying Woman Pays.

"It's not definite yet," said Judge Lupe, "but I have hopes. I have ordered Mr. Bransfield to take his wife to dinner and talk it over. And she has agreed to go with him. Isn't that fine?"

"Yes, it really is," said Mr. Bransfield. "There's just one thing, though. Ah . . . Clara, darling, have you any money?"

"Well I should say not!" she said, recoiling slightly.

QUINTS 4 YEARS OLD TODAY; MAY MARK END OF PUBLIC SHOWINGS

CALLANDER, Ont., May 27.—(AP)—The Dionne quintuplets will be 4 years old tomorrow, and there were signs tonight that soon they may be shielded from the wonder that has not ceased since their birth. Their guardians are considering whether it would be wise to withdraw the little girls from their public and let them grow up as other youngsters of their age.

Indications of such a policy were said to be found in arrangements for tomorrow's birthday celebration. It is to be a quiet affair, without the international broadcasts that marked previous anniversaries.

On May 19 the quintuplets' guardians decided to reunite them with their parents and eight brothers and sisters in a new home. Callander is taking full advantage of what may be the last and largest harvest from the quints' admirers. Buildings are going up for miles around the nursery to provide overnight stopping places for tourists.

Roosevelts Must Hunt New Grocer; Old Store to Close

Washington, D. C., May 27.—(AP)—Burchell's grocery, which has been sending orders around to the White House for 82 years, is going out of business. The grocery, established in 1856, has served every White House family since then. Mrs. Norval Burchell, widow of the founder's son, said she has decided to close the doors forever.

No Hoofprints, Yet Cops Know Horse Is Horse

Patrolman Maurice Magner had never before approached the Cragin street station except by automobile or on foot. So when he rode up yesterday on a black horse his fellow policemen hurried outside to look.

After a silence Martin Foley, a veteran wagon man, said "It's a horse." The younger policemen looked at one another and repeated, "It's a horse."

Patrolman Magner dismounted stiffly and explained he had found the animal wandering on his beat in the vicinity of Narragansett avenue and the Milwaukee railroad tracks. Desk Sergeant Roy Steffen said he guessed he'd better call up somebody.

A Horse Without a Horn.

"I don't know who you'll call," said Foley. "The city hasn't got any place for stray horses nowadays. We had better prepare to keep him here a while. I'll see about getting him some feed."

But a canvass of establishments in the area that once sold hay and oats disclosed none for sale. The proprietors of the establishments explained that they only drive automobiles and that automobiles do not use hay.

When Foley got back to the station he was considerably irritated to find some of his fellows offering the horse sandwiches and doughnuts. But it was all right. The horse had said "Neigh."

Rustle Up Some Grass.

So, while Desk Sergeant Steffen was calling up every one he could think of to find out what to do with the big fellow, Foley led an expedition to nearby lots to pull grass for him. After a couple of hours of this the horse began to look quite well fed and contented. Then Sergt. Steffen dashed out, his face radiant.

"I have a place to send him," he said. "The dog pound!"

Nixon steadfastly denied any connection with the crime, but police were puzzled by his many contradictions.

Coöperation of the firemen in tracking down the killer was pledged to Mrs. Johnson's husband at the inquest, which opened in the undertaking rooms at 4227 Cottage Grove avenue. Chief Charles Crane of the 11th fire battalion and Capt. James Hughes, Johnson's superiors, headed a delegation of firemen which came to lend him courage.

"We have to get that killer," Crane said. "It's terrible when a fireman on duty saving life and protecting property comes home to find his wife murdered."

Johnson, who is 33 years old, told the family history to Anthony Prusinski and Eugene S. Ingles, deputy coroners. They continued the inquest until June 28 to allow time for police investigation.

Johnson and Miss Whitton took the children after the inquest to the home of her brother, John Whitton of 824 East 44th street. The children, Florence, 3 years old, and Kenneth, 5, called frequently for their mother, unaware of the tragedy which had overtaken her.

Residents of the vicinity said there have been prowlers about for several months.

A Negro prowler was driven away from the rear of the Wesley Memorial hospital early today by police shots. Policeman Joseph Hahn, who is assigned to watch the hospital, located at 2449 South Dearborn street, noticed the man in the alley. As he approached, the prowler fled and Hahn fired several shots. The suspect got away, but Hahn reported he might have been wounded.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 27.—Porto Rico's longshoremen, who were out on strike for six weeks early this year, won annual wage increases estimated to exceed $500,000 under an arbitration board award, made public today. It fixed a base scale at 45 cents an hour for regular work and 65 cents an hour for overtime. The award did not grant a closed shop, but ruled against discharges for union activities. The old wage scale was 32 cents an hour for regular work and 47 cents an hour for overtime.

BOARDER SHOOTS GIRL DEVOTEE OF SWING; KILLS SELF

"Get something better," he commanded.

Adeline Meskanas, 16 years old, and her brother, Vincent, 14, whose parents were out, were slow in obeying. They cut down the volume, but left the same station on.

A few minutes later, Shablansky emerged from his room. The young people hastily turned off the radio, but too late. The boarder had a pistol in his one hand and fired, twice. One bullet struck the girl in the chest. The boy escaped. Adeline ran to a nearby drug store, collapsed and was taken to Evangelical hospital, where her condition was regarded as critical.

Policemen went to he home. They found Shablansky dead. He had fired a bullet into his head.

men on May 10, when the liner last sailed from here, and fled to Germany where he found refuge. He had been termed a leader of American Nazis and particularly was wanted for questioning in the inquiry.

The physician was drawn into the case through discovery of a copy of a code, believed to have come from Miss Johanna Hofmann, 28 years old, the hair dresser on the Europa. The code was found in Dr. Griebl's home.

Six days before the grand jury convened, the doctor vanished. It was later learned he had gone to Germany without a passport. Being a naturalized American, he was arrested, but was released upon payment of a fine of sixty marks. Later, he was granted permission to practice medicine in Germany so federal authorities here despaired of ever seeing him again.

Two Soldiers Arrested.

The others arrested were the two soldiers, Erich Glaser, 28 years old, a private stationed at Mitchel field, and Guenther Gustave Rumrich, 27 years old, an army sergeant and a deserter, and Otto Herman Voss, a naturalized German mechanic who was employed in the Seversky aircraft plant at Farmingdale, N. Y.

Glaser and Rumrich were held in the federal house of detention in lieu of bonds of $25,000 set on charges of espionage. Rumrich implicated Miss Hofmann, who was seized when a search of her baggage divulged letters containing offers of $1,000 for plans of the navy's new aircraft carriers, Enterprise and Yorktown.

Hold British Girl as Spy Suspect.

New Orleans, La., May 27.—[Special.]—A young British woman who admitted she had been traveling about the country taking photographs of air fields was held by federal authorities today on suspicion of espionage for a foreign country.

The suspect, Sylvia Bradshaw, 23 years old, was seized after an unnamed Shreveport woman told federal officials there the girl had taken pictures at Barksdale field, Shreveport, and sent frequent air mail letters to Germany.

Miss Bradshaw was arrested on a technical charge of violating her permission to enter this country.

FARMERS WANT NO TRUCK WITH FIRE FIGHTERS

Yesterday they filed a petition with the County court of Lake county demanding that their property be removed from the list of taxpayers in the Wauconda fire protection district. They explained that they're too far away for the firemen to reach them in time if a blaze should start; and, further, their wells are so small the engines couldn't pump enough water to do any good.

Advocates of the fire department argued that it could even haul water in tanks at sixty miles an hour should the necessity arise, but the farmers were not convinced. They said the $8 or $9 each pays annually would buy a substantial amount of insurance. Judge Perry L. Persons will pass on the matter today.

YOUTH IS FREED AS SLAYER OF HIS SWEETHEART, 18

New York, May 27.—[Special.]—Donald Carroll, 16 years old, slayer of his sweetheart, Charlotte Matthiesen, 18 years old, was found not guilty by reason of insanity by a jury after deliberating three hours tonight.

Carroll had admitted shooting Charlotte in an uncompleted suicide pact after they decided it was the only way out when discovered she was to become a mother. Although freed of the murder charge, he was held for a sanity test.

There was an uproar in the crowded courtroom as the all-male jury's verdict was announced by the foreman in Queens County court. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Matthiesen, parents of the slain girl, were among the first to embrace the boy after the verdict.

HURL LIE CHARGE AT POLICE AGAIN IN SCANDAL TRIAL

State Charges Testimony Is Perjured.

Another bitter attack on the veracity of two suspended detectives of the Town Hall station was made yesterday at the trial of Kenneth Peters, central figure in a police scandal. A jury in the court of Judge Robert Jerome Dunne is expected to decide today whether Peters is guilty of attempted robbery.

Testimony of the detectives, Frank A. McKune and Earl Flannery, has been in many respects directly opposed to that of other witnesses. They are awaiting trial on indictments charging conspiracy and permitting Peters and another man to escape after they had been arrested.

Charges Witness Is Lying.

While Flannery was on the stand yesterday Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford told the court that if the McKune-Flannery testimony was allowed to stand unchallenged the jury would be justified in returning a verdict of not guilty.

"I want to show that this witness is lying," he said. "He has a motive for his story, which is packed with lies."

Peters' alleged crime was committed on Feb. 26. That evening James J. Burke, 69 years old, a hanger on in a bookmaking establishment, was halted at Dover street and Leland avenue by two men. One was Peters; the other a man identified only as Tip.

Two uniformed policemen, Harold Thompson and Peter Frank, arrived opportunely and arrested Peters and Tip. They testified that both men carried pistols and had forced Burke to raise his hands. Burke has testified to the same effect.

Detectives Take Prisoner.

While the five men were standing together McKune and Flannery, both of whom were off duty, approached. They offered to take the prisoners to the station, although Flannery asked first that Peters, his friend, be "given a pass" [allow a prisoner to go free]. The offer was accepted and McKune and Flannery drove away with the pair, who were released a little later without any charge being placed against them.

The detectives have insisted that no pistols were given them by Thompson and Frank. Thompson and Frank contradicted this under oath. They said also they had told the detectives the prisoners were robbers. This was denied by McKune and Flannery, who said they were told "it was just a pickup."

Prosecutor Crawford asked Flannery why he was telling a story he hadn't told when questioned March 2.

"Was it because you hadn't framed it then?" he demanded.

Decides to Tell "Truth."

"I never dirtied up a brother police officer in my life," Flannery replied. "But when I found out they were conniving against me I decided to tell the truth. They got me suspended and you'd think I was poison."

The witness also declared that the freeing of the prisoners was carried out with the consent of Policeman Erwin Smith, squad leader of Thompson and Frank. He said that he, Smith, McKune, Thompson, and Peters all discussed the matter in a saloon at 3447 Sheffield avenue and that Smith demanded money [which he said was refused].

Smith, called to the stand, denied all this flatly. He had not been in the saloon, he asserted, hadn't talked to the suspended detectives on the subject, and hadn't asked for money. The defense produced two bartenders and the dice girl from the saloon. These witnesses, Lawrence Milne, Bernard O'Malley, and Clara Orzeske, all swore that Smith had been in the saloon the evening of Feb. 26 and had conferred with Flannery, Peters, and McKune.

Lieut. R. A. Goudie of the Town Hall station, testifying for the defense, said that Burke told him he had not seen a pistol at the time of the supposed holdup and hadn't ben told to hold up his hands.

Burke recently returned to Chicago after a long absence and admitted he had been paid to stay away. His employer, William Nichols, bookmaker, who paid him to flee, has been arrested on a charge of conspiracy to obstruct justice. Charged with aiding Nichols are George Gardner and his wife, Edna, of 936 Wilson avenue.

Attorneys George Crane and Harold Levy said that Peters, who has claimed he was only trying to collect a gambling debt from Burke, will take the stand this morning.

Star Rescues Star

MYRNA LOY.

CLARK GABLE.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 27.—[Special.]—Clark Gable today was given credit for quick witted action that saved red-haired Myrna Loy from possible death or serious injury in an accident on a set where the two are co-starring in "Too Hot to Handle."

The mishap came during a closeup shot of the crash of an airplane in which Miss Loy was supposed to be making a round-the-world flight. Gable, as a newsreel camera man, was making a picture of the crash, standing on top of an ambulance with his camera.

An intricate system of pipes led to the scene, and through the pipes was propelled an inflammable, smoke producing fluid. It was a windy night, and just as the scene was being filmed the wind changed, sending a huge volume of flame and smoke into the plane where Miss Loy was seated.

Gable leaped from the ambulance, raced through the smoke and flame to the plane, and carried Miss Loy to safety. Neither was injured, although both received emergency treatment due to smoke they had inhaled. Their faces and costumes were scorched.

PATH OF BULLET BECOMES ISSUE IN CRABB'S TRIAL

Quiz Sherif on Unusual Angle of Fatal Shot.

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pekin, Ill., May 27.—[Special.]—The course of the bullet that killed Betty Collison Crabb became an important issue today in the manslaughter trial of her young husband, James Warner Crabb II.

Betty Crabb was fatally wounded early in the morning of March 1 in her bedroom in the Delavan home of her father-in-law, Willis Crabb, wealthy banker, with whom the young Crabbs lived. The tragedy occurred shortly after she and James returned from a gay party celebrating their wedding of five weeks before.

Trace Course of Bullet.

Established in Circuit court here today by a witness for the state was the fact that the bullet which passed through the young bride's body emerged at a point lower than it entered. Established, too, was the fact that it continued through a headboard of the bed, penetrated a wall, and splattered on an areaway wall at a point two inches higher than on the headboard.

But where would it of necessity have started?

Defense Attorney J. M. Powers sought to bring this before the jury in a withering cross-examination of Sherif Ralph C. Goar, a star witness for the state. He asked the sherif a series of almost fifty questions, to most of which the prosecution objected strenuously and successfully.

Sherif Important Witness.

As the man who found the heavy .45 caliber Colt revolver, an old frontier model that weighs five pounds, secreted between the mattress and headboard of the dead girl's bed, Sherif Goar, a slow spoken, deliberate man in a natty gray suit, was an important witness for the state.

He found the gun, traced its course through holes in the woodwork, and then—that morning of March 1—talked to young Crabb, who told him his bride had killed herself. All of this he told on direct examination to an audience that, despite its familiarity with all details, listened avidly.

Like most of the audience, most of the jury, young Crabb, and Prosecutor John E. Cassidy, Sherif Goar was chewing gum. But, whereas Crabb's chewing was furtive, with one long, well tended hand cupped over his mouth, and that of the jury and fans pure mechanical abandon, Sherif Goar's, like his voice, was slowly deliberate.

Questioned About Angle.

When, however, Defense Attorney Powers tore into him he apparently hid his chewing gum in one corner of his mouth, for the chewing stopped.

"Did you determine the angle at which the bullet penetrated the wall?" Powers asked as Prosecutor Cassidy objected.

"Not the angle," Goar said. "The direction."

Q.—What was the angle at which it hit the wall? A.—All I can say is it was slightly higher than the one on the bed.

Q.—No crookedness about the hole through the bed was there? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Yet the bullet came out in the areaway two inches higher? A.—Some higher, yes.

Young Crabb Laughs.

Q.—When you looked through that hole, what part of the bed would you see? A. [solemnly]—It depends on how close you get to the hole.

As even young Crabb, his usually impassive face gay, laughed at this sally, Goar looked about in injured innocence.

Q.—Isn't it true that you would see a point eighteen inches from the foot——

Defense Attorney Tries Again.

After the recess Attorney Powers tried it again, rephrasing his questions. Again Cassidy objected, and at length. Judge Joseph E. Daily finally ruled it improper cross-examination.

On continued cross-examination Goar denied vigorously that he had ever termed the tragedy a "clear case of suicide."

Asked about the location of the bullet wound in the girl's back, as compared to that in her chest, Goar said he thought them the same. Two later witnesses, A. C. Hoghton, Delavan undertaker, and Dr. A. Nelson Wright Jr., county coroner, testified that the wound in the back was lower and a little to the right.

In the testimony of Dr. Ernest C. Burhans, coroner's physician, the state established several important facts, all contradictory to the suicide theory.

The dead girl's hands, he testified, were free from bruises, burns, or powder marks, while powder specks, sootlike in appearance, encircled the wound in an area two and a half inches in diameter.

"What was the cause of death?" Prosecutor Cassidy asked solemnly.

Describes Search for Gun.

On direct examination, Sherif Goar told of going to the Willis Crabb home the morning of March 1, and of his minute search for a gun in the room where Betty Crabb lay dead.

He looked on the floor, on the dresser, and even under the bed clothing and body of the girl, he said. Finally, lifting up the mattress above her head, he saw the weapon, lying with the barrel down between the headboard and the mattress, he testified.

Q.—[By Cassidy]—Was the gun visible until after you pulled the mattress back. A.—It was not.

When Cassidy handed Goar a .45 calibre Colt single action revolver for identification, even young Crabb, who had been rubbing his eyes throughout the morning, craned his head forward. So did the jury.

HELD FOR RAPE OF DIVORCEE, 27.

Edward Macis, 4528 South Rockwell street, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $2,500 yesterday in the Felony court on a charge of rape made by a divorcée, 27 years old.

FIND PLANE CAUGHT FIRE IN AIR BEFORE CRASH FATAL TO TEN

Cleveland, O., May 27.—(AP)—United Air Lines officials today substantiated witness' accounts that the luxury sleeper plane which crashed Tuesday night, killing 10, was afire before it plunged to the ground.

W. A. Patterson, president, said an investigation disclosed evidence of a cylinder breakage in the right engine followed by a localized oil-fed fire. Patterson said company officials believe Pilot James Brandon of the ill fated plane had acted promptly to seek an emergency landing when the trouble developed, and evidence indicated the landing wheels were lowered.

MEXICAN REBEL CHIEF TRAPPED IN AIR; HE ESCAPES

Gen. Cedillo Lands Plane and Flees on Foot.

SAN LUIS POTOSI, Mexico, May 27.—(AP)—Federal government aviators today forced down an airplane carrying Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, rebel commander.

Cedillo, whose peasant army has clashed with federal troops for a week, fled with five followers.

Troops on Trail.

Cedillo, rightist foe of President Lazaro Cardenas' radical Mexico for Mexicans program, was said to have made a hurried takeoff when a federal force surprised him and a band of his followers in the rugged Huasteca hill country of San Luis Potosi state.

Twelve federal airplanes started in pursuit from San Luis Potosi and when news of the forced landing was received here infantrymen were sent out in trucks. The troops reported they had found Cedillo's plane abandoned.

Last of His Air Force.

A government spokesman said the capture of the Cedillo plane spelled the last of the rebel leader's two-plane air force. They said his other plane was seized earlier in the week by federal troops.

Cedillo, head of Mexico's last private army, long has been at odds with Cardenas, from whose cabinet he resigned last August as secretary of agriculture in protest against the president's agrarian program.

After the Cedillo revolt began a week ago President Cardenas charged that Cedillo had sought the aid of the 18 American and British oil companies whose property was expropriated by the government on March 18. The government announced it had uncovered documents showing Cedillo had promised return of the expropriated $400,000,000 properties to the owners in return for aid.

SPENDING ENDED MIGHT OF ROME, SENATORS TOLD

Comparisons Made with Pump Priming.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—[Special.]—During a lull in the Democratic row over the use of relief funds for political purposes, senate Republicans today took up the fight against President Roosevelt's $3,247,000,000 spending and lending pump priming bill, which is in the form of a joint resolution.

They gave the senate a lesson in Roman history, citing eminent authorities to show that the distribution of largess as a means of ingratiating Cæsar with the masses undermined the republic and led to absolutism and ruin.

"Spending huge sums of the people's money is a classic method of undermining republics," said Senator Warren R. Austin [R., Vt.]. "Borrowing and spending and busting the nation's business paves the way for autocracy. It breaks the morale of youth. It lowers the standard of ideals. It encourages pauperism. It softens and weakens character. It bankrupts industry. It prepares the people as does nothing else for 'security,' as it is called, on a low level, at any cost—even at the cost of liberty."

Quotes Roman Law Authority.

Senator Austin quoted from an article by Dr. J. C. Dorsey, Roman law authority of the Catholic University of America, thus:

"'Caesar controled the treasury of Rome and personally had the administration of all financial and monetary matters. He had his own tax collectors. A multitude of citizens had been fed by doles of food, which probably kept them from starvation, and this part of the population had to be continued to be fed. Under Sempronian law, every Roman citizen settled in Rome possessed a legal right to bread and corn. The cost was enormous. . .

"'Caesar distributed largess as a means of ingratiating himself with the mob. In order to pay for the dole, he took the rich booty he had seized in Gaul, the stock of cash in the Roman treasury, the treasures taken from Italian and Spanish temples, amounts raised by forced loans, excessive fines, confiscated estates and peremptory orders to pay drawn on those he picked for that purpose. Caesar also spent immense amounts on buildings.'

"You see," said Senator Austin, "the combination existed there that we have here in this joint resolution."

Representative Despotism.

Quoting from Leckie's "History of European Morals," Senator Austin continued: "'The theory of the Roman empire was that of a representative despotism. The various offices of the republic were not annihilated, but they were gradually concentrated in a single man.' That is, they had a reorganization. 'The senate was still ostensibly the depository of the supreme power, but it was made in fact the mere creature of the emperor, whose power was virtually uncontrolled.' That sounds quite modern, doesn't it?"

Senator Wallace White [R., Maine], drawing upon his knowledge of the historian Gibbon, recalled that the Roman emperors attempted at first to bind the Praetorian guard to themselves with public money.

"When they lost complete confidence in the Praetorian guard," he said, "they took the public money and sought to buy the loyalty of the Roman legions. Then other emperors, still taking public money, purchased the senate of Rome. In summary, Gibbon says that the use of public money, demoralizing the armed forces of the nation, the senate of the nation, and the people of Rome, was the greatest single influence leading to the downfall of the empire."

Centralization of Power.

"Another bad thing about this joint resolution," said Senator Austin, resuming, "is the centralization of power, not merely in Washington, but in the person of the chief executive of the United States—power over the lives and welfare of individuals in the several states, a thing which is away beyond the constitution."

Senator Austin supported the amendment of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], proposing federal grants in aid to states for relief purposes. The states would put up 33 1-3 per cent of the amount received from the federal government, and funds would be administered, either for work or direct relief, as local authorities should determine, by non-partisan boards.

That is the only way, the Republicans contend, to prevent the juggling of relief projects for political purposes and to eliminate waste.

TO IMPROVE KEOKUK PARKS.

Keokuk, Ia., May 27.—[Special.]—A federal grant of $21,278 has been made to this city for the improvement of its park system.

GARMENT UNION VOTES TO KEEP C. I. O. ALLIANCE

Minneapolis, Minn., May 27.—(AP)—The executive board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union voted today to continue its alliance with the Committee for Industrial Organization, but to defer action on participation in a convention to form a permanent national C. I. O. organization as a rival of the American Federation of Labor until such a convention actually is called.

The board expressed deep regret over the breakdown of the peace overtures last December and named Vice Presidents Luigi Antonini, Isidore Nagler, and Julius Hochman as a committee to seek the reopening of the peace conference.

Money Exchange Manager Foils Robbers, Saves $8,000

Quick thinking by Ben Glick, manager of a currency exchange at 3632 South Ashland avenue, saved $8,000 yesterday when two gunmen appeared at the counter window. Knowing the window was made of bullet-proof glass and the partition door was securely locked, Glick dropped to the floor and crawled to a back room to get a gun. When he came out the bandits had fled.

Oklahoma Back in Good Graces of Security Board

Washington, D. C., May 27.—(AP)—The social security board restored to Oklahoma today federal grants for assistance to aged persons, dependent children, and the blind. The grants were cut off last March when the board found that the administrative machinery for the operation of the state social security plan did not conform to federal standards.

ROOSEVELT HITS TAX BILL—BUT LETS IT BE LAW

Senator Harrison Will Reply to President.

ing policies, calling "the awakening of the social conscience of America" the outstanding achievement of his administration. Before him, he said, there was nothing but "a beautiful dream" of the "ideals of ending child labor, of initiating a five day week, of shortening working hours, of putting a floor under wages, of clearing slums, of bringing electricity into homes, and of giving families the chance to build or buy a home on easy terms, of starting old age pensions and unemployment insurance.

Hopes to Keep Ball Rolling.

The President said the government had done little more than to "start the ball rolling," but hoped "that private capital and business men will see how much it is to their own advantage—and profit—to keep the ball rolling."

"Now, of course," said the President, "pending the time that private capital and private enterprise will take up the burden, the money government thus spends to encourage the nation to live better—especially that part of the nation which most needs it—is taxpayers' money."

That brought the President to the question of taxes. "Taxes, local and state and federal combined," he said, "are not near as high in this country as they are in any other great nation that pretends to be up to date."

What President Condemns.

Briefly, the provisions of the new tax law which Mr. Roosevelt condemned are:

1. The capital gains tax. The old system of tax capital gains as ordinary income is retained only for short term gains, from assets held less than 18 months, and there is a provision for the carry-over of losses to offset gains in the following year. On gains from assets held from 18 months to two years the taxpayer may pay a flat rate of 20 per cent, and on gains from assets held more than two years he may pay a flat rate of 15 per cent.

2. The undistributed profits tax. All corporations earning $25,000 or less will be exempt, paying flat rates ranging from 12½ to 16 per cent. On corporations earning more than $25,000 the rate will range from a maximum of 19 per cent, if no dividends are distributed, to a minimum of 16½ per cent if all earnings are paid out in dividends. The penalty tax on undistributed earnings thus is only 2½ per cent, as compared with the maximum of 27 per cent under the old law.

The President said the undistributed profits tax was adopted in 1936 because many large corporations, particularly those owned or controled by a small number of rich stockholders, were in the habit of withholding profits to avoid surtaxes on the share holders. By permitting the earnings to accumulate, he said, the stockholders paid only the normal corporation income tax of from 10 to 15 per cent, whereas they would pay surtaxes of 50 per cent or even more if they withdrew the profits in dividends. He blamed the senate amendments for the inequities of the law adopted in 1936 to end the "loophole" of which he spoke.

Old Bill Curbed Expansion.

"In principle, our objective was right, but in practice, the act, as finally worked out in the senate, undoubtedly did prevent many small corporations from normal and reasonable expansion, from building up adequate surpluses, or from paying off old debts," he said.

The new tax bill, said Mr. Roosevelt, "sought to get rid of these inequitable features, but to retain at the same time the principle of stopping tax avoidance. As finally passed, the bill retains that principle, but the penalty for withholding dividends to stockholders is so small—only 2½ per cent at the most—that it is doubtful whether it will wholly eliminate the old tax avoidance practices of the past."

Coming to the capital gains tax provision, Mr. Roosevelt said it had been recognized for a number of years that the "progressive taxation of wealth realistically should apply not only to salaries and dividends and bond coupons, but also to other forms of wealth, such as increase in one's capital by selling any form of property at a profit."

"This new bill," he said, "wholly eliminates the progressive tax principle with respect to these capital profits. It takes small capital profits and large capital profits at exactly the same rate.

Explains How It Works.

"In other words, if you and I sell stocks, which we have held for a few years, at a profit of, let us say, $5,000, we have to pay a tax of 15 per cent on that profit; whereas the man who has made a profit of $500,000 on stocks he has owned is required, under this new bill, to pay a tax of only 15 per cent, just as you and I would. Nobody, by any stretch of the imagination, can say that this new provision maintains the principle of payment in proportion to ability to pay.

"Some people who have favored this abandonment of principle have justified their position on the ground that one has to abandon principles once in a while when there is an emergency and that the abandonment of this particular principle will encourage many rich men to take a risk with their capital and invest it in new enterprises.

"But this school of thought finds it difficult to answer the fact that almost all—about 80 per cent of all capital gains reported—are profits made in the stock market—profits made not by developing new companies, but by buying stocks of old companies low and selling them high, or by the still possible method of selling stocks short—selling stock you do not own—and then buying them in at a lower price."

TWO GANGSTERS UPSET DEFENSE OF TAMMANY AID

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 27.—[Special.]—Defense plans for James J. Hines, powerful Democratic leader accused of protecting the 100 million dollar a year policy racket, were upset today when two strong arm hoodlums unexpectedly pleaded guilty. Their action made it appear certain the pair would testify for the state against the political boss.

The pleas of guilty were entered by George Weinberg and Harry Schoenhaus, lieutenants of the late gang chieftain, Arthur [Dutch Schultz] Flegenheimer. Their story in court, it was reported, will substantiate the indictment against Hines and others that the policy racket developed into a big business through a corrupt alliance between the underworld and New York officialdom.

The two pleaded guilty of twelve felony counts and one conspiracy charge accusing them of contriving, drawing, and proposing lotteries.

Sentence Is Withheld.

Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora withheld sentence and paroled the two gangsters to the custody of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, vigorous young prosecutor of New York racketeers. Hines, a Tammany aid who has been the Roosevelt administration's chief patronage dispenser in Manhattan, is the biggest game Dewey has ever attempted to bag.

J. Richard [Dixie] Davis, attorney for the Schultz gang whom Dewey accused of taking over the policy game enterprise after his chief was killed, pleaded not guilty during the court appearance today. The same plea was entered by Martin Weintraub, another attorney for the gang. Hines pleaded not guilty yesterday.

Both Hines and Weintraub are out on bonds of $20,000, while Davis has been in jail the last two months, unable to supply bail of $75,000. The high bail was set in his case because he had been a fugitive for nearly a year, until Dewey's men trapped him in a hideout at Philadelphia with Hope Dare, a show girl companion, and Weinberg. A trial date has not yet been set in the case.

Hines Believed Through.

Meanwhile, political wiseacres about the city were wagering today that Hines is through as a political power in Tammany Hall, although some federal patronage may be still thrown his way. Hines is hanging onto his leadership of the populous district which embraces the Harlem slums, Columbia university, and the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Before the court convened, the story went the rounds that it would be Davis who would turn on Hines to save his own skin. Davis, immaculately dressed in a powder blue suit, but handcuffed, was asked about this as he entered the courtroom.

"That's too ridiculous to answer," he snapped.

Evansville, Ind., May 27.—[Special.]—The body of a woman, believed to be that of Mrs. Graham Budurant of Vevay, Ind., was taken from the Ohio river at Newburgh today. Mrs. Budurant has been missing since Feb. 18 when she was on her way to a grocery.

DREAMS HUSBAND HAS A SECOND WIFE AND GETS ON HIS TRAIL

When the name of Mrs. Marion Carey, 32 years old, of 7631 South Hermitage avenue, was called in Judge Charles A. Williams' court yesterday she did not answer. Her attorney, Charles E. Cooley, stepped up to explain why she was not there to get her scheduled divorce from William P. Carey, a contractor.

"Mrs. Carey had a dream, your honor," said Cooley. "She dreamed that she saw her husband being married. Two days after the dream she saw him on the street and he told her not to bother about this divorce; that it was an unnecessary formality. Finally Mrs. Carey got an anonymous letter leading her to believe Mr. Carey had been married recently in Albert Lea, Minn. She has gone up there to investigate."

"This court does not believe in dreams," said Judge Williams. "Have Mrs. Carey here on June 6." Then he added, "The court would, er, that is, I would like to know what she found out."

DE VALERA CALLS FOR ELECTION OF NEW PARLIAMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, May 27.—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera surprised Dublin tonight with an announcement that a general election will be held on June 17.

De Valera, in announcing the election, said the precarious position of the government for the last year, when it has had the support of only half of parliament, was unsatisfactory. This, he said, he had tried to remedy on two occasions, but owing to the system of proportional representation he had not succeeded. He now proposed to make a further effort.

The installation of Dr. Douglas Hyde as president of Ireland, which had been set for June 1, was postponed.

A Remorseful Wife Finds a Loving Husband Waiting

A near tragedy brought a husband and wife together again yesterday. The wife, Mrs. Mary Wright, 23 years old, slashed her wrists and tried to leap from a window when police found her with a man companion in the Stevens hotel Thursday night. In Women's court yesterday her husband, Kenneth Wright, 1812 Washington boulevard, said she had left him a year ago. "But I still love her," he added, "and I want her back." Judge John V. McCormick freed her and, remorseful, she turned to her husband. They went away arm in arm.

Agnes Hess said her sister had been in good health, but when she returned to their apartment she found Julia prostrate on the bed. She died as she was being removed to a hospital. Police gave a box of patent medicine tablets found in the room to the county chemist for analysis. An autopsy was ordered.

Dr. Morgan Challenges Foe in Battle Over TVA

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—[Special.]—While a congressional investigating committee today studied a great mass of evidence concerning mismanagement of the Tennessee Valley authority, Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, ousted chairman, promised more revelations as soon as he is permitted access to TVA records.

These records now are under the control of Dr. Morgan's two avowed enemies, David E. Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan, TVA directors who have the backing of President Roosevelt.

Dr. Morgan to See Records.

The committee, headed by Senator Vic Donahey [Dem., O.], already has voted to permit Dr. Morgan to inspect the authority's records. When the former chairman inquired when he was to be permitted to make this examination, Senator Donahey informed him that a committee investigator might be appointed next week to go with Dr. Morgan to Knoxville, Tenn., and view the files.

In a two day hearing completed yesterday, Dr. Morgan charged his former colleagues with dishonest management, collusion, and conspiracy to cover up matters that should have become public, and deceitful publicity concerning the operations of the TVA. Lilienthal replied with a blast accusing Dr. Morgan of tampering with government witnesses in the recent Tennessee case involving the constitutionality of the TVA.

Denies He Dominated.

Dr. Morgan today addressed an open letter to Harcourt Morgan to disprove a charge that he had attempted to dominate the board.

"With access to TVA records, I shall reply in detail to the other statements of you and Mr. Lilienthal," Dr. Morgan wrote. "When I make them, these replies will illustrate other examples of the 'moral climate' which has so handicapped relations in the TVA."

The letter was addressed to Harcourt Morgan as "vice chairman," although he became the new chairman of the board when President Roosevelt fired Dr. Morgan for refusing to give to none but a congressional committee the details of his charges. Dr. Morgan signed the letter as "chairman." He still considers himself the chairman of the board despite President Roosevelt's action, he explained, although he would not say whether he intends to sue in the courts for his job.

Lauds Cement Purchases.

"In testifying yesterday before the joint committee investigating the TVA, you stated that some of my proposals were 'alarming, to say the least,' and were impracticable and highly visionary," Dr. Morgan wrote to the other Morgan.

"You assailed the planning of a cement plant as 'visionary.' That resulted in an agreement with cement manufacturers which saved the TVA over a million dollars on a large contract and set a lower level of prices for other government purchases of cement."

Answering the charge that he had attempted to dominate the board from the first, Dr. Morgan wrote that a great mass of business was on hand after the organization of the board, but that Harcourt Morgan was closing up his work at the University of Tennessee and Lilienthal had to go to Wisconsin. Dr. Morgan was the only one present to do the work, he said.

Ready to Name Investigators.

The committee will meet next week to plan the organization of a large staf of investigators. After the adjournment of congress, the members will probably go to Tennessee to inspect the wide flung project. Public hearings will not be resumed for a month or more.

IRWIN'S MEMORY FOR FACES GETS A ROBBER INTO JAIL

When Irwin Stand, 18 years old, messenger boy for a south side liquor store, saw a man loitering in Parnell avenue yesterday he thought he looked remarkably like the one who stuck a gun in his ribs on May 19 and robbed him of $3. Stand telephoned Edward Flannigan, 19, of 5525 South Green street, who had had a similar experience. Flannigan looked at the loiterer from around a corner and also recognized him.

Just then Policemen Martin Dugan, Paul Johnson, and Jacob Cramer of the Pekin Inn station drove up. Stand and Flannigan pointed out the man and the police, after recalling the description of the bandit who has held up numerous south side messenger boys in recent weeks, arrested him.

The prisoner said his name was Myron Tittenger. He was identified later by three other youths and locked up in jail.

2 COUPLES WAGE COURT FIGHT FOR TRAILER CHILD, 3

Father Gives Up Jimmy, the Cemetery Waif.

A chubby, red cheeked boy of 3 years listened unconcernedly yesterday in the County court while witnesses told of his birth in a squalid trailer parked in a cemetery, of his young mother's death there soon afterward, and of his eventual removal from the custody of his father, a man 72 years old.

The child, James D. Palmer Jr., is the object of a heated adoption trial contest between two childless couples. They are Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Grant of 11309 South Spaulding avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ytsma of 3455 West 111th street, who say they have the consent of the boy's father.

Aunt Fights for Child.

Mrs. Grant, 22 years old, is a sister of the boy's dead mother. The Ytsmas, who are in their 40s, have cared for him since Oct. 21, when Dr. Leonard M. Lorance, who was in attendance at Jimmy's birth, interceded for them with the father. When the Grants learned of this last January they filed an adoption petition and the Ytsmas filed a counter action.

Mrs. Grant testified yesterday before Judge Win G. Knoch of Naperville, sitting in the County court, that on Feb. 2, 1935, she learned from officials of Holy Sepulchre cemetery, 111th street and Ridgeland avenue, in Worth, that her half sister had died there in Palmer's trailer after giving birth to a son.

She found the trailer, she said, near a well Palmer was digging in the cemetery. She described the trailer as a large homemade wooden box, covered with tarpaper and mounted on wheels. Inside there was room only for a wood stove, a cupboard, and a cot. On the cot lay the baby and the body of its mother.

Nurses Baby to Health.

Mrs. Grant testified that she took the baby away and that doctors stated it was critically ill. She nursed it to health, keeping it until the father moved into Kane county, to dig wells at golf clubs. Here the testimony was taken up by Mrs. Isabel Doxey, Kane county probation officer.

On receiving complaints in 1936 that a child was being kept in unhealthful surroundings in a trailer, she investigated Palmer's rolling home, she declared. She found it dirty inside and out, she said, adding that at the time of her visit the unventilated box had been heated to 110 degrees by a roaring fire in the stove and that Jimmy, who had been left unattended, was near suffocation.

On the strength of her report, she stated, County Judge Olney Allen of Kane county, said he would declare the child to be dependent and neglected and would take it from the father unless he made other arrangements for its care.

Nomad Father Gives Him Up.

Jimmy then was sent in succession to the homes of half a dozen relatives and friends of the father, eventually passing into custody of the Ytsmas. The Grant's petition for adoption stated that Palmer is an unfit guardian for the child because of his nomadic life as a well digger, because of his age and because he abuses the boy.

The father, who has agreed that Jimmy should have a better home than the trailer, denies that he was ever cruel to him. Ytsma is a carpentry contractor and Grant is a clerk for the surface lines. The hearing will be resumed before Judge Knoch Tuesday morning.

ANOTHER DETOUR BLOCKS ROAD TO MARITAL BLISS

When Mrs. Hattie Hicks, 35 years old, of 3859 North Spaulding avenue appeared yesterday before Judge Philip J. Finnegan to ask that her husband, John, a contractor, pay her temporary alimony until there is a ruling on her divorce bill, his attorney, Daniel Madden, explained that Mrs. Hicks had received a settlement of $1,500.

"But, your honor," protested Norman Becker, her attorney, "that was in 1926. They remarried in 1928 and Mr. Hicks used this money to live on until they separated in 1930. After a separate maintenance bill was dismissed in 1931 and they went back together——"

"Just a minute," Judge Finnegan interrupted. "How many of these separations and suits and things have there been?"

"Eleven," replied Becker.

"This sets a record, I think," said the judge. "But one thing is clear. This woman is entitled to temporary alimony. Make it $10 a week.

TRUCE RESTORES PEACE IN RUBBER STRIKE AT AKRON

Agree to Permit Pickets; Avert Transit Tieup.

Akron, O., May 27.—(AP)—Extra police withdrew tonight and a normal picket line was ordered established at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company under a strike truce arranged by a national labor relations board official.

James P. Miller, NLRB regional director, announced after conferences with company, city, and C. I. O. United Rubber Workers union officials that a peace conference would be held tomorrow.

Police to Regulate Trafic.

Miller said the agreement permitted a normal picket line and provided that only enough policemen remain to regulate trafic at the two mile long plants, where eighty persons were injured, one seriously, in rioting early today.

The truce apparently averted threat of a city-wide transportation strike, agreed on by a joint C. I. O.-A. F. of L. committee.

The last shift of workers slowly filtered through the plant gates tonight for the usual week-end shutdown. Miller said the company agreed work would not be resumed before 6 a. m. Tuesday.

Union Warning Given.

T. C. Dethloff, business agent of the A. F. of L. Truck Drivers Joint council, and A. L. Calhoun, official of the C. I. O. United Transport Workers, a union of street car and bus drivers, had warned "we will pull out our men tomorrow" unless "police are withdrawn and the rights of picketing are restored."

Before Miller's announcement, about eighty policemen, rifles in hand and bunched at strategic points, ringed the sprawling plants which employ 8,000 workers. Elaborate police precautions caused the C. I. O.-A. F. of L. committee to abandon plans for renewal of a mass picket line.

Threaten General Strike.

Detroit, Mich., May 27.—[Special.]—C. I. O. leaders today threatened a twenty-four hour general strike in the Detroit area in retaliation for what they termed police brutality in a clash with pickets in which fifty-five persons were injured yesterday.

A statement from headquarters of the United Automobile Workers, main C. I. O. affiliate, said a general strike may be considered by the U. A. W. international board, unless assurances are given that police will be ordered to cease acting as strike breakers.

The U. A. W. is not involved in the strike troubles at the American Brass compan where the rioting occurred, except in a sympathetic capacity.

Compromise Ends 3 Week Strike of Brick Teamsters

The citywide strike of brick teamsters which started three weeks ago ended yesterday when a compromise agreement was reached between union representatives and the Chicago Brick exchange, manufacturers' association. The strikers, who sought shorter hours and more pay, were members of the Building Materials Chauffeurs, Teamsters, and Helpers union, locals 786 and 721, an A. F. of L. affiliate. Spokesmen for the manufacturers said the price of brick will not be raised.

Conviction Upset

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Mary Roche, convicted three weeks ago of slaying her husband, John, and her brother, Edward Haislip, who yesterday surrendered to Philadelphia police and said he did the killing.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 27.—[Special.]—In order to save his sister from a murder charge, Edward Haislip, 31 years old, today surrendered to police and shouldered blame for the slaying of his brother-in-law. The sister, Mrs. Mary Roche, was found guilty of involuntary manslaughter three weeks ago in the death of her husband, John, 34 years old. In a sworn statement, Haislip declared he stabbed Roche to death during a dispute last November.

The I. T. U. is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Baker favored adherence to A. F. of L. policies. Howard is secretary of the C. I. O.

C. I. O. HANDBILL CIRCULATORS TO GET JURY TRIALS

Six C. I. O. members who were arrested Thursday night while circulating handbills protesting the alleged refusal of the Philco Radio corporation of Philadelphia to negotiate with its employés, were granted jury trials yesterday by Municipal Judge Samuel H. Trude and were released in $25 bond each.

The men were seized at the Edgewater Beach hotel, where they were giving the handbills to persons attending the radio manufacturers' convention there. The defendants are Lief Jorgensen, 1820 North Pulaski road, organizer for the C. I. O. waiters' union; James Carey of New York City, and Davis Neish, Fred McCall, Michael Toohey, and William Jacobs, all of Philadelphia, members of the C. I. O. electrical workers' union.

GRAND JURY SET TO TAKE UP FREE SPEECH ATTACK

Vincennes, Ind., May 27.—[Special.]—The police raid on the Walter A. Ewing printing establishment April 30, authorized by Mayor Joseph W. Kimmell during the primary campaign in which he was defeated for the legislature again will be taken up when the Knox county grand jury reconvenes June 8, Wayne Combs, prosecuting attorney, said today.

Combs said the grand jury would continue its investigation on various phases developed during the recent inquiry on charges filed by Dr. J. H. Hammon, who declared that the raid constituted an attack on the freedom of the press and free speech.

A number of witnesses were called during the recent session, including Ewing, who said the raid was conducted while he was printing ballots on which corrections had been authorized by Paul Enmeier, Circuit clerk. Ewing in a signed statement said no search warant or other papers had been read by the raiding officers.

Acheson said that if Americans would give credit to those persons striving to better world conditions through thoughtful and just methods, the road would be open to greater triumphs in all fields.

"The United States has a tradition to live up to," he asserted. "It must continue to recognize and encourage progressive change."

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

MERCHANDISE MERCURY

By CALEB

SEVENTY-FIVE years ago—and more—a lone buckboard rattled up and down Chicago's muddy streets with the first Field package deliveries. The smiling chap on the seat was the first of a long line of ambassadors who for decades have been responsible for carrying Marshall Field service beyond the doors of the store and into the homes of customers.

In widening circles these emissaries have carried millions in merchandise, piecemeal, to three and more generations of Chicagoans. That single buckboard has grown to a fleet of hundreds of immaculate delivery trucks. The ideals of service, begun by that one man on the buckboard seat, today rest in the hands of many scores of regular drivers.

Through the decades an inspiring spirit of loyalty and service has grown with the fleet. Today among these men there is an "esprit de corps"—a spirit of devotion to the work that is impressive to the most casual observer. To those of us who know them, and who know the men under whom they work, they exemplify in the finest sense what we have come to describe as the "Marshall Field spirit." The type of service they render goes far beyond the routine fulfillment of assigned duty.

The steady growth of the store and the communities it serves has brought these men new problems—and new achievements. This week all the Field fleet operators were honored at a banquet. In turn, they paid special honor to the 116 of their number who had driven trucks steadily through 1937 without an accident. Each no-accident driver received an award—but two were singled out for special honors.

These two men have a combined record of twenty-five driving years without an accident. They have piloted their trucks in that time 485,000 miles—something more than eighteen times around the world—without leaving Chicago and its suburbs! Company leaders and fellow workers joined in praising their unusual record.

The whole Field fleet has a remarkably good safety record—but safe driving, important as it is, makes up only one phase of the exacting duties shouldered cheerfully and capably by Field drivers.

Theirs is the vital achievement of satisfactorily terminating thousands of transactions every day. Comments, written and spoken by customers through the years, offer abundant proof of their success.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

CZECHS YIELD; AGREE TO MEET NAZI DEMANDS

French-British Pressure Forces Concessions.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, May 27.—Through a sweltering hot afternoon the Czech inner cabinet council—known as the political committee—toiled over the minority statute which is to be presented by the government to Czechoslovakia's German population of 3,250,000 in the Sudeten mountain territory. The statute is intended to be a compromise with the Sudeten Germans on their demand for self-rule. The German already have intimated that the Czech offer will be unsatisfactory.

The work of drafting the minority statute goes on despite an official announcement ten days ago that the project had been completed. From a source in direct touch with the inner cabinet THE TRIBUNE correspondent learned today that the work actually was completed, but that the French and British reaction to its contents forced far reaching changes.

Premier to Open Negotiations.

Premier Milan Hodza and Deputy Karl Hermann Franck, representing the Sudeten Germans, are scheduled to begin discussions within the next few days.

There has been no alteration in the principles of the original project, it was said, but there have been "considerable developments and extensions." The original project was merely to codify existing minority statutes. The Germans said this offer amounted to "practically nothing."

A change of heart was effected even among the chauvinistic Czechs in the government when they were informed that the British and the French governments considered that Czechoslovakia had to do its part in maintaining European peace and that London and Paris could not engage themselves to support Czechoslovakia in any arbitrary course the cabinet might see fit to take.

Moderate Opinion Prevails.

Premier Hodza and other moderates therefore made their opinion prevail. The last shreds of resistance among the Czech extremists were vanquished by the scare of the last week-end when this country saw itself on the verge of becoming the first victim of a general European war.

These changes of opinion have resulted in changes in the minority statute which is to be offered to Konrad Henlein, Fuehrer of the Sudeten Germans, for discussion.

Official spokesmen now, for instance, talk about the "fullest kind of autonomy which would leave with the central government simply those functions, such as foreign policy, which are indispensable to continued existence of the state."

The Sudeten Germans, it is said, will be offered far reaching administrative autonomy. This was at first denied them, the only autonomy mentioned being "cultural."

See New State Framework.

The framework of the state, therefore, appears on the way to being changed from its present centralized form to the federative form on the Swiss model.

The whole plan for appeasement has now been divided into three parts:

First will be the so-called "nationalities law," the word "minority" having been dropped.

Second will be the language law, which apparently is going to put all languages spoken in the country on an equal footing. Here, too, considerable change has been made since ten days ago, when a government spokesman said that all the cabinet had to offer the Sudeten Germans regarding language was "to resolve all difficulties on a practical basis."

The third part is a measure regarding local governments in the province of Slovakia.

Protest Border Incidents.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, May 27.—(AP)—Dr. Ernst Eisenlohr, German minister, today again called the Czechoslovak government's attention to alleged violations of the German border by Czechoslovakia military units. Official quarters said the Czechoslovak minister in Berlin was instructed to make similar representations concerning alleged German violations of the Czechoslovak frontier.

Great Britain's interest in developments was emphasized by the presence here of William Strang, chief of the central European department of the British foreign office. Strang described his visit as purely for the purpose of acquainting himself better with the situation. He arrived last night and after conferences with Czechoslovak leaders will proceed to Berlin by way of the Sudeten German region.

HITLER TURNS HIS EYES UPON SPAIN; ASKS FOR REPORT

Presides at Meeting of War Chiefs.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 27. — Reichsfuehrer Hitler today presided over a meeting here of the chiefs of his armed forces. Among those present were Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch, chief of staf of the army; Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister of air, and Admiral Erich H. A. Raeder, chief of staf of the navy.

Nazi officials said the meeting had nothing to do with the German-Czechoslovakian conflict. Despite the seriousness of the situation on Germany's eastern border, the government is understood to be concentrating much of its attention on events in Spain. Hitler is said to have asked his military aids for a detailed analysis of the military situation there.

Deny Increasing Aid to Franco.

Nazi officials deny rumors that while the world focussed its attention on Czechoslovakia in recent days, Germany and Italy had increased their shipments to Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel commander.

The foreign office tonight expressed concern over the fate of Czechoslovakians working in Austria near the Czech border who were recalled to Czechoslovakia by telegram. German officials said some of these men were Sudeten Germans and that there has been no word of what happened to them when they returned to Czechoslovakia. This, the officials said, aroused fear that many of them might have been arrested, "which would aggravate the seriousness of the situation."

Messages from Vienna charged two further Czech violations of the frontier. They said a Czech military plane flew over Gmuend this morning and that the occupants leaned out taking photographs. It also was charged that Czech soldiers near Kaplitz beat up a German farmer whose land runs across the frontier because he was not carrying his passport. The man's condition was described as critical.

Press Campaign Halted.

BERLIN, May 27.—(AP)—The government controled German press today ceased abruptly its blasts against Czechoslovakia and western democracies which it accused of pro-Czechoslovak sympathies.

The lull in the warlike talk was said in official quarters to be due to Reichsfuehrer Hitler's determination to preserve peace despite "provocations" by the Czechs.

It was announced that a rally of Sudeten German students scheduled for June 2 at Usti, Czechoslovakia, near the German border, had been postponed until October in order to avoid possible trouble.

Germany, in an effort to attract tourists, announced that it was abolishing taxes and simplifying formalities in connection with the tourist trade.

AMERICAN, BRITON TAKEN OFF TRAIN FOR QUESTIONING BY JAPS

TSINAN, China, May 27.—(AP)—The Japanese belief that foreigners are aiding Chinese guerrillas active in central Shantung province caused Japanese military authorities to take A. L. Carson, an American, and the Rev. A. E. Clayton, a Briton, off a train for prolonged questioning.

The incident was reported today to the British and United States consulates in Tsingtao. The Japanese, it was said, originally believed the men were German and Russian.

Settle Detention of Briton.

SHANGHAI, May 27.—(AP)—A Japanese official announced today that a protest against mistreatment of E. S. Wilkinson, a British naturalist, had been settled in a manner "thoroughly satisfactory" to the British. Wilkinson, a Shanghai resident, was beaten and stabbed and then detained for twelve hours by Japanese authorities on May 14 when, they charged, he tried to cross a barbed-wire barricade in the Hongkew district while "chasing birds."

CHICAGOAN TELLS VIEW OF SLOVAKS ON CZECH CRISIS

20 Yr. Autonomy Aim Recalled to Poles.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, May 27.—A delegation of 110 American Slovaks headed by Dr. Peter P. Hletko of 5750 South Francisco avenue, Chicago, arrived today in Warsaw, Poland. Dr. Hletko spoke at a dinner given by the mayor of Warsaw to the American group, a delegation of Slovaks from Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, and an official committee from Prague.

"Slovaks of America have no wish to add to the troubles of Czechoslovakia," he said. "We don't want the Czechoslovakian republic weakened. We appreciate greatly the warm welcome we have received in Poland and hope Poland will show her feeling of kinship for the Slovaks by helping to protect the Czechoslovakian republic.

Arrive as "Envoys of Peace."

"We are en route to Prague and Bratislava as envoys of peace who want to achieve the autonomy and other privileges promised the Slovaks by the Pittsburgh agreement."

[The Pittsburgh (Pa.) agreement, which was signed by Czech and Slovak societies in America on June 30, 1918, before the independence of Czechoslovakia was proclaimed, provided for cultural self-government for the Slovaks.]

Dr. Hletko's suggestion that the Poles assist the Prague government during its present crisis found no response among Poles, whose ambition to attain a direct frontier with Hungary by absorption of part of Slovakia into Poland has still less favor among the American visitors.

Will Aid in Anniversary.

Dr. Hletko, who is president of the Slovak League of America, said the American delegation represented a million Slovaks. After visiting Prague and Bratislava the American group intends to participate in the twentieth anniversary of the signing of the Pittsburgh pact and in ceremonies marking the twentieth anniversary of the birth of the Czechoslovak republic next Oct. 28. It will attend the world congress of Sokols to be held in July in Prague.

The original draft of the Pittsburgh agreement, which the delegation brought from America, will be taken back to Chicago, Dr. Hletko said, but an officially certified copy will be left in Bratislava.

The Americans, Dr. Hletko asserted, will assist in negotiations between the Prague government and the Slovaks to achieve cultural autonomy for the Slovaks, which, he said, would strengthen the Czechoslovakian republic.

NAZIS CARRY WAR AGAINST JEWS TO HANDICRAFT FAIR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 27. — When Germany's first International Handicraft exhibition is opened in the Berlin Fair hall tomorrow by Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, exhibitors representing 27 countries will find that the Nazis have not lost this opportunity to emphasize their anti-Semitic views.

Two oaken wall tablets with golden lettering, to which official guides drew special attention at a preview today, inform the world that "Hebrew is the holy language of thieves." The tablets assert that while "honest handworkers in many countries use technical terms derived from the German language, slang terms used by criminals are largely a corruption of Hebraic words."

716 Italians Killed, 2,512 Wounded in Spanish Drive

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

ROME, May 27.—An official communique today gave total casualties among Italian soldiers fighting with the Spanish rebels during the South Ebro river battle from the beginning of the offensive on March 9 until the rebels reached Tortosa on April 18. The casualties amounted to 76 officers and 640 men killed, 207 officers and 2,305 men wounded, 1 officer and 11 men missing, and 4 men captured. As a consequence of these losses it was believed the total of the Italian forces in Spain now amounts to not much more than 30,000.

The vice consul, named Romero, was arrested by loyalists while attempting to cross the frontier into France. He was carrying money belonging to Costa Rica when arrested.

CHINESE TROOPS, TANKS HALT JAP WESTWARD DRIVE

Chiang's Forces Reformed; Attack at Lanfeng.

SHANGHAI, May 28.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—Tanks led a Chinese counter-offensive that turned the scattered fighting along the Lunghai railroad today into one of the major battles of the undeclared Chinese-Japanese war. Both sides said the fighting at Lanfeng, twenty-eight miles east of Kaifeng, was as intensive as any in more than ten months of fighting.

Chinese reported several villages razed and more than 1,000 Japanese killed in fighting that spread along the railroad almost to Kweiteh, fifty-nine miles east of Lanfeng. Japanese admitted twenty Chinese divisions, including about 100,000 well equipped soldiers, were making a stand at Lanfeng comparable in scope to the defense of the Suchow junction, east of Lanfeng, which fell just a week ago after a month long battle.

Report Lanfeng Taken.

The reorganized Chinese forces were said to include fresh troops and units of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's central army, which escaped when Suchow fell.

Chinese reported that a column, led by tanks, had recaptured Lanfeng, important as a key to the defense of Kaifeng. This broke Japan's pressure on Kaifeng, which the Japanese must capture to reach Chengchow, junction of the Lunghai and the important north-south Peking-Hankow railroads, the Chinese asserted.

Japanese disputed the report, but admitted their drive inland toward Chengchow, and thence Hankow, seat of China's government, was "interrupted" and that tanks, some with flame throwers, had led a Chinese assault on Lanfeng.

Tanks Bolster Chinese.

An increasingly large number of modern tanks, some equipped with flame throwers, have bolstered the Chinese lines, Japanese reports said, indicating the defense troops' strength is by no means spent.

Twenty villages between Kaifeng and Kweiteh were bombed yesterday. Coupled with these raids, the Japanese air force struck unexpectedly in South China, bombing eight Chinese airdromes in Chekiang and Fukien provinces.

Japanese warships were reported massing between Foochow and Shanghai and off Canton.

LOYALISTS RENEW CATALONIA DRIVE AGAINST REBELS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LISBON, Portugal, May 27.—Spanish loyalist forces, reinforced by 3,000 fresh troops and motorized units, today renewed their attack against rebel positions along the Segre and Noguera Pallaresa rivers in Catalonia. After nearly a week of offensive action in this area of northeastern Spain the rebels continued to hold their positions west of the streams, it was reported.

In the earlier stages of the offensive the loyalists recaptured a considerable area in advancing to the Segre.

Rebel dispatches said that in today's fighting the loyalists were forced to retreat after a fierce battle.

Attack North of Valencia.

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier, May 27.—(AP)—Spanish insurgent armies attacked today through mountain ranges north of Valencia and northwest of Barcelona. Insurgent advices reported the occupation of El Castellar, nearly sixteen miles east of Teruel and sixty-five miles from the coast, in the drive toward the Teruel-Sagunto highway. On the northern front, near the Andorran frontier, the insurgents took the initiative in the Pyrenees.

TOKIO BUSINESS PLEDGES TO BACK REVISED CABINET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, May 27.—Business, financial, and industrial leaders tonight pledged full support to the government after Seihin Ikeda, new minister of finance, commerce, and industry, promised to abolish burocratic methods of government theorists. These methods were blamed for plunging the nation into trade, industrial, and economic stagnation.

Ikeda entered the cabinet yesterday in a shakeup in which army influence was said to be increased. Two generals were added to the cabinet. The ousted ministers, including Koki Hirota, former foreign minister, were accused of weakness.

Government theorists generally have been blamed for tieing up trade and hampering industry by enforcing regulations too rigidly and arbitrarily in the effort to divert the economic structure of the country from normal to wartime footing.

Business circles placed almost unconditional confidence in the ability of Ikeda to straighten out the situation, it was reported.

BOOKS

Zweig Widens His Panorama of War Years

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Crowning of a King," by Arnold Zweig. [Viking, $2.50.] Published Monday.

Continuing his monumental panorama of the world war whose focus was "The Case of Sergeant Grischa" comes Arnold Zweig's great novel of the Germans on the eastern front during the last year of the war. Young Winfried, whom we have met as the nephew of Col. Lychow, is the "little man" through whose eyes and through whose experience the reader sees deep into the heart of German intrigue. For while the obvious political intrigue to put a king over Lithuania occupies the surface of human action, a subtler, more ravenous intrigue of character against character, type against type, and a synthesization of the whole German military psychology fills these pages.

With scientific German thoroughness, Herr Zweig probes into his characters and their motives, takes them apart to see how they tick, and chronicles them as though they were [as indeed they are] data. Important social data, historical criticism of the first order, fills these long, earnestly written pages. The characters live in their own right, but they have the added importance of being each one an integral part of the vast complex pattern of the German actions and psychology of 1917 at the front and at home.

Arnold Zweig, from his exiled Mount Olympus in Palestine, looks with Jovian understanding upon his fellow countrymen and sets down what he sees with impressiveness, perhaps ponderous but undeniably authoritative.

Andre Maurois Writes Skilful Piece of Satire.

"The Thought Reading Machine," by Andre Maurois. [Harpers, $2.] Published Wednesday.

Andre Maurois, best known in America for his vivid histories and biographies of historical characters, also is much esteemed in his native France for his deft, light novels, urbanely satirical records of the less world shattering emotions. Such a book is his latest, "The Thought Reading Machine," translated by James Whitall.

Ostensibly it is the story of the invention of a machine which can record man's innermost thoughts, of individual experiments with the machine, and of its possibilities in social and political relationships. Actually it is a subtle satire on many things, on American college life, on the solidarity of French family life, and a delicate comparison of two psychologies, the French and the American.

M. Maurois, who himself was a visiting professor at Princeton, writes of the experiences of a French lecturer at "Westmouth University," of the systems of alumni control of college politics, and of the importance of football in college life with what passes for delicious naïvete, but which is keen and subtle raillery. In the same subtle fashion he makes the intricacies of French family solidarity subtly comic. And he compares two differing psychologies with good humored delicacy.

This light tale can tell Americans more about how they appear to the visiting foreigner than many grandiloquent tomes.

A Great Naturalist's Collected Journals.

"John of the Mountains," unpublished journals of John Muir, edited by Linnie Marsh Wolfe. [Houghton-Mifflin, $3.75.]

In the forty-four years between 1867 and 1911 John Muir kept sixty journals, in which he recorded his wanderings, set down descriptions of nature, and made scientific records. During most of those years his pockets were filled with notes, scribbled on loose sheets, most of which set down more intimately his thoughts upon nature and her transcendental meanings. Those scraps of paper were rarely dated, and often were almost undecipherable.

From this mass of material Linnie Marsh Wolfe has culled the pages of this revealing volume to celebrate the centenary of John Muir's birth. Because there was not room to include them in a volume already buxom without them, the journals which John Muir kept on his travels abroad have been omitted here. Otherwise the notes and journals are printed as they were written, unrevised and reflecting exactly the great naturalist's reactions at the moment of writing. They present, therefore, a vivid contemporary record of his life and his thoughts.

There is in these pages much insight into the heart of the man who, at an early age, so blithely declared his place in the cosmos by writing down his address, in his first journal, as "John Muir, Earth Planet, Universe."

Looking Over Latest Books

Here's Final Volume of Gorki's Tetralogy.

"The Specter," by Maxim Gorki. [Appleton-Century, $3.50.]

"The Specter" is a devastating satire on the confused, idealistic, futile intellectuals of Russia—perhaps a satire on wavering intellectuals of all countries.

"The Specter" is the concluding volume in a tetralogy entitled "Forty Years: The Life of Clim Samghin," which includes the novels "Bystander," "The Magnet," and "Other Fires." It takes up the story of the lawyer, Samghin, in the period after the 1905 revolt and carries it to the 1917 revolution.

Samghin spent all his life as a bystander in the shifting currents of political and philosophical speculation, never making up his mind what side to join. Gorki died without completing the story, but left notes which tell how Samghin—still wavering between the rulers and the workers—is killed in the revolution.

Much of "The Specter" is dull, with Samghin and his friends talking themselves hoarse night and day, even while they are making love. But it is an imposing bock, and probably will be accounted an authentic picture of the Russian intellectual proletariat.

A Pleasant Chronicle About Gold Rush Era.

When the narrator, a weary writer, takes to the Sierra hills, he takes along as company a chance acquaintance, one Mr. Dillaby, and his dog, Henry. To while away the evenings round the campfire the narrator reads aloud from the journal kept by his grandmother, a copy book whose pages are faded by time, but whose story is as shining and bright as those days in the 1850s when the writer was a girl in a "gold dust" town.

She penned the little daily happenings and sketched all the characters of the place. Her diary is a series of incidents and episodes—not great drama, but just the chronicling of events that held sighs, or laughter, or tears.

'My Austria'—Schuschnigg's Broken Dream

BY GEORGE SCHARSCHUG.

"My Austria," by Kurt Schuschnigg. [Knopf, $3.] Published Monday.

Kurt Schuschnigg, last chancellor and dictator of Austria, is a prisoner. Austria is dead, swallowed up by Hitler, in his mad race to make Nazi Germany master of Europe.

Dr. Schuschnigg wrote "My Austria"—what pathos there is in that title—months before the collapse of his dream, a third Austria, small as a state but powerful as an agent of peace and even more powerful as a bridge, cultural, spiritual, and political, for Europe's numerous nationalities and ideologies.

He sought to build up a state of authoritarian leadership, "assuming to itself as a state no totalitarian rights." However, he sought to perpetuate the old Austrian spirit of moderation and tolerance—the spirit which made Austria the much loved home of great musicians, artists, writers, scientists, and geniuses of many races.

The close student of history may well regret that Dr. Schuschnigg did not write more objectively on many phases of these last days of Austria. However, the book must be accepted as of great value for the excellent background which it provides for understanding the struggle which marked those last days.

There is little doubt, after reading this book, that in those last days many Austrians forgot the advice which Germany's Iron-Chancellor Bismarck gave to their hotheads years before. It ran something like this: "Be good Austrians at home; then you will be the best Germans."

Or perhaps the average Austrian depended too much on the pledges of Hitler and Mussolini or the implied pledges and the actual interests of the democratic nations of Europe for maintenance of the integrity and independence of their land. Mussolini was out riding or playing golf when Hitler and his army moved in.

And now as he eyes the Nazi guards around him, Dr. Schuschnigg must contemplate with bitterness the words he wrote less than a year ago:

"Something has suddenly become a reality which the whole world long held as impossible: Austria has found herself; a passionate resolve has blazed up everywhere throughout the land; the faith and consciousness of being standard-bearers in a struggle for freedom."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

Flora of Chicagoland

[Shooting Star.]
May 27, 1938.

AFTER the violets, mandrakes, and other early wild flowers have blossomed and faded, outdoor fans may expect to see the shooting star bring out its varicolored flowers. Standing from 6 inches to nearly 2 feet in height, the shooting star is one of Chicagoland's most distinguished wild flower beauties. It has blossoms that range in color from a purplish pink to a yellowish white. They grow on a tall stalk from a cluster of large leaves so the "stars" have a natural setting for their beauty.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]
The Shooting Star.

For more than a week these lovely flowers have been brightening the woods on THE TRIBUNE'S Du Page county farm.

The first English settlers in this country named the shooting star the American cowslip, which has resulted in some confusion as far as names for our wild flowers are concerned.

It is not a cowslip, of course, but the English settlers saw in this attractive American flower a reminder of the primrose which in England is known as the cowslip.

The shooting star is found throughout Illinois and also extends into southern Wisconsin. It isn't as plentiful as it was twenty years ago because more land is being tilled every year.

Indebted to Railroads.

Today the railroad rights of way keep great beds of shooting stars intact. No plows disturb them there. Along the north shore we noticed more shooting stars beside railroad tracks than in many of the fields and woods.

Unlike some wild flowers the shooting star has no economic use. As far as we know its root stalk produces no useful extracts used in medicine. It cannot be used for food. It is purely decorative, and as such is one of the most beautiful and distinctive wild flowers in the middle west. There are few wild flowers as easily identified as this one since the five petals of the flower bend back from the stem, exposing the yellow cone formation which gives it the appearance of a shooting star.

General Presents Tribune Awards to Two Units.

Filling Congress street plaza and Michigan avenue from 8th street on the south to Randolph street on the north with color and music, the 6,300 khaki-clad R. O. T. C. cadets from Chicago's 27 public high schools yesterday paraded and marched in review. This was the culminating event of their year's military training and the day was celebrated by the city's school system as R. O. T. C. day.

The cadet corps began assembling at Monroe street in Grant park about 11:30 o'clock. Each unit then proceeded northward on Michigan avenue to Ohio street and there turned back to the south. Virtually every school corps had its own band—there were 22 in all—so that the martial music was constant. Thousands of loop workers and high school students dismissed from their books for the day, lined the avenue to watch.

A Thrilling Spectacle.

It was an impressive and moving spectacle when the young reservists were in massed position about 1 o'clock. The Tilden Technical and Fenger High school corps with their bands faced the reviewing stand at Congress plaza and Michigan avenue was filled to the brim with the rest of the Chicago regiment. The cadet colonel, Richard Dibos of Morgan Park High school, saluted the reviewers with his saber.

Brig. Gen. Walter E. Prosser, commander of the 6th Field Artillery Brigade, who represented Maj. Gen. Hugh Drum, commanding general of the 6th corps area, then presented prizes won by the Tilden and Fenger units in competition with those of other schools. They had been chosen as best trained of all the school corps.

While the Fenger band played the national anthem the general presented to the two schools new stands of colors awarded annually by THE TRIBUNE to the prize winning R. O. T. C. units.

Praises Their Efficiency.

"It is an honor to present the colors to these two school units," he said. "And I warmly congratulate the officers and cadets of the respective corps on the high efficiency and excellence of training they have displayed in winning these coveted awards in competition.

"My cordial felicitations are also extended to Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, for his patriotic efforts in assisting the war department in stimulating interest in R. O. T. C. work in this city."

William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, said he proposed to have the review on Michigan avenue an annual affair, and said that he hopes ultimately to see 15,000 R. O. T. C. cadets in the review.

Immediately after the review the twenty-one outstanding cadets of the St. Mel High school R. O. T. C. corps were awarded medals given by THE TRIBUNE for their work in parochial R. O. T. C. competitions. The medals were awarded as part of the school's annual graduation parade.

Another of life's oddities enveloped Frank Sisek yesterday. Sisek, 60 years old, of 533 Market street, Waukegan, collapsed from hunger a few days ago. Police found $900 on him and discovered he had $2,000 more in a building and loan association. Sisek explained he had cut down on his meals to save his money, then decided he'd take a trip to New York and have some fun. Yesterday he returned to his rooming house to say goodby to his next door fellow roomer and friend, Joseph Bartello, 45. He found Bartello dead.

URGE SCIENTIFIC TESTS TO GUIDE PUPILS' CAREERS

300 Studied; Schools' Head Gets Results.

Use of scientific methods to decide whether little Johnny's life work should be a radio announcer, police reporter, politician, or broker was advocated yesterday in a report submitted to Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of public schools.

The report, presented by the joint educational committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Rotary club at a luncheon in the Palmer house, set out preliminary results of psychological tests made on 300 Hyde Park High school seniors in the last nine months.

Tested for Seven Abilities.

Dr. L. L. Thurstone, head of the University of Chicago psychology department, said the 300 pupils were tested for seven primary abilities:

Number facility, or ability to count fast; word fluency, or vocabulary skill; visual ability, or rapid understanding of what one reads; memory, which is distinct from other mental abilities, perpetual speed, or skill in identifying objects quickly; verbal ability, or aptitude for understanding word meanings, and inductive ability, or aptitude in reasoning out rules or principles governing situations.

Results Computed for 132.

M. P. Nelson, assistant to the president of North Park college, who conducted the experiment, said that results of the tests for 132 of the 300 pupils had been computed. These showed that 28 are best fitted for careers in chemistry; in engineering, 24; medicine, 11; law, 10; merchandising, journalism, and advertising, eight each; radio and accounting, five each; music, four; selling, social service, teaching, and architecture, three each; forestry, printing, and politics, two each, and financing, shipping, and stage, one each.

Supt. Johnson announced that the vocational adjustment service now carried on experimentally in five high schools and one junior college will be expanded to include all high schools and colleges next fall.

PROPERTY TAX PAYMENTS TOP 5 MILLION IN DAY

More than 5 million dollars of 1937 property taxes were paid yesterday at the office of County Collector Horace G. Lindheimer, bringing total collections of the 1937 tax bills to $28,043,594. The total includes $22,810,640 of real estate taxes and $5,232,954 personal property taxes. Officials said collections this year are substantially ahead of the corresponding period when 1936 taxes were in collection.

The 1937 tax deadline is June 1. After that date a penalty of 1 per cent a month will be added. The collector announced that his office will be open for tax payments until 3:30 this afternoon. On Tuesday and Wednesday, the last two days before the penalty attaches, the office will be open from 8:30 a. m. to 10 p. m.

CITY TO ACCEPT NO NEW RELIEF CASES FOR JUNE

A shortage of funds will prevent the acceptance of new applications for relief during June, Relief Commissioner Leo M. Lyons said yesterday. Unless the legislature makes additional money available the city will have approximately $2,200,000 in state money to meet an estimated need for the month of $3,300,000.

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission will meet Tuesday morning to distribute state funds for June. Lyons said Chicago's share of the money will be disbursed on the basis of the usual monthly allowance for food, with the hope that relief clients will find a way to meet some of their other obligations from this money.

It will be impossible to reopen the relief stations during June, Lyons said, because lack of funds prevents rehiring the stafs for the 23 relief stations.

Mrs. Tegtmeyer Makes New Plea for Freedom

Mrs. Daisy Tegtmeyer, called the forgotten woman of the county jail, went before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday on the petition of her attorney, Charles S. Harvey, for a writ of habeas corpus. She charges she is being held in violation of the federal constitution. Judge Woodward said he would rule on the petition next Friday, and Mrs. Tegtmeyer was returned to jail. She has spent most of the last four years there for failure to make an accounting in Circuit court of the $30,000 estate of her father-in-law.

GIRL, 4, STRUCK BY AUTO, HURLED UNDER ANOTHER

Police in Crash on Way to Accident.

Alice Guzniczak, 4 years old, 1626 North Ida street, was knocked down by one automobile and run over by another as she was playing at Elston and North avenues yesterday. The driver of one of the cars, Herman Kroencke, 3646 North Whipple street, took her to the West North Avenue hospital, where her condition is serious. Kroencke said he had stopped for a trafic light and that the girl darted in front of his car just as he started. She was knocked into the path of a car alongside, driven by Louis Herman, 1250 Augusta boulevard.

Unidentified Man Killed.

An unidentified man, about 65 years old, was fatally injured last night when he was run down by an automobile in California boulevard near 26th street. He died on the way to the County hospital. The driver was George Heinze, 29, of 6656 University avenue, an engineer. Policeman Clarence Thurston, 32, of the Lawndale station, suffered a fracture of the right knee cap when the squad car in which he and his partner, John Rich, were driving to the scene was struck by a machine driven by Carl Schneider, 37, of 1208 Draper street, at California avenue and Cermak road. Schneider was arrested.

Wolf Tompkins, 65 years old, 2437 North Albany avenue, a butcher, died last night in the Lutheran Deaconess hospital of injuries incurred on May 12 when he was run down by a motor truck at Western and Wabansia avenues. The driver was Robert Miller, 2038 North Damen avenue.

Mrs. Ina Jensen, 52 years old, 4009 North Bernard street, died yesterday in Augustana hospital from injuries incurred last Tuesday when she was struck by a car driven by George Weimer, 712 Roscoe street, in front of 3443 Irving Park boulevard. Weimer was charged with reckless driving by the Albany Park police.

Couple Hurt on Honeymoon.

Only six hours after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Walsh were injured slightly in an automobile collision early today a mile west of Antioch while driving on a honeymoon to Delavan, Wis. Their car and one driven by Lawrence Brady, 30, of 3250 South Hamilton avenue, sidewiped in the rain. The Walshes were married at her home at 1612 Central avenue, Evanston. She was the former Dorothy Buckley.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 337 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 260 were killed in Chicago, where 7,016 were injured in the same period.

JUSTICE SHAW TO HEAD SUPREME COURT ON JUNE 7

Springfield, Ill., May 27.—[Special.]—Associate Justice Elwyn R. Shaw of Freeport will become chief justice of the state Supreme court when it convenes for its June term at 2 p. m. Tuesday, June 7. He succeeds Justice Paul Farthing of Belleville in the regular rotation system practiced by the court.

Justice Shaw, who maintains offices in Freeport but whose home is on a small farm near Cedarville, was elected to the high court in June, 1933. Except for brief service as a member of the Freeport board of education, Justice Shaw never had held public office until his election to the high court. He is married and has two daughters.

TELLS WISCONSIN STAND AGAINST LAKE DIVERSION

Mayor Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee yesterday defended Wisconsin's long fight against what he termed excessive diversion of water from Lake Michigan by Chicago. He spoke before the Wisconsin Society of Chicago in the Union League club, where he was introduced by Mayor Kelly.

Wisconsin joined other states in fighting diversion, he said, because it interfered with the Great Lakes system of water transportation. He asserted that Chicago is not sincerely interested in water transportation and declared that the city has ruined its own harbors. He charged that the present moves to get increased diversion were for the benefit of private power companies.

CLOSED PRIMARY CALLED VITAL TO PARTY SYSTEM

Closed primary elections in Illinois are necessary to guarantee the strength of the political party system and a democratic form of government, Mrs. Harriet M. Robertson, president of the Women's Civic council, asserted yesterday. She spoke at the concluding session of the state commission on election law revision.

Open primaries, which would permit the voter to change parties at will, have been advocated by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki.

"If party switching is to be permitted we believe the principles underlying the primary law will be practically abolished and we will take a backward step in government," she said.

Proponents of the open primary at yesterday's meeting included State Representative Robert M. Woodward of the 29th district, Prof. Paul Douglas of the University of Chicago economics department, and Edward E. Blake, national chairman of the Prohibition party.

The commission meetings were held in the county building courtroom of Judge John C. Lewe, who is a member. The commission will not complete its report for several months.

AWARD $775,614 JUDGMENT ON '29 SCHOOL WARANTS

In a report filed in the United States District court yesterday Master in Chancery Irving Herriott recommended a decree for judgment of $775,614 against the board of education on 1929 tax anticipation warants held by the Norfolk and Western railroad. In addition, an allowance of $254,387 was made for interest. The recommendation was based on the railroad's successful suit in which it was charged that the board acted illegally in paying the warants numerically since 1930 instead of on a pro rata basis.

THE RIGHT TO RIOT.

The latest C. I. O. riots in Akron and Detroit indicate once more the belief of the leaders of that organization in their inalienable right to riot. They have no respect for the law and its officers and less for the rights of other workmen. The C. I. O. has introduced to this country the institution of the undeclared civil war.

In Illinois we saw this doctrin at work at the Fansteel plant and again in South Chicago. Michigan saw it at Monroe, where the minute men of the town were required to protect their community from an invading horde; at Lansing, where the C. I. O. seized control of the capitol; at Flint, where the police were powerless and the National Guard protected the rioters in possession of property which did not belong to them; and at Detroit, where there have been repeated instances of violence. The supposed right to riot kept Ohio and Pennsylvania in a turmoil for weeks.

These undeclared civil wars are said to have their justification in the Wagner act, but faulty as that law is, it is no charter for rioters.

The Wagner act was supposed to establish industrial peace on an enduring foundation and thus promote the general prosperity. Its enactment was followed almost at once by a wave of strikes of extraordinary bitterness, and these strikes, in turn, were followed by the sharpest decline in industrial activity which this country has ever known, a decline which has continued now for the better part of a year.

The contrast between the promises of those who advocated the law and the actual results achieved is striking. The belief that the law itself has been in no small degree responsible for industrial unrest and economic depression is widely held, and with reason. Senator Burke of Nebraska, along with many others, has called attention to deficiencies in the act and its administration, and has suggested that both be reexamined with a view to improvement. The resistance which this common sense proposal has encountered in Washington is remarkable. It indicates a complete unwillingness to admit that the act could have promoted injustices or could have had anything to do with bringing on the current depression.

And yet the act and its administrators quite obviously have accomplished both results. The law invites trouble makers to make trouble and seeks to prevent any one from interfering with the game in any fashion. As Senator Burke has said, the act defines and punishes unfair labor practices by employers, but fails to recognize that employers are not the only ones who may be guilty of unfair labor practices. Irresponsible unions and self-serving union leaders are above the Wagner law; it imposes no obligations or responsibilities upon them. Thus, though it does not legalize rioting, the act has encouraged it.

We are in the midst of a business depression which results from the unwillingness of men and women to risk money in new business ventures. A most important cause of their reluctance to invest is the knowledge that industrial relations are at the mercy of ambitious labor leaders who stand to profit from industrial unrest and have nothing to lose from it. The Wagner act, because of its one-sidedness, gives no protection to employers or workmen against unfair union tactics. Even if the protection were granted in the act it is doubtful if the present labor board would make it operative.

Mr. Burke is not seeking to repeal the act. He believes in collective bargaining and in protecting the rights of employés to organize freely. He would take no rights from labor, but would impose responsibilities paralleling those imposed on employers. Above all, he would subject the labor board to a housecleaning in the interest of impartiality and to a reform of its procedures to bring them in line with responsible standards of fairness.

This program will displease the C. I. O. bosses, with their penchant for violence, but it ought to appeal to the common sense of workingmen as fair. Certainly labor has nothing to gain from a law which has contributed to the destruction of jobs and the creation of hard times.

VAN NUYS OF INDIANA.

Congressman Samuel B. Pettengill, regrettably retiring representative of the 3rd Indiana district, will add to his public service by campaigning for the reëlection of Senator Frederick Van Nuys.

What has Senator Van Nuys done, Mr. Pettengill wants to know, to be read out of the Democratic party? The answer is clear enough. Although he has supported the main legislative program of the administration, he could not stomach the court packing scheme or the so-called reorganization bill and he condemned the sit-down strike to which the administration has given moral support. In short, he has shown that he would not prostitute his conscience for political advantage.

The McNutt-Minton gang, with the backing of the federal machine, refused Senator Van Nuys renomination and is out to defeat his independent candidacy by all the means in its power. The people of Indiana have never had a clearer or more important issue before them. The issue is whether the commonwealth of Indiana will support a public servant of proved integrity and devotion to duty or follow the dictates of spoils politics. In the light of this issue the claim of the McNutt-Minton bosses that loyalty to Mr. Roosevelt calls for the defeat of Senator Van Nuys is an insult to the President, for it assumes that he is an enemy of integrity in public office and demands obedience without conscience. There are sinister signs in Indiana and other states that this may be true, but whether true or not, the interest and responsibility of the people of Indiana remain the same.

Indiana must choose between integrity in public office and unscrupulous power. This issue is above party and Republicans as well as Democrats should unite to insure the reëlection of Senator Van Nuys. The power of spoils is united to defeat him. The power of patriotic citizenship should be united to make certain his reëlection. The good name of Indiana is at stake and the nation will wait anxiously for its decision.

PAROLE AND PUBLIC SENTIMENT.

A midwestern life insurance company has been querying its policyholders on the subject of crime conditions. It seems a logical topic of interest for any life insurance company, and the results of this survey are worthy of note. The number of policyholders responding was 25,000, of whom 83 per cent of the men and 88 per cent of the women expressed the opinion that pardon and parole should be abolished and persons convicted of crime should serve their full sentences.

The company's summary reports that a lively alarm over present crime conditions and a surprisingly strong sentiment for "cracking down" on tender treatment for criminals was revealed by the survey and in general the women were as severe in their attitude as were the men.

Eighty-one per cent of the women and 87 per cent of the men held that the first aim of our penal and legal forces should be to protect the law-abiding by making crime dangerous and its results unpleasant; and that the rehabilitation of the criminal, important as it may be, should be secondary.

The survey drew replies from policyholders in forty-two states, Alaska, Hawaii, the Canal Zone, and Porto Rico, and they included police officers, present and former prison officials, as well as the majority of businesses, trades, and professions.

It is our strong conviction that the response to this survey is fairly representative of public opinion, and if legislators were less susceptible to the influence of organized groups they would better represent the common sense and sentiment of their constituents. When this arrives a substantial reduction of crime will result.

FANCY BUTTER AND RELIEF ROLLS.

Wheat sold on Thursday in Kansas City for 68 cents a bushel. With marketing costs out, the average farmer selling in that market now must be getting less than 60 cents a bushel, or about half as much as at the peak last year. Other farm products are down proportionately. The fall in the price of wheat, corn, cotton, live stock, butter, and eggs has paralleled the drop in industrial employment, pay rolls, stock prices, and production. It ought to be quite clear now that restless Washington burocrats enforcing crop curtailment and disbursing bounties cannot bless farmers with prosperity in the face of declining commercial activity.

We see what the government can and cannot do, in the produce market. In the last three and one-half months the government has been trying to keep the price of butter from tumbling. The effort has not been confined to the priming of the pump which, it was thought, would put up all prices, but butter has been given some special attention. The government has bought it, and not a few tubs now and then, but persistently and by the carload. On one day the government bought all the butter that was offered for sale on one of the leading markets. But even such large scale operations have not prevented butter from dropping to the lowest price in three years.

However, it cannot be doubted that the price has been kept from going to even lower levels by the government's purchase of millions of pounds of the fancy grade of butter and the issue of it to persons on relief rolls. To the extent that the price of butter has been raised by this operation some persons who are obliged to exercise every economy in a depression have been forced to substitute oleomargarine for butter. From the amount of revenue stamps purchased it appears that the amount of oleomargarine sold during the first four months of the year was 13.8 per cent more than in the same months last year.

Thus the government's program has had the effect of giving the finest butter to those receiving public relief, while forcing many self-supporting families to use butter substitutes. While making the dole more attractive the government's operation in butter has made harder the lot of many persons barely able to maintain themselves.

THE HARD-BOILED SHIRT.

[Christian Science Monitor.]

Laundries in England, like plumbers, have long suffered unmerited attacks from the wags; but in the charge brought against them recently by a correspondent in the Times of London there was some justice as well as wit. He complained that they return the "stiff" shirt with its stud-holes hermetically sealed.

It cannot be denied. As the hour of dining approaches conflict develops up and down the land, scissors are drawn, tin openers wielded, panic is apt to occur, and happy the man who finds a breach honored in the observance. What is the result? Too often the stiff upper lip produces a limp shirt, or, if it has been war to the knife, a garment rent in despair.

No doubt there are some who are privately of opinion that the shirt of Nessus was a boiled one, and who feel that a knight in shining armor is an anachronism; but to the conventional it still proves a certain social standing—and it will be long before the supporters of the triumphal starch give way.

In the circumstances, therefore, since these Nessusites appear necessities, even those who imagine with the French that "one must suffer to be beautiful" will unite in pleading with the laundries to reduce the suffering to a minimum.

Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

Twenty years ago today American troops, facing one of the first tests of their courage as fighting men, went over the top in Picardy, and swept into Cantigny, winning their first victory in the world war. "Back at headquarters, when the boys went over, officers waited anxiously for news of the attack," said an A. P. dispatch describing the engagement. "After forty-five minutes' fierce fighting, a voice came over the field telephone. 'Hello! This is Cantigny!' And headquarters knew that the Americans had taken one of the most important towns on the front and won their biggest victory to date." A thrilling dispatch, eloquent for what it doesn't tell—for what the mind must fill in of heroism and sacrifice, of the work of wire carriers, too, who saw to it that when Cantigny fell the field telephone was ready for business. And a brief communique appeared in the news beside the big stories of the latest German drive toward Paris: "The Americans in a brilliant local action have taken Cantigny and held it despite determined counter-attacks." "Every French and British soldier read or heard of that item," says "Secrets of G-2 Man," by Col. Thomas R. Gowenlock and Guy Murchie Jr. that appeared first in THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE, in a dramatic summing up of the psychological importance of the victory. "Some saw it by candlelight in dugouts, some read of it in Parisian cabarets, some had it read to them as they lay gasping on field hospital cots—and into their despair came a thrill of hope. American soldiers could fight . . . and there were more Americans coming with every ship."

And turns his curly head to see

Upon a tenement's black row.

And in the ward he is but one
Of forty other girls and boys
Who only glimpse the warm Spring sun—
Whose hands lie idle by their toys.

These children far too ill for play.
O, wouldn't it be worth YOUR while
To gather flowers for them today?

CALENDARS WERE AS MUCH to be relied on as right as anything in this world, we thought. It had been a subconscious credo. The clock might be wrong, but the calendar, never. . . . A tear sheet from a calendar appeared on our desk this week reading, in great black letters, Thursday, May 25, 1938. It was shattering, and we sent down for a coca-cola before we could go on with our work. Ever since all the mistakes and difficulties an incorrect calendar could cause keep trailing through our mind, darkening the day, making spots on the sun.

THE THYMUS: A MYSTERY GLAND.

THERE was a time when physicians debated heatedly the very existence of bacteria, and a well known American medical leader, whose death occurred in the late '90s, never accepted the bacterial origin of disease. Holding a glass slide of stained microbes before his class he would exclaim: "There is nothing there. I defy any one to show me a single germ." Nevertheless we forgave him, for he had contributed so much, along other lines, to the relief of suffering. But his thinking had crystalized.

If one wishes to engage in a protracted debate let him broach to a group of his medical friends the subject of the thymus gland with the thesis that the organ is responsible for most of our sudden deaths in infancy and early childhood. The battle will be on and the pros and cons will be argued into the wee small hours.

The presence of the structure in question is a demonstrable fact. At birth it weighs less than half an ounce and it is located in the upper chest, occasionally invading the neck. As age advances it becomes larger until it weighs approximately 1 1-3 ounces at puberty [age 15]. Thereafter it begins to absorb until with adult life it disappears.

While its function is still obscure, nevertheless it is supposed to play a vital rôle in the matter of development. Its interest to us, however, lies in the fact that it may enlarge to several times its nomal size and instances of collapse have been traced to this factor, particularly when associated with physical or emotional stress.

If obvious manifestations are to occur because of the increase in size they will be observed, as a rule, when the child is from 4 to 6 years of age. There may be earlier incidents, in which the youngster will become cyanotic [dusky or bluish] as the result of crying or from a choking spell that may come on during feeding. Breathing may be labored or noisy, and the infant may sleep with his head thrown backward. Now and then symptoms will become quite alarming, as though suffocation were imminent and the intake of breath may be characterized by a shrill, harsh whistle.

When the trouble lies in this particular gland the chances are that its proportions are great enough to have produced some pressure on the trachea [the windpipe], or that the child may be absorbing some toxic secretion affecting the sympathetic nervous system.

Whenever warnings of this sort arise the wise thing to do is to have an X-ray plate taken, which will give us an accurate idea of the position and extent of the gland. If it is noticeably larger than it should be, or in the presence of significant signs of trouble, the cure is simple, as X-ray exposures will shrink it to normal within ten days to two weeks. Its cells are exceedingly sensitive to radiation, and two or three light doses only are required.

For years physicians have been using the diagnosis "status lymphaticus" to explain unexpected deaths in infants. A careful investigation by the Medical Research Council of Great Britain led to the conclusion that the so-called "status" had no actual existence.

But we are faced with the condition known as laryngeal stridor, in which the child will appear at times to be struggling for breath. But, strangely enough, no case of thymus death has been described as associated with chronic respiratory obstruction. This means that whenever an infant's breathing is interfered with, a careful examination of the throat and voice box should be made, as spasm of this area may be due to other causes.

The suggestion has been made that extracts of the gland will be helpful, but, unfortunately, this substance seems to be of little or no value, although it may depress blood pressure. Many physicians regard this whole matter as of sufficient importance to have an X-ray plate made of every baby's neck and treatment applied if the gland is found to be overdeveloped.

ORANGES AND FIGS.

G. S. writes: What food values have oranges and figs?

REPLY.

Oranges are of value because of their vitamins and the fact that the juice furnishes an alkali within the body. The amount of nourishment which they provide is small, inasmuch as they contain only 8 per cent carbohydrates. Dried figs, on the other hand, pound for pound, are more nourishing than bread and a pint of milk, and six ounces of dried figs makes a fair meal. Of starches and sugars, fresh figs contain nearly 20 per cent.

BETTER VISIT PHYSICIAN.

J. E. writes: The gland in the front of my neck is very big. I am 14 years old. Is this normal?

REPLY.

The gland you refer to is probably the thyroid and the condition is known as goiter. I would suggest a visit to your physician and a metabolic rate test. It may be that a small quantity of iodine with your food will be all that is needed.

WOULD INJURE SKIN.

C. A. writes: Would carbonic acid ice have any injurious effect if applied to the skin?

REPLY.

It would produce destruction of the cells, more or less severe, varying with the length of application.

USE OF SOLDIERS' FIELD.

Chicago, May 22.—The opus captioned "Why the Discrimination?" appearing in THE TRIBUNE prompts me to make a reply—if you care to give it space. Here it is:

To assuage Mr. Murphy's fretfulness—shown in his question about Soldiers' field—the following explanation is offered.

It is customary among well bred, cultured people to accord a friendly and esteemed visitor privileges and courtesies that the host and his family themselves consider too elaborate for their ordinary workaday life. The same applies to communities and nations.

The Swedish crown prince came here as a distinguished visitor to a festive occasion, and Chicago's Swedes—knowing their etiquet—have arranged to hold their celebration at a place of outstanding distinction and prestige: Soldiers' field. Incidentally, this place is not dedicated to any one special nationality.

The crown prince comes here, not to thank God that the celebrants are Swedes, but to congratulate them on their successful efforts in contributing their full share to the progress of the American nation.

Evidently Mr. Murphy is not familiar with American theories and practices, otherwise he wouldn't exhibit such a spoiled kid attitude. He should be apprised of the fact that it was not as an Irishman Father Coughlin asked permission to use Soldiers' field, nor for Irish interests, but solely as an American for the purpose of discoursing his opinion of American problems.

The matter, being only an ordinary workaday item of the city, and the board, being American, decided according to American policy. Irishness was not slighted. Mr. Murphy may gain some consolation from knowing that even a Swede could have been refused permission!

Less stress on a person's nationality and more on his efficiency as a citizen would help greatly in keeping our United States as originally intended—a land where different nationalities and religious creeds work together for the common welfare, and without dictatorship from either. AN AMERICAN-MINDED SWEDE.

WITH LOTS OF MOUTHS TO FEED.

Chicago, May 26.—Answering a correspondent who suggests a lie detector for people on relief: You must have a pretty good job or you have few depending on you.

We are not on relief because we like it. Where you have lots of mouths depending on a pay check you would do most anything to feed those mouths or you wouldn't be a good father. If you walk the street from morning till night, week in and week out, and lie awake nights wondering where your little children are going to get their next meal, then you can talk. J. F. H.

Chicago, May 25.—I don't know who they were—or why—but it was a delight to watch the WPA workmen at Hampden court and Deming place today from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. Lean, fit, and seemingly interested in their work, they were quite a contrast to WPA workers often seen.

A PUNCH DRUNK GOVERNMENT.

Chicago, May 25.—The federal government has for years been yelling, for the benefit of the uninformed public, that the telephone companies were bleeding the telephone user with exorbitant rates. They established a commission to investigate and tell the company how to run its business; they suggest changes which would cripple communication service in five years' time, but who expects a politician to see past the next election anyway.

Last week I had occasion to make an important long distance call. The toll charge was fifty cents. What did I get for my half a buck? I lifted the receiver, gave my number, and in the same time required for a local call reached my party miles away and in less than five minutes from the time I gave my number the transaction was completed. I had saved a great deal of time and anxiety and had satisfied my every requirement in that connection.

When I went to pay for the call there was added "tax 10 cents." For what? What did I get for a 20 per cent surcharge to a telephone call? Nothing except the feeling that the average person gets when confronted by out of reason taxes for which the government gives nothing in return. The government does nothing to safeguard, guarantee, or improve communication by telephone. The manufacturer and operator must serve the public in spite of government interference. Why a 20 per cent steal of the customer's money for a bunch of authority drunk politicians who don't know the value of the public dollar.

ABOLISH THE BACK ROOMS.

Chicago, May 24.—Chicago has been greatly shocked by the tragedy that grew out of the sale of intoxicants to minors in a disreputable saloon on the south side. It takes such an incident as this to bring home to the people what is going on in the back rooms of the saloons that now infest our city.

Let no one think this is an isolated case. The Juvenile Protective association could unfold many a tale. While we all recognize that the home is responsible for minors, we can assist the home by making the so-called taverns live up to the city regulations. The police should see that saloon windows are cleared of drapes, Venetian blinds, and advertising posters, so that the public can see what is going on, and the back rooms should be abolished entirely.

Here is a job for the parent-teacher association in Chicago, to work for the outlawing of the back rooms of saloons and the enforcing of the "clear vision" rule of the city ordinance.

SOUTH SHORE.

IS MR. McNEILL AS BAD AS THAT?

Chicago, May 24.—D. A. McNeill of Thomson, Ga., thinks the wage and hour bill is theoretical and impractical. It is really refreshing to hear or read a real 100 per cent American express his view on vital questions of the hour.

The wage and hour bill should be killed so D. A. McNeill can continue to work men for 60 cents a day.

He writes that colored labor in the south is not trained; is contented with its condition in life. That suits Mr. McNeill. The only ambition he will encourage in his colored laborers is to work more hours with less pay.

Ross F. WILLIAMS.

HE LIKED THE EDITORIAL.

Chicago, May 25.—Your editorial of May 25, 1938, entitled: "Wave Lengths as Property," is one of the finest recent defenses of public rights. Muzzle the radio, the press, and the public utterances, and you have robbed us of freedom—the birthright our patriotic forefathers fought for and upon which this country was founded. JOE KOB.

HE DIDN'T.

Chicago, May 25.—"Wave Lengths as Property" [your editorial] is a conglomeration of absurdities. How about asking for property rights on the air? As to inventors "giving" us the wave lengths, it is not true. Nature gave us those; inventors merely found ways to utilize them.

We have been hearing much about government censorship of our free press. But many of us have had experience with the editorial censorship of communications submitted by readers. "Free press" is something for editors to rave and rant about, but the people are little interested, for they know it to be a fiction. R. M. BAKER.

DISABLED VETS.

Chicago, May 25.—Once again a drum and bugle corps composed entirely of disabled American veterans of the world war will march down Michigan avenue in the Memorial day parade, rain or shine, in honor of our departed comrades.

We haven't the beautiful instruments and uniforms that most of the other corps have, and due to our war disabilities we are physically unable to put on as peppy a front, but as each one of us can still see the faces of buddies that were shot down at our side twenty years ago, you can rest assured that we will put everything we have into this parade in their memory.

OLD VET.

A SAMARITAN TRUCK.

Chicago, May 24.—People can talk all they want about speeding newspaper trucks, but I would like to cite an incident I witnessed Sunday evening, shortly after 7, between 74th and 75th streets on Cottage Grove avenue.

A little boy had been run down and seriously injured by a passenger automobile, and the next car to approach the scene was a Tribune delivery truck. In all their haste to get the latest news to the people, they stopped, picked up the little boy and rushed over to the Jackson Park hospital.

I think these men are worthy of honorable mention, for if this little boy does survive, it will probably be due to their quick action. NORMA SEDLACK.

DOGS.

Chicago, May 22.—While the aldermen are looking about for a new source of taxation to aid the unemployed it might be well for them to consider taxing our surplus dog population. There are at least 100,000 dogs in the city of Chicago. A tax of $3 a head would yield the tidy sum of $300,000, or materially reduce the dog nuisance, which would be a blessing to the children of the city. Every summer there is at least one death and a great deal of suffering among our children due to dog bites. If every untaxed dog was picked up and destroyed it would greatly reduce the mad dog hazard.

It costs almost as much to feed a dog as it does a child, yet a large number of people on relief own and feed dogs.

Long Week-End to Be Gay One for Chicagoans

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHAT a gala week-end this will be if only nature is in a sunny mood, for with Monday a holiday every one is planning something special for the long week-end. Some are going to the country, others to country clubs, and still others are going to stay at home and enjoy urban entertainments.

There is no derth of things to do nor of places to go for any age or any taste, but many of the things planned are dependent upon good weather for their success, so here's hoping May has had all her rainfall!

Miss Joan Ryerson to Be Bride Today.

Today brings one of the largest and most fashionable of the spring weddings, that of Miss Joan Ryerson, only daughter of Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson and the late Mr. Ryerson, to George Washington Wales Brewster Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. George W. W. Brewster of Boston.

The service will be read at 4 o'clock in the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest by the rector, the Rev. Herbert Prince. There will be a wedding reception at the Mayflower road home of the bride's mother.

Anthony M. Ryerson has come from school in the east to give his sister in marriage. Miss Nancy Ryerson will be her cousin's maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Elise Clow, Miss Kathryn Milburne of Old Westbury, N. Y., Mrs. Tracy Barnes of New York, Miss Anne Greenway of Greenwich, Mrs. John Pillsbury Jr. of Crystal Bay, Minn., and Mrs. Philip Boyer Jr. of Philadelphia.

William L. Brewster has come from New York to be his brother's best man, and ushering will be another brother, Henry H. Brewster, and Laurence H. H. Johnson Jr., Nelson W. Aldrich, H. H. Proctor, Daniel F. Jones, and Greeley Curtis Jr., all of Boston. Mr. Brewster and his bride will go to Bermuda and upon their return in about a month they will be at home in Boston.

The junior Edward L. Ryersons and the Joseph T. Ryersons are entertaining the bridal party and other out of town guests at luncheon today at the Lake Forest residence of the senior Mrs. Ryerson, and tonight the Kent Clows will give a dinner for the out of town guests.

Country Clubs Hold Official Openings Today.

It has become a time honored custom for Memorial day to mark the official opening for the season of the country clubs, but actually most of them have been open and put to good use before that day dawns each spring. Neither the Shoreacres nor the Onwentsia are having club dances tonight, but the former is having a buffet luncheon on Monday. The Shoreacres program for the summer includes Thursday and Sunday night buffets, and a luncheon every Friday for the women.

No special entertainment will be offered over this week-end at the Onwentsia but the swimming pool will be ready and luncheon will be served buffet style on the terrace, weather permitting. The first buffet supper-dance will be on June 16.

A dinner-dance on April 30 opened the Indian Hill club for the summer, but there will be another dinner and dance tonight. The tennis courts and the golf course will be available for games over the week-end, but the pool will not be filled until June 15. The club features Thursday night and Sunday night buffet suppers every week.

The Glen View club, which opens formally with a dinner-dance tonight, also features Sunday night buffet suppers. The swimming pool will be open this week-end.

Knollwood Club Will Hold Formal Dance.

The Knollwood club will open its summer season with a formal dinner dance tonight. The pool will be opened today and on Monday there will be various tennis and golf events. Thursday night buffets in the form of keno parties or barbecues will be featured rather than Saturday night dances.

The Exmoor club likewise will have a dance this evening to open its season formally. More than 500 reservations have been made. The swimming pool will open today. Buffet suppers will be served every Sunday and Thursday evenings during the summer, and there will be a dinner-dance every Saturday night.

Tennis Matches at Skokie Club.

Tennis enthusiasts will gather at the Skokie Country club Monday afternoon to watch Ellsworth Vines, Fred Perry, and others in a series of matches, which will be postponed until Tuesday in case of rain. Deserting the Onwentsia for the afternoon will be Earl De Long, who is to have a group of eight; Willard Boyden, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Adams, the T. Albert Potters, the Russell Kelleys, the Francis E. Manierres, and the junior John B. Drakes.

Others entertaining at the matches will be the William B. Freers, the junior Edward M. Tourtellots, Mr. and Mrs. George Shields III., and the George Von Gehrs, all of whom have boxes; as well as the Wallis Pattersons, the Webster Balls, and the George A. Kellys. The matches will start at 2 o'clock with Berkeley Bell of Texas and Walter Senior, who won the Illinois tournament at the Skokie last summer, opposing each other.

A dinner-dance tonight will open the summer activities at the club, and a 36 hole men's golf tournament will open the golfing season formally on Monday.

Claims Federal Church Council Aided Sitdowns

Milwaukee, Wis., May 27.—(AP)—Dr. Frank J. Norris, leader of the National Fundamentalist convention, assailed the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America today as communistic and modernistic.

The Detroit and Fort Worth minister uttered his denunciation while the Northern Baptist convention was in session in a nearby hall. The Northern Baptists are affiliated with the federal council.

"If the Northern Baptist convention fails to repudiate this council the receipts of the convention will take a nose dive in the next twelve months," Dr. Norris predicted.

"This council is a large, radical, pacifist organization. It probably represents 20,000,000 Protestants in the United States, but its leadership consists of a small, radical group which dicates its policies.

"I saw with my own eyes officials of the federal council promote the sitdown strike last year in Michigan, and this sitdown strike is the principal cause of the present depression.

"The fight is on to a successful finish and fundamentalists will ask for no quarter at the hands of the Moscow controled Federal Council of Churches."

The Baptists adopted a report favoring establishment of a permanent council on Christian education. Under the plan, activities of the American Baptist Publication society, the Baptist Young People's Union of America, and the Baptist board of education would be federated.

City's Music Pupils Give Good Account of Chicago Studios

The quality of that patient work which goes on day after day in the studios of Chicago music teachers was demonstrated in Kimball hall last evening when the Society of American Musicians presented the winners of its 1938 students' division contests.

Here were musicians in their early 'teens and younger who betrayed in their playing a knowledge of the more subtle points of musical style as well as of standard technical devices. Sometimes the precocity revealed by a masterly handling of a phrase line was nothing less than startling.

Robert Basso, 14, violinist who already has appeared with the Chicago Symphony orchestra at two of its children's concerts, led off the evening with a Bach sonata and returned toward the end for the Vieuxtemps Fantasia Appassionata.

The other performers all were pianists: Muriel Fine, Frances Elermann, Lydia Truc, Lillian Johnson, and Estelle Langlois. Carol Silver, who had won the right to appear on the same program, was prevented from so doing by an accident to her hand.

The annual May festival of the Chicago dance council brought to Thorne hall last evening a good sized audience and a profusion of performers. The first part of the evening was given over to student dancing, the second and third divisions to professionals.

Herzog Shows Tiny Paintings of Rare Beauty

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Flower and fruit still life, landscapes, and one or two figure studies make up the exhibition by Max Herzog which is current in the Palette and Chisel Academy of the Fine Arts, 1012 North Dearborn street. It is just the right kind of an exhibition for summer. It is colorful and decorative and cheerful in mood.

Mr. Herzog has long been known as a decorative painter. He is well known for the beauty of his flower compositions. In the present exhibit you will find many flower arrangements to excite your enthusiasm, not the least of them the several tiny studies of flowers, one an exquisite bouquet of wild roses. The "Lilies" is an unusually lovely composition with Easter lilies, the touch of green in the scarf is most effective, continuing the line in a persuasive rhythm.

The "Still Life" and "Fruits," both studies of fruits and flowers in bright, direct colors, and pleasing in composition are among the best things in the show. The "Daisies," "Poppies," "Bouquet," Peonies," and "Asters" [this last a magnificent still life arrangement, each object beautifully handled] are a succession of triumphs.

In the landscapes Mr. Herzog shows a fondness for rather menacing skies and the sunniest of his fields is threatened with the gray of rain. "Sorrel" and "Before the Storm" are interesting. The little "Barn," with the woman standing by the horse [she, by the way, is Mrs. Herzog], is pleasing in its simplicity.

Near the Children's museum in the Art institute a delightfully ponderous and intricate lock has been placed on view. It represents Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. You may have to do a little hard research but all seven of the tiny men are there.

The lock was made by Frank L. Koralewsky, who spent six years on it. It was awarded a gold medal at the Panama exposition. Richard Crane Jr. purchased the lock and has given it to the Art institute. It really is worth seeing.

Presbyterians O.K. Pacifists; Fighters Also

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 27.—[Special]—The Presbyterian general assembly today directed its 267 presbyteries to consider doctrinal changes which if adopted would not only give ecclesiastical protection to conscientious war objectors but also provide spiritual approval for Presbyterians who enter military service in time of war.

Spirited debate arose when the Rev. Dr. Clarence E. Macartney of Pittsburgh, Pa., charged inconsistency in the proposal which defined war as being always in defiance of Godly righteousness yet requiring the individual's conscience to decide for or against the church's predefined conscience when war comes. Dr. Macartney's amendment lost by a three to one vote and the proposed confessional change was adopted by a vote of three to one.

The Rev. Paul C. Johnston of Scranton, Pa., chairman of the committee which wrote the amendment to the church's historic confession of faith, defended the report against the Macartney attack.

"The church as the church must be uncompromisingly on the side of peace by witnessing to the diabolical and destructive character of war," Dr. Johnson said. "This is what the proposed amendment does. But there are two conscientious groups in the churches; one composed of outright pacifists and another to whom war is justified under certain conditions.

"The amendment deliberately refrains from defining a just war, but let not the church as the church encourage any action on the part of the government to encourage any war. A just war can only be defined by the individual conscience. When he obeys his conscience the church must protect him in the attitude he takes and cast no aspersion on him."

Dr. Macartney asserted that the church ought to be engaging in war against greater sins than war. He declared that if the country has no moral right to use force in the upholding of righteousness between nations it has no right to use force to "restrain evil, discipline wrongdoers, and protect civil and religious liberties," as stated in the proposed definition of the duties of civil government.

"Are we as disturbed as we ought to be about the war on crime?" Dr. Macartney asked. 'In all the wars during the 162 years of our country only about 111,000 American soldiers were killed in war, but in the last twenty years alone crime has killed 120,000 persons."

The entire report, which if adopted by the presbyteries, will substitute the entire chapter twenty-three of the Westminster confession of faith. Chapter 23 deals with duties of civil magistrates. As it now stands, magistrates [meaning the state] have divine authority to ask citizens to engage in war.

To meet the threats of Fascism, Nazlism, and communism the committee on chapter 23 of the Westminster confession was directed a year ago to draft an entirely new definition of the relationship of church and state.

Good Morning!

"The memory lingers on——"

If you don't believe fans still remember Rudolph Valentino, a trip to the Garrick will convince you otherwise. Certainly it's a long time since I've seen such a full house as yesterday greeted the return engagement of a beloved old silent film of 1926, whose hero is an actor long since dead.

Let the Taylors and the Gables and the Powers pause a moment to consider. Have THEY got what it takes, I wonder, to make an audience come early and lovingly, from long distances, for a glimpse of them, years after taps have sounded? Perhaps. But it's a thought.

First, I decided I'd look up my review and refresh my mind as to how I'd liked "Son of the Sheik" when it made its initial appearance. Then—well—I didn't. I wanted to see just how the older critic reacted to the old movie.

My surprise lay in finding not how poor it was—but how well it stood up in this day of ultrasophistication.

True, the photography isn't marvelous. But the acting—and direction—are quite as commendable as plenty now on tap, and there's some comedy that's really funny. One thing I loved—players and director worked with a smile—at themselves. At no time does anybody in the picture appear to take this torrid desert romantic comedy too seriously.

Mr. Valentino holds his own [strange to be writing about him again!] with the handsome lads of today. His vehicle may be "dated," but he, through charm and sincerity, refuses to be. "A man's a man for a' that," you know, and Rudolph Valentino WAS a man.

He plays a dual rôle, remember? He's both the sheik and the son of the sheik, who follows right in papa's daring footsteps. Agnes Ayres, heroine of "The Sheik"—"to oblige Mr. Valentino, graciously consented to play the sheik's wife in this movie"—says a title. Interesting to see her again.

Another thing that surprised me was the excellence of makeup. Mr. Valentino as the old sheik is amazingly convincing and Miss Ayres is believable as a woman of advanced age.

Vilma Banky, long since retired—she's the wife of Rod La Roque—is a charming heroine. Other parts are excellently handled. Effective sound effects have been added.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Ronald Colman, in Person.

Hollywood, Cal., May 27.—In all my born days I've never seen such a scurvy set of villains as are to be found on stage 10, at Paramount. At least it was stage 10, but at the moment it is the Fir Cone inn as it appeared in the reign of Louis XI. in 1460. When I arrived the bearded François Villon had just murdered the grand constable of Paris and there was hell to pay.

Ronald Colman.

If, during the days of prohibition, you ever were in a speakeasy that was raided, you'll visualize the scene that was being enacted in the Fir Cone inn. Instead of indignant revenuers, the cave-like tavern was crowded with breast plated soldiers, their arrows trained on the cowering habitués.

In the foreground, stretched on the floor, was the murdered man. Basil Rathbone, in a dirty brown robe, his face concealed by a black cowl, was bending over the slain man and reading a secret document which he had found on him.

A few feet away Director Frank Lloyd was directing the action: "Give me more steam on that fire," ordered the assistant cameraman. A man rushed up with a chunk of dry ice and dropped it into the pot, and immediately steam vapor started spiraling upward. The cameras ground. "Good; print it," said Lloyd.

Released temporarily from the set, Colman came over to where we were standing. His stand-in, in a twin costume and beard, took his place on the set while we talked.

"I arrived in New York from England in 1920," Colman recalled. "I'd rather not remember it. I had exactly $57 or at least the equivalent in English pounds and shillings. The city appeared so huge, my bankroll so inadequate. I'd been on the English stage, in a variety sketch and some other things, but conditions were bad in London in 1920, and I thought I could get rôles on the American stage."

I asked him how he had fared: "I left my name at every theatrical manager's office in New York, but it was no go. Finally, when I did land a few small parts, the shows always folded up in the suburbs. It seemed that I'd never get to Broadway. In fact, it was almost two years before I made an appearance on a Broadway stage."

He excused himself to go back before the cameras and play a scene. "Okay; print it," said Director Lloyd.

"My first important break in America was in 'East Is West,'" said Colman in answer to the question. "Fay Bainter was going on the road tour with the enormously successful play and I got a job with her. I still hadn't reached Broadway, but it was wonderful to be in a successful show after all the discouraging experiences. It was meeting Miss Bainter that made it possible for me to meet other stars, and it was through Ruth Chatterton that I secured the third lead in "La Tendresse" when Henry Miller produced it in 1922. That was my FIRST Broadway show."

I asked him how he'd made his entrance into movies: "I was so delighted to be with Henry Miller that I renounced all ideas of a movie career," he said. "Finally the movies made an offer that I couldn't resist. So I packed up and went to Italy with an American cast and an American director and made 'The White Sister' with Lillian Gish. That was my first motion picture.

"Curious that you should ask me about these things, because all the loose ends of memory have been tied together the last week. Fay Bainter, who gave me my first important rôle, opened just the other night in 'White Banners.' Henry King, who directed me in my first moving picture in 1923, was hailed this week for his direction of 'Alexander's Ragtime Band.'"

Basil Rathbone joined us. In his 1460 costume, Basil produced a 1938 cigaret and lighted it with a stick from a package of Brown Derby matches. "Seabiscuit is an unlucky horse," said Rathbone. "Every time he gets a chance to win a $100,000 race, something happens." He was called back to the scene, to pose for the "still" man. "Pick up that cigaret butt," directed Lloyd, and a grip removed the cigaret which Rathbone had crunched out. Audiences would snicker if they saw it in a fifteenth century scene.

"My favorite picture?" Colman rubbed his hand thoughtfully through the whiskers cultivated during the last two weeks: "Tale of Two Cities. I always liked it from the time I read it in school." Again he was called to the set, and I watched the scene. Henry Wilcoxson, as the captain of the watch, is arresting Villon. "A fine day's work, this, Monsieur Villon," says Wilcoxson, pointing to the slain grand constable, John Miljan. He calls two of the soldiers: "Take him out and hang him," Wilcoxson directs. Huguette, the street gamin, throws her arm protectingly across Colman's chest. "No-o," she screams.

At this instant Basil Rathbone, looking very grubby indeed, rises from his kneeling position: "Just a moment, young man," he says to Wilcoxson, who whirls on him: "Who are you to interfere with the king's justice?" he asks. "I am the king's justice," replies Rathbone, throwing back the cowl and identifying himself as Louis XI.

The scene is shot and the players leave the set and come over. "I really enjoy this picture," says Rathbone, reaching into his poke for another cigaret. "It is the first time in years I haven't kicked a baby or been killed in reel 4."

Director Frank Lloyd grins: "It seems to me, Basil, old boy," he remarks, "that you are hurrying to get to the line where you tell Wilcoxson you are the king." Rathbone and Colman laugh, and the three of them were talking about Seabiscuit, Henry Armstrong, and Lloyd's golf handicap of eighteen strokes when your reporter left the "If I Were King" set.

Idlewild Club Party.

The Idlewild Country club in Flossmoor will have dinner and dancing, with an elaborate floor show, tonight to open the season.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The dusting powder situation looks very good these days. There are two handsome newcomers having the fragrances of two famous perfumes. The powder itself is extremely fine; it has a luxurious smoothness that makes you feel awfully pampered when you use it.

The container of these powders is sense and beauty in a perfect combination. The package is cork trimmed in a solid band from the base well up toward the top of the round box. This has lots of advantages. If feels suave in the hand for one thing. It resists moisture [always a factor in a bath or after bath preparation package] and it doesn't soil readily. It won't get nearly so battered as most bath powder containers do. The puff is the right kind and the right size.

The fragrances are delightful. One is romantic, the other the sparkling type. What you choose will depend on how your tastes run. Both are good bets.

We have always felt that dusting powders are better for summer use than at any other time. Lots of women who wear dark colors in winter feel that powder sifts through to the clothing and works out to the advantage of the clothes cleaners. In the summer this drawback—if it really is one—doesn't exist.

And a fine, fragrant dusting powder is a real aid to comfort and freshness in hot weather. Dusted on after the bath the skin feels smooth and cool; clothes slip on much more readily [especially those devilishly snug girdles], and the skin is scented. In these powders the fragrance isn't strong enough to conflict with your chosen perfume, but it's there and you're pleasantly conscious of it all day long.

SYNOPSIS.

Elizabeth Sandal is shocked to find her two children resent their father's will that unexpectedly left a fortune to her and did not mention them. Dorothea wants to have her own London flat. Oliver hopes to marry into wealth. Elizabeth goes off to Switzerland for a change and rest, and meets Andrew Leicester who was a groom at her wedding. Andrew, a widower, is returning after years of absence in China to meet his children. William, his son, lives with a bachelor relative. His daughter, Shirley, is with his wife's people. Shirley has become involved in a scandal with an aviator who was engaged to another girl. Her mother's family, so they have written Andrew, can do nothing with her. Andrew hopes to have it out with Shirley before becoming involved with his in-laws. Shirley believes the older generation are all against her and treats him coolly. Andrew turns to Elizabeth for sympathy. She tries to make friends with the boy and girl. Shirley's Aunt Jay writes Andrew hinting that the girl is seeing the aviator secretly. Dorothea hears from a friend about a stranger's attentions to her mother. Oliver decides to pay his mother a surprise visit. Elizabeth invites the Leicesters to spend a week-end at her hotel. Oliver arrives while his mother is out.

INSTALMENT XXIV.

CHILLED DELIGHT.

"Nothing wrong that I know of," Oliver reassured his mother. "I ran over to have a look at you. . . . Nice chase I've had, too."

"My poor darling! Why didn't you wire or telephone? . . . I suppose you wanted to take me by surprise." She drew a breath of relief and pleasure, touched to the heart. "It is the most perfect surprise, and I can hardly believe you are real and won't vanish. Have you booked your room and had something to eat?"

He said he had, and remembering Andrew, who had strolled away, she tucked her arm in Oliver's and called him back.

"Come and meet my son, Andrew. Oliver, Mr. Leicester is a very old friend I ran across by sheer luck. He has been giving me a delightful time, too, and we came over this morning for a week-end to see this side of the lake."

"Should I remember Mr. Leicester?" he asked his mother in an innocent tone of uncertainty.

"You shouldn't. We knew him before you were born, and he has been in the east for many years," said his mother, smiling at him.

Andrew offered the young man a whisky or cocktails, which he refused, and suggested to Elizabeth that she would like to have her son to herself for the evening, an offer she repudiated.

"He would be bored to death," she said. "We shall go and have a long talk before dinner if you will excuse us. Come along, Oliver, and tell me all the news."

They went up to her room, still arm in arm, and Oliver from a comfortable chair watched her take off her things, surprised at the change in her. She looked years younger and almost sparkling, the result chiefly of her delight in seeing him, though he did not know it.

The thought that he had come voluntarily like this to see that she was all right made her almost too happy for speech. The cloud between them, which had distressed her so much, was swept away, or was it? He was rather quiet. She looked at him anxiously.

She told him about her various excursions with Andrew, how the mountains had at first depressed her, but this side of the lake pleased her at once.

"It may be sentiment," she said. "I am fond of France. I knew it rather well when I was a girl."

Both talked of impersonal matters until Oliver saw his opportunity to revert to Andrew Leicester.

"Who is this chap?" he asked, lighting a cigaret.

"He was a groom at my wedding, darling, and we lost sight of him as people do. He has been in Shanghai for the last fifteen years."

"O," said Oliver, "I don't seem to remember hearing of him and you didn't mention him in your letters."

Elizabeth felt a chill stealing over her delight. It was the judicial tone, which she remembered, looking back, had grown with him, and which at first, because she loved him and seemed merely one of the natural manifestations of his young manhood. Now she saw it in a different light as something he should have outgrown and something she must resist.

"One can't go into ancient history on a postcard, my dear," she said, "and I have not felt inclined for letter writing except that hasty note to Dorothea about her flat. . . . Has she begun to look for it, by the way?"

"Heaven knows," said Oliver. "Mother, I can't make you out. What has come over you?"

He spoke in such an injured tone that she almost melted to him, but not quite.

"Perhaps it is the mountain air," she said.

"Of course, if you won't be serious . . ."

"I have been serious for so long," said his mother gravely. "I have come away for a change, the first in years. Think of it, no need to worry about anything—whether you will be in to dinner, or whether Sir Michael will keep you late and the food be wasted and your father annoyed; whether the maid will leave, or the bills be too high."

"Yes, I know," returned her son uncomfortably, "but hang it all, mother, you shouldn't have given in to all that. I mean it was perfectly ridiculous that you didn't take a holiday."

"Pounds, shillings and pence can be more than ridiculous when you haven't got them, Oliver."

"But the point is they were there," he exclaimed.

"You are being wise after the event, but you think I should have been wise before it," she said sadly.

He got up awkwardly, thrust his hands in his pockets and exclaimed:

"Good heavens, I only meant you are so trusting and easily imposed upon that any one can take you in."

"Any one?"

She turned away, wondering if this after all was what he had come for, to take advantage of her supposed credulity—or try.

Oliver did not even see what she meant, having had no idea how much he had hurt her on the question of his father's money. His preoccupations were with Andrew Leicester, and he said placatingly:

"I wasn't meaning to insult you in your own house—or pub, old thing. I'm willing to agree that you are as cunning as a fox if you like."

"As long as you get your own way in the end, I suppose," she said. "By whom have you ever seen me taken in? Butcher, baker, grocer, fruiterer, the servants, or merely your father and yourselves? These have made up my circle for a good many years, my dear. You don't even realize that there cannot be four masters in one house."

"You talk as though we had all bullied you to death as well as done you down," expostulated Oliver.

"No. I am just trying to show you that if I gave in to all three of you, it was not entirely from weakness of intellect, but from force of circumstances and other reasons that we won't go into. And now circumstances are different and I am free of you," she said.

"Cast off, are we?" inquired her son. "Well, I'm dashed. You talk as though we were incumbrances."

"Not a bit. I'm very fond of you," she returned, "but Dorothea is going her own way, and what is the use of my worrying any more as to whether she has proper meals at midday, or sits in damp shoes, and you will marry, naturally, so my job is done . . . Don't look so injured, you donkey. Go and dress and come back for me in half an hour and let's have a jolly evening."

She kissed him and led him to the door, aware of the puzzled frown between his eyes, but ignoring it, except to say at the last moment:

"It's lovely to see you."

The interview with her son had taken it out of Elizabeth and she sat down for a little and smoked a cigaret, with a sigh.

It had been easier to hold out against his dictatorial airs than she could have supposed, perhaps because after this separation from him, she had seen both them and the necessity more clearly. If he had come to argue his case about the money again, he must know at once that she did not intend to give in, but not until the evening was safely over.

GASOLINE ALLEY—THE AGONY OF LOVE

Lay Corner Stone of New Moody Institute Building

The corner stone of the twelve story administration building of the Moody Bible institute was laid yesterday on the north side of the arch which opens off La Salle street. Dr. Will H. Houghton, president of the institute, who made the address, had for his text the inscription on the corner stone—"The Foundation of God Standeth Sure; Jesus Christ Himself Being the Chief Corner Stone." Henry P. Crowell, president of the board of trustees, completed the mortaring in of the copper box placed in the stone.

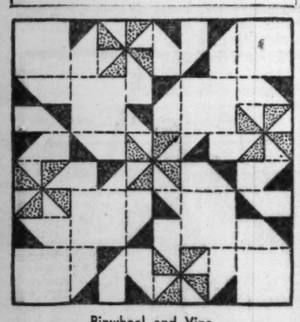
Quilt Deserves Prominence as a Museum Exhibit



Pinwheel and Vine.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Pinwheel and Vine" was the creation of a woman who had a great deal of time on her hands. She started the four patch pattern and finally wound up with ninety-two patches set together forming a 15 inch block. Desiring a coverlet which would serve as a spread she made forty-two of these large blocks and set them together, forming a beautiful and unusual all-over design. This work of art was simply finished with a ½ inch bias binding and every patch was quilted in outline. The needlework, both in piecing and quilting, is of the finest type and eventually will be presented to a museum if her children ever lose their interest in coverlets.

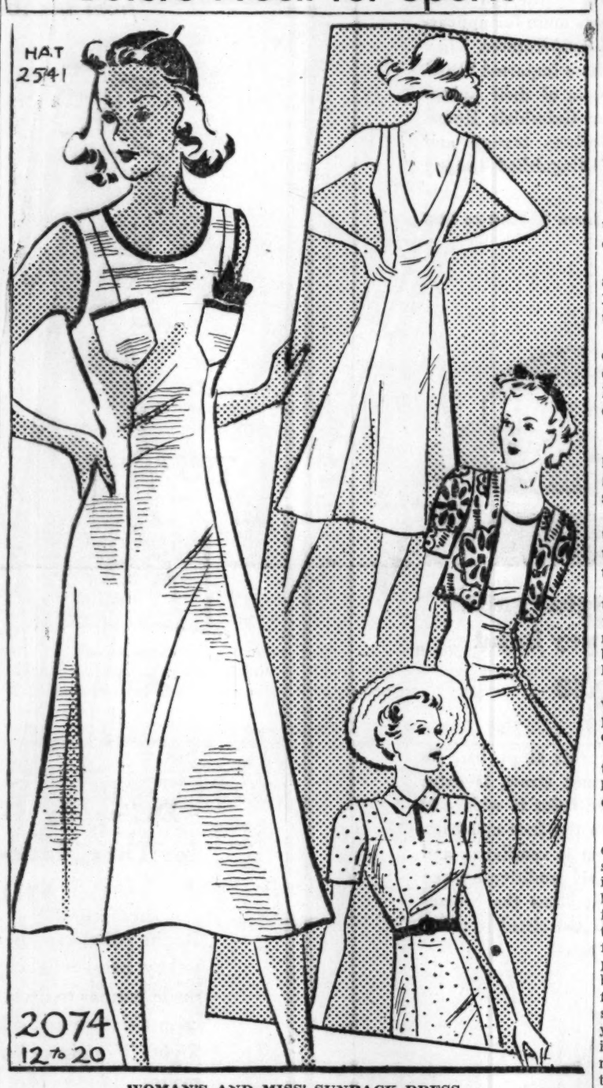
Bolero Frock for Sports



WOMAN'S AND MISS' SUNBACK DRESS.

For active sports there is nothing to equal the sunback dress which has a bolero jacket for "public appearances." While one is engaged in tennis, golf, and kindred sports the backless model is quite in order, but on the street the bolero is necessary and transforms the outfit into a nice ensemble. With the jacket one may wear the dress to the office and informal social events, and keep as cool and fresh as a cake of ice. A nice idea is to use a light shade, such as a pastel or plain white, for the dress, binding it with a dark shade, as shown in the large figure. A matching kerchief may be tucked into one of the bound pockets. The décolletage is V, while the neckline in front is round. Princess lines fit the frock perfectly to the figure. If you like, make the bolero of a gay print to harmonize.

The beret is a useful as well as attractive addition to any sports costume. The pattern for it is No. 2541, and is available for 10 cents extra. It comes in one headsize only, which you may adapt to your own needs.

Style No. 2074 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, and 38 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material, with 2½ yards of binding for the dress and 1 yard of 39 inch material for the bolero.

Measure Your Face, Then Get at the Defects

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

And now women can measure their own faces to determine whether they are in or out of proportion.

Jack Dawn took a few moments away from his work of making up Norma Shearer for her coming picture to give out this secret of secrets.

"Any woman can determine whether her nose is too long or short, her chin out of proportion, or her forehead wrong," Makeup Expert Dawn explained. "Here's how to do it."

"Place the tip of the thumb under the chin. If the tip of the first finger touches the tip of the nose, proportions are correct.

"Repeat this process with the thumb tip beneath the nose. This time the tip of the first finger should reach the lowest point of the eyebrows. From this point to the hairline is the next measurement."

It is Dawn's opinion that once a woman is conscious of the faulty proportions of her face she can go about correcting them.

"If more women would sit before their mirrors and look at themselves honestly beauty would increase 90 per cent," Dawn concluded.

How to apply the knowledge concretely? As Dawn says, being conscious that proportions may be faulty is first aid. Then you know that a hairdress or a hat style that is good for the girl with perfectly proportioned face may not be your most flattering number. The principle is pretty much the same as you have been applying right along to your figures. You have made more of a study of your figure's peculiarities. If your hips are wide, you see that draping is brought into action that will minimize the girth. If your burst is too large, you do not make it appear larger by adding ruffly jabots. But you have had to work those details out yourself. And you have done a swell job of it, too, on the whole. So, now, what's expected is that you will study your face and apply the "hide-and-seek" principle to hair and hats.

According to CULBERTSON

TAKING OUT A PENALTY DOUBLE

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

The weakest point in the average player's game, in the bidding department, is "preference bidding." He seems to have trouble in digesting the fact that there is a vast difference between a mere preference raise and a true raise. "Showing a preference" takes in a wider range than is generally realized. It is not merely confined to a choice between two suits that partner has shown. It extends also to the matter of taking out partner's business double. Consider North's lost opportunity in the following hand:

NORTH
♠ Q 9 6 4
♥ K Q 8 5 3
♦ 7

WEST
♠ J 8
♥ J 10 7 4 2
♦ 6
♣ J 9 7 3 2

EAST
♠ 10
♥ 9 6
♦ K Q 9 5 4 3 2
♣ A 10 5

SOUTH
♥ A
♦ A J 10 8
♣ Q 8

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 hearts	3 diamonds	Double	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

Since West naturally opened his singleton diamond, declarer had no difficulty in winning all the tricks, getting rid of his two clubs on the king and queen of hearts [after drawing one round of trumps] and then ruffing three diamonds. Obviously a small slam was cold against any opening.

Perhaps South was a bit conservative in bidding only four spades over North's three spades. But, according to his later statement, he was afraid that North was pretty weak and that two club tricks might be lost immediately. In any event it was not South's slight conservatism that cost the slam. It was North's terrific under bid that put the doubt in South's mind. The crux of the bidding was North's take-out of the three diamond penalty double. There can be no quarrel with the take-out itself since North held four of his partner's bid suit and a singleton diamond. But that North should have made such a weak take-out is incomprehensible. Put yourself in South's position. His partner passed originally. He did, it is true, make a two-over-one response to the spade bid, but when South doubled three diamonds North announced that he did not like the double. Here we come to the point. The announcement said that and nothing more. Whether North's dislike was based on fear that the three diamond contract might be made, or whether he merely preferred to go out for a game of his own remained a secret, locked in North's breast. In the absence of definite knowledge on this point South properly decided on a conservative course. Thus we can see that it was North's precise form of taking out the double that was responsible for the lost slam.

North should have left South in no doubt as to why he was taking out the double. He should not have shown a mere preference for an aggressive spade contract rather than a defensive diamond contract. In short, what he should have done was jump to four spades. Certainly he had the values, especially considering his original pass, and obviously such a jump would have given South all the encouragement he required to go to six.

Social Jack of All Trades Is Fated Spinster

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Louise describes a type of woman, fairly familiar to us all, who in spite of all her fine attributes and charms, fails to entice any man into bestowing his name upon her. Louise's description of her cousin is fairly general as a description.

"My cousin is a successful business woman who has traveled extensively. She has mingled with all kinds of work. She knows how to get along with people better than any one I know.

"She has a long list of masculine admirers, as I see it, but no one devoted man. She never has gotten herself involved with a married man, as may explain other young women's postponement of marriage. She is attractive looking, smart, and always beautifully groomed.

"She is exceedingly jolly, a good entertainer, and the best mixer I know. She brightens every group in which she is present. But still there she is, over the thirty border line, wanting marriage and a man and a home of her own, and no prospect in sight. What do you make of it?" Louise.

What we make of it, Louise, is lack of concentration on the object of her ambition—matrimony.

It's simply the old story of Jack-of-all-trades, socially speaking—good pal, good sport, good talker, good entertainer, good looking, but spreading the virtues over too wide a territory and hoping for a miracle to happen, instead of getting down to brass tacks and making the miracle happen.

"Is it true that home canned tomato juice has lost its vitamins and that only commercially canned juice is beneficial? I have read statements to this effect and am concerned as to the truth. If home canned juice is worth while, please give me a good recipe."

The Fort Wayne, Ind., woman who wrote this letter was sent a recipe with this information, which I think may interest other readers.

Home canned tomato juice isn't likely to be as rich in vitamins as is commercially canned juice, because home canning methods are far less efficient. The valuable vitamin C is easily destroyed by heat in the presence of air, and while the commercial canner does a pretty thorough job of keeping oxygen and heat from doing their destructive work, the woman in the home can't prevent some loss. The longer the cooking, the greater the loss, so home canned tomato juice or home canned tomatoes shouldn't be subjected to prolonged heat. Jar cooking is a far superior method to the open kettle.

Commercially canned tomato juice is so reasonable in price that I believe it impractical for the housewife to can her own juice unless she has available a quantity of tomatoes. Putting up tomato juice is a simple procedure, however, if you want to do it.

For Mrs. G. of Baraboo, Wis., and for others who like the rich lusciousness of Chess pie, this recipe is printed:

Chess Pie.

1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
5 egg yolks
5 egg whites
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
Pie pastry
Orange juice, grated orange rind [for pastry]

Cream the butter with sugar. Add beaten egg yolks and mix well. Fold in two of the egg whites beaten with salt and vanilla. Turn into pastry lined pan. [Make pastry with orange juice instead of water and add a little grated orange rind.] Bake at 425 degrees, hot oven, for about 12 minutes. Decrease heat to 300 degrees, slow oven, and continue baking about 20 minutes longer. Top with meringue made from remaining three egg whites and four tablespoons sugar. Turn oven heat up to 350 degrees and continue baking until meringue is browned. If a meringue is not used, fold all the beaten egg whites into the custard and bake the pie at 300 degrees for about 40 minutes after the initial high heat.

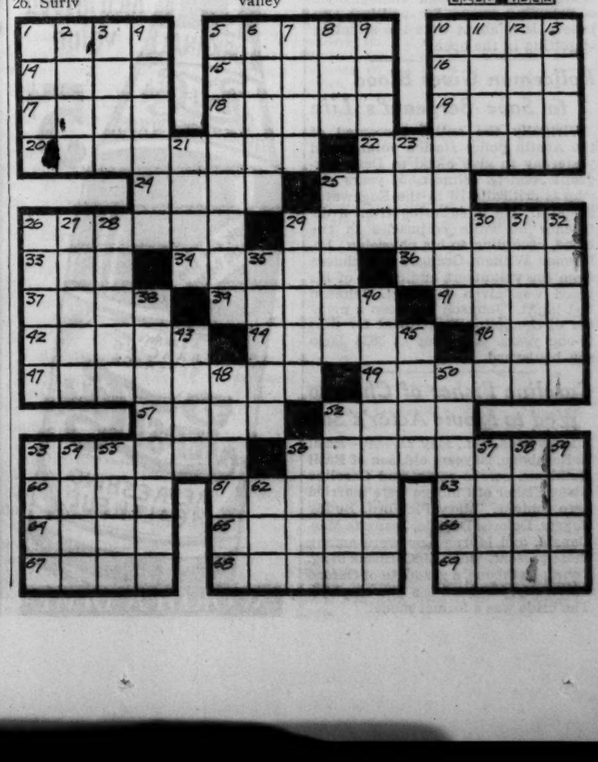
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



NEW SHADES OF GREEN COAT COTTON LANDS

Corn in Tassel in Some Fields of South.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 27.—[Special.]—An automobile trip of more than 3,000 miles through southern states reveals many new shades of green on old cotton and tobacco fields now being used in the growing of corn and an assortment of other crops under the government managed AAA crop curtailment program. With favorable summer weather planters expect a bounteous harvest of fiber, feed, and food crops.

Most of the southern crops are in the ground. The outlook generally is favorable for cotton, tobacco, corn, peanuts, small grain, hay, and pasture crops and vegetables. Heavy cuts in the acreage of cotton and tobacco have left planters with a surplus of labor, work animals, and machinery.

Planters Use Best Land.

In planting their cash crops most planters have used their best land, spread their fertilizing materials a little thicker, and used their finest seed. Fields are unusually free from weeds. With the proper combination of sunshine and rain, growers say they should get higher yields per acre.

The south has planted a relatively large acreage of corn on cotton and tobacco land. Virtually all the corn crop is planted, even in the extreme northern part of the cotton and tobacco belts. In the deep south some of the earliest fields of corn are tasseling and will be shooting ears soon.

Much of the small grain crop, including oats and wheat, is ripe and in the shock. Some have stacked their small grain and a few already have thrashed and have the grain safely stored. Relatively high yields per acre have been harvested in many sections.

Cotton All in Ground.

Virtually all of the cotton is in the ground. Much of the crop already has been chopped at least once. Choppers have gone over the fields to thin the cotton and hoe out the weeds in the earliest fields. The wet spring, followed by a dry spell, delayed planting in some areas.

By the end of this week most tobacco growers will have their plants transferred from the beds to the fields. Flue cured tobacco growers have all of their tobacco in the fields in the Carolinas. Farmers in the burley tobacco growing region as far north as Lexington, Ky., are well along with their work of transplanting.

Keep Within Allotments.

Since there is a surplus of cotton and tobacco and planters have an opportunity to collect their share of government subsidy payments, amounting to about 230 million dollars, the majority of them are staying within their cotton and tobacco allotments.

Both large and small planters are coöperating this year. The big planters will be able to continue to collect huge sums of money on this year's crop under the soil payment provisions of the farm law. There is much speculation in the south today as to what the big plantation owners' attitude will be toward the acreage reduction plan next year, because beginning with the calendar year 1939 no total payment for following the government's planting orders for any year to any person shall exceed $10,000.

To avoid being subjected to this limitation some planters already have divided up their plantations among their children.

G. O. P. WILL OPEN DOWNSTATE VOTE CAMPAIGN TODAY

Representative Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for the United States senate, left Chicago yesterday to be the chief speaker at a spring rally of the party today at Metropolis, on the Ohio river. Other nominees for state and federal offices will also appear.

The gathering has been called by downstate Republican leaders to launch a vigorous summer campaign which is expected to be well under way even before the state central committee meets to draft a platform and lay out a vote drive for the entire state.

"This will be the beginning of the Republican campaign downstate," Representative Lyons said.

"At the Metropolis rally we're going to discuss the New Deal, relief, and other problems. In my talk I am going to point out that the Democrats are now accusing themselves of things the Republicans have charged against them, among them of spending money for political purposes. It is about time the situation is getting in the open."

Policeman Gives Blood to Save Sergeant's Life

Virtually the entire personnel of the Austin police station volunteered yesterday to give blood to Desk Sergeant John Q. Johnson, 54 years old, who is critically ill in the Edgewater hospital. He is suffering from a deficiency of white corpuscles in the blood, according to his physician. Policeman William Granger was chosen from the volunteers and a pint of his blood was given to Sergt. Johnson last night. Johnson has been a member of the police department for thirty-one years. He lives at 3833 Jackson boulevard.

GLIDER PILOTS TO COMPETE AT BENTON HARBOR

The second Chicagoland soaring and gliding contest will be held today, Sunday and Monday on the beach just north of Benton Harbor, Mich. About a dozen gliders and soaring planes are scheduled to compete for points and prizes. Contestants from Chicagoland and from the Detroit area have entered.

The event will be a preliminary to the national soaring and gliding meet to be held at Frankfort, Mich., in September, and a warmup for the meet to be held at Elmira, N. Y., earlier in the summer. Ideal weather with a 20 to 30 mile an hour wind from the west to create rising currents over the 100 foot clay bluffs along the beach was predicted for today. Meteorologists say there will be cumulus clouds and scattered thunderstorms which also are used by soaring pilots.

SHULER MURDER STILL MYSTERY; INQUEST CLOSED

The slaying two months ago of Edward Shuler, an operating engineer, was left a mystery yesterday when a coroner's jury returned a verdict of "murder by a person or persons unknown" and the inquest was closed. Shuler, who was 35 years old and lived at 1442 East Marquette road, was found shot to death March 25 in front of 2322 Ohio street.

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan told the jurors and Deputy Coroner James T. Whalen that many clews had been run down and many possible motives weighed, but nothing definite learned. It was at first thought that Shuler had been slain because of opposition to leaders of the International Union of Operating Engineers, local 399, but this theory could not be supported.

Shulers' widow attended the inquest but did not testify.

MALONE LOSES FINAL PLEA TO ESCAPE PRISON

Starts Serving Sentence for Income Tax Fraud.

William H. Malone, former chairman of the Illinois tax commission, was lodged in the county jail last night in the custody of United States deputy marshals preparatory to serving a two year sentence in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., for violation of income tax laws.

He was taken into custody after Judge William H. Holly in federal court denied a plea for a further stay of mittimus. Malone will be transferred to the penitentiary Tuesday. He was sentenced last July 29 by Judge Holly and the conviction later was upheld by the United States Supreme court.

Finds Malone in No Danger.

Malone was to have begun his sentence last Monday, but Judge Holly had granted a five day stay to have his own physician, Dr. Carl O. Rinder, examine the defendant. Malone's attorneys had claimed the trip and subsequent term in the penitentiary would result in his death from a severe heart ailment.

"The physician's report shows that with proper medical care there is no danger in sending the defendant to jail," Judge Holly said yesterday as Malone was led before him.

Malone, eyes filling with tears and face flushed, then began a fervent plea.

Cuts Off Argument.

"I don't care about myself, your honor, but for those I'm leaving behind. This is a question of my life. I have three doctors here who can testify——"

"Mr. Malone," Judge Holly interrupted. "I'll have no further arguments in this case." He motioned for the deputies to take Malone away.

As they walked toward him, Malone seemed about to faint, then drew himself up and went to the marshal's office, where his finger prints were taken. He was later transferred to the county jail.

SNITE TO RETURN HOME NEXT WEEK IN HIS IRON LUNG

Frederick B. Snite Jr., infantile paralysis victim, who has spent the winter in Florida, will return to Chicago next week. Traveling in the iron lung in which he has spent practically all his time for many months, he will leave Miami next Wednesday and arrive here at 3 p. m. Friday. He will be accompanied by his father, loan company executive; his mother, and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Terrence J. Dillon.

The Snite party will travel in three special cars on the Dixie Limited of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway. They will be met at the Dearborn street station by a large moving van which will take the afflicted youth to his home at 909 Ashland avenue, River Forest.

Young Snite can now remain outside the big iron lung for twenty-three minutes at a time and can breath comfortably for two hours daily in a smaller iron lung which covers only his chest.

QUARTER MILLION MEN WORSHIP IN EUCHARIST RITES

Gather in Budapest for Service.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 27.—(AP)—A quarter of a million men occupied forty-four miles of benches in Heroes' square tonight for the greatest event of the third day in the 34th Roman Catholic Eucharistic congress—the night adoration of the Most Blessed Sacrament for men.

Thousands of farmers were among the throng, brought to Budapest on special trains which waited to carry them back in time for tomorrow morning's chores. The crowd sat before an altar 150 feet high.

All visiting foreign church dignitaries were present. Five hundred priests circulated among the throng to administer the Eucharistic wafer. Night adoration of the Most Blessed Sacrament for women also was held in various churches.

Earlier today world delegates spoke at the second public congress of the meeting. The Hungarian Catholic hierarchy, cabinet ministers and members of the Hungarian aristocracy attended. A military band played a papal hymn and thousands cheered as Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, papal legate and secretary of state, arrived for that meeting. The first speaker was Premier Bela Imredi.

WARSHIP GUARDS KINGSTON; STRIKE IS DEADLOCKED

KINGSTON, Jamaica, May 27.—(AP)—The British cruiser Ajax swung at anchor in the harbor and armed police and volunteers patrolled the streets today while negotiations remained deadlocked with striking longshoremen.

Most public service workers had returned to work, but the longshoremen refused to accept a 4 cent raise in pay. They demanded 25 cents an hour, 5 cents more than offered by the shippers and 9 more than they are paid now.

The strikes, which began with the longshoremen and spread to the other workers, have resulted in six deaths and 77 injuries since last Saturday. More than 80 persons have been arrested. The Ajax came from Bermuda at the request of the governor of Jamaica.

RAIDERS CLOSE TWO HANDBOOKS AND DANCE HALL

Two handbooks and a dance hall were closed and thirty-two slot machines were seized yesterday in a campaign against gambling and vice in Chicago's suburbs.

The handbooks, raided by county highway policemen of the Homewood station, were at 82 Illinois street, Chicago Heights, and 12230 Halsted street, Calumet Park. Five men were arrested.

The Dreamland taxi dance hall, 4000 South Harlem avenue, Stickney, was closed by the Willow Springs county highway police. The same raiding squads seized fourteen slot machines in taverns and stores in Worth and Palos townships. State's attorney's policemen arrested eleven men and confiscated eighteen machines in Cicero.

GREENBERG HITS RECORD HOMER INTO BLEACHERS

Kennedy Pitches 7th Victory for Tigers.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

They laughed at Manager Mickey Cochrane of the Detroit Tigers last winter when he sat down at the trading block with Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox. And they laughed some more when Mr. Cochrane gave the Sox Gee Walker and Marv Owen for Vernon Kennedy and Dixie Walker. They may laugh again later on, but yesterday in Comiskey park Vernon Kennedy rang up his seventh straight victory of the season, just short of half of his team's victories. The score was Tigers, 5; White Sox, 2.

Romany Vern, who repeatedly was psychoanalyzed last year by Sox mentors, only to become nervouser and nervouser with each psychological treatment and each phrenological reading, had only two bursts of temperament yesterday and would have got out unscathed from both if Hank Steinbacher hadn't been present with the day's instalment of his batting rampage. Hank's third single, with bases full in the seventh, gave the Sox their pair of runs. Steinbacher's three hits, by the way, formed half the Sox's total for the afternoon.

Gabler Fairly Effective.

Frank Gabler made his American league bow to home folks and held the Tigers to five hits in seven innings. One of these, a double by Pete Fox with the bases full in the first inning, came after he should have been lifted out on double play. Another was a record homer which Hank Greenberg parked in the center field bleacher with two out in the third. It was the first time in the 12 year existence of greater Comiskey park that any one ever socked a homer into the uncovered bleacher behind the center field flagpole.

The outcome of yesterday's engagement caused the Tigers and the Sox to trade places in the American league standing. The White Sox now are in sixth place and the Tigers in fifth. Both teams are two games under the .500 mark, but the Tigers have won 15 and lost 17 while the Sox have won 12 and lost 14.

The Sox moved nearer full strength yesterday when Joe Kuhel, out of the lineup since he was injured in New York on May 8, batted for Rigney in the ninth. Though he fouled out, Kuhel seemed sprightly enough.

Gabler Wabbly at Start.

Gabler's first home inning was two-thirds of a success. He hit Rogell with a pitched ball, but made Dixie Walker pop to Berger after which Gehringer forced Rogell for the second out. Greenberg warmed up for his subsequent record homer by singling to center, putting Gehringer on third. York got his first pass, filling the bases, whereupon Fox doubled to right, Gehringer and Greenberg scoring and York stopping at third. Berger threw out Tebbetts.

Ross opened the second inning with a single, but Kennedy flied to Kreevich and Rogell lined to Hayes, who threw to Radcliff to double Ross off first.

In the third Dixie Walker grounded out and Gehringer popped to Berger. Then Greenberg drove that record homer into the center field bleacher. York drew his second pass, but Fox flied to Kreevich.

Gabler retired the Tigers in order in the fourth. Rogell opened the fifth with the fifth and last hit off Gabler, a single. Dixie Walker and Gehringer flied out, Rogell stole second and Greenberg flied to Kreevich.

The Sox did not develop a threat until the sixth. Steinbacher wasted

REDS WIN 2 TO 1 NIGHT BATTLE WITH CARDINALS

Cincinnati, O., May 27.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds won a pitching duel between Johnny Vander Meer and Bill McGee tonight, beating the St. Louis Cardinals, 2 to 1, in ten innings. Virgil Davis and Harry Craft hit successive doubles to end the game, the first night contest of the season.

The Cards scored the first run in the fourth inning on J. Martin's double, a passed ball, and Gutteridge's long fly to Cooke. The Reds tied the score in the seventh on Myers' single, Vander Meer's sacrifice, and Frey's double. McGee struck out eight and Vander Meer ten.

First in Sox Park

Hank Greenberg's home run against the White Sox in the third inning of their game with Detroit yesterday was the first ever hit into the center field bleachers since greater Comiskey park was opened in April, 1927. The ball cleared a 15 foot wall in front of the bleacher to the right of the flagpole. The distance to the wall is 440 feet. It was the Tiger first baseman's 11th homer of the season.

There have been longer drives in Comiskey park, including one Greenberg dropped on the roof of the left field stand in the opening series of the season. Greenberg's smash yesterday was unique in that it was almost to dead center, most of the record homers being made by pull hitters to one of the flanks.

The longest hits in Comiskey park have been made by famous pull hitters. Lou Gehrig has knocked three on top of the right field stands and Babe Ruth a couple to the same roof. Jimmy Foxx was the only right hand hitter to drive the ball out of the park before Greenberg did it last month. Jimmy generally is credited with the longest homer ever seen in Chicago. One of his drives two years ago went far over the left field stand, came down in a playground north of the park, and bounced against a fieldhouse on 33d street.

Ruth and Smead Jolley have made homers that narrowly missed reaching the bleachers.

Yates, Ewing Reach British Amateur Final

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TROON, Scotland, May 27.—Charles Richardson Yates, 25 year old Atlanta, Ga., bank teller, will meet Cecil Ewing, giant Irishman, tomorrow in the thirty-six hole final match for the forty-ninth British amateur golf championship. The ebullient Yates, whom Georgians have hailed as the successor to Bobby Jones since the latter's retirement eight years ago, thus became the sixth American golfer in the history of the tournament to reach the title match.

Yates today completed his drive to a challenge for the championship by eliminating two former title holders. In the morning quarter finals the drawling southerner defeated Cyril Tolley, English veteran, who won in 1920 and 1929, 3 and 2. This afternoon Charley fought his way to a nineteen hole triumph over Hector Thomson, slender Scotchman, who held the championship in 1936.

Ewing's Matches Close.

Ewing was forced to go the full route in winning both of his matches, taking a one up morning decision from Johnny Stevenson, the home town pride, and winning, 2 up, in the afternoon from C. Ross Somerville, former United States amateur champion from London, Ont.

Yates, who has attributed his success in the current tournament to a suit of red flannels sent him by Jones, his townsman, and an antique putter purchased for a dollar from an Atlanta caddy, tonight was a 2 to 1 favorite to defeat Ewing tomorrow. Both finalists were members of the 1936 Walker cup team, but did not meet during that series at Clementon, N. J. The only basis of comparison on their 1936 record was an 8 and 7 victory by Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati over Ewing in one of the singles matches. Yates eliminated Fischer in the first round of this year's British amateur.

How Others Scored.

In the morning's other two quarter final arguments Somerville put out H. W. Hattersley, 1930 Australian champion, 3 and 2, while Thomson was winning his third consecutive extra hole match from Leonard Crawley of England, 1 up, in 20 holes.

Yates made his first tournament mark in 1931 at the age of 18 when he won the Georgia state title, and then repeated the next year. In 1934 he won the national intercollegiate title, and the following year captured the western amateur crown. He was graduated from Georgia Tech with honors in 1935.

BY FRENCH LANE.

This is Derby day at the Aurora track, where the Illinois Derby, carrying an added money prize of $12,000, will be run over a mile and an eighth course late this afternoon.

For more reasons than one the Derby will attract the largest crowd in years and will create more nation-wide interest than at any time since it was first run in 1923. More notable owners are trying for the prize this year. The largest starting field in the history of the race is in prospect. And each of the 13 named in the overnight entry box is an interesting 3 year old because of the uncertainty which still surrounds the 3 year old title race, even though some of the most important specials of the year already have been run.

Many Prominent Owners.

Their colorbearers include the well known colts and fillies Birthday, Gangplank, Taxes, Mountain Ridge, John One, Count Valiant, Gov. Chandler, Elooto, Dolly Val, Xavier and Silver Sarah.

The ability of most of them has not yet been clearly demonstrated. In a year during which Stagehand has won a Santa Anita Derby, Lawrin a Kentucky Derby, Dauber a Preakness, Bull Lea a Blue Grass Stakes, Menow a Withers, The Chief a Derby trial, Bourbon King a Chesapeake Stake, and Fighting Fox a Wood Memorial, there isn't anything that has been definitly settled.

It is expected that ten of the overnight nominees will face the starter. Track conditions will have much to do with that end of it, however.

Track Extremely Slow.

The track was extremely slow yesterday afternoon. Showers fell at intervals. A hard rain this morning will assure mud for the race. A day of warm sunshine could easily make the track fast by the time the Derby is run.

The early betting found Gov. Chandler, owned by Mrs. Kirby Ramsey, an equal first choice with the Greentree stable entry of Birthday and Gangplank. The stout support for the Greentree colorbearers was due to the presence in the saddle of Jocky Eddie Arcaro on Birthday.

Gov. Chandler and the Greentree entry were held at 5 to 2. The Milky Way farm stable entry of Mrs. Mars was the next in line at 5 to 1. Mrs. Mars is represented by Mountain Ridge and John One. The former won the Kentucky Jocky Club Stakes at a mile last fall over a muddy track.

Count Valiant a Mudder.

If you desire to back the others, write your own ticket. However, it is believed that in the event of mud, Count Valiant, a son of Reigh Count-French Duchess, which has showed heavy track ability, will muster many backers.

The Derby is the sixth race on the program and will be run at about 5 o'clock. Derby day will end the spring racing season at Aurora.

Ross-Armstrong Title Bout Is Postponed Until Tuesday

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 27.—The Barney Ross-Henry Armstrong world's welterweight championship fight is off ag'in, Finnegan. And it won't be on ag'in until Tuesday night.

It was Mike Jacobs, the boss of the Twentieth Century Sporting club, with the consent of Gen. John J. Phelan, who announced to the assembled sports reporters in the boxing commission offices on Worth street this noon that the title battle scheduled for Madison Square Garden's Long Island bowl had been set back until Tuesday.

Bill Brown and D. Walker Wear, the other members of New York's Athletic commission, were present. So were Barney Ross and Henry Armstrong. And so were Sam Pian, Art Winch, Eddie Mead, and Harry Armstrong. But it was Mike Jacobs who passed the word that the fight had been postponed.

Weather Is Threatening.

At noon, New York was blanketed with a haze of fog and smoke. There was, however, no rain. And as this is written two hours later, the wind blown fog has almost cleared the Island.

But Mike Jacobs, so he said, had weather reports from the official prognosticators and from the Newark Airport which predicted rain in the evening. Mike may have read between the lines and thought of his certain financial loss in event of rain. Perhaps, he didn't. It is an accepted fact, however, that this fight can't draw fewer customers Tuesday evening than it would have drawn tonight with continued threat of inclement weather.

Even Gen. Phelan, the commission to all intent, was pacific this noon. On behalf of the czars of boxing, Gen. Phelan abrogated all agreements on weight.

Waive Weight Agreements.

"All Ross and Armstrong must do Tuesday, when they appear, is to weigh in at less than the welterweight limit of 147 pounds," Phelan told the scribes.

This pronouncement was satisfactory to both boxers. The only protest, if there is a protest, will come from the lightweight champion of the world, Lou Ambers, who is afraid that if Armstrong scales less than 135 pounds, and then whips Ross, that he will claim the lightweight title Barney once held and which he never relinquished by defeat.

Winch immediately took Ross to Stillman's gymnasium on 8th avenue. Barney boxed several rounds. It is probable that he will weigh approximately 142 pounds Tuesday.

Armstrong May Weigh 134.

If Henry's brother is to be believed, Armstrong will come in Tuesday noon weighing approximately 134 pounds.

Most disappointed of the hundreds of out of town visitors were the European amateur boxing champions and officials of the International federation. The Europeans, who were defeated in Chicago last week in the seventh international Golden Gloves bouts, will sail tomorrow at noon on the Georgic of the Cunard-White Star Line. All had looked forward to seeing the Ross-Armstrong match.

LEE YIELDS SIX HITS; HARTNETT KNOCKS HOMER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 27.—William Lee of Louisiana sketched another pitching masterpiece today. The statuesque southerner, following up his accomplishments against the champion Giants and the Boston Bees, turned the Pirates out of their own home on six hits, the Cubs meanwhile creating enough batting destruction to earn a 5 to 0 victory in the opener of the three game series. Along with Lee there was a fellow named Gabby Hartnett and between the two of them lies the entire story of the triumph.

Hartnett was present in the capacity of a receiver for Lee, but that didn't discourage the old man from bursting forth in a different fashion. Gabby's bursting was made up of three hits, two of them of no importance. The other, however, was potent. It was his season's fifth homer which he blew over the wall with two on bases to complete a four run rally and knock Bob Klinger out of the picture in the fourth. Gabby's robust tap was more than Lee needed for his fourth victory of the year.

Lee Checks Pirates.

Lee, who shut out the Giants in ten innings and gave the Bees one run in regulation time, had no important troubles through the first eight innings. During that stretch only one Pirate reached second base and this happened in the fourth when his foes paired hits for the first and only time. But in the ninth the big right hander encountered difficulties which weren't of his own making. A line drive plunked him on the hand and before he could square away again there were two on bases with none out. Finally there were three on the bags with two out, but he went through to accomplish a record of one run in twenty-eight innings.

While Hartnett's hit was a Pirate knockout, there were a few other hitting items of consequence. Billy Herman and Frank Demaree, both of whom are shy on hits, helped to build up the picture for Gabby in the fourth. Augie Galan also had a share in this by drawing a pass. After this big blow off, Galan figured again in a more impressive way. He slashed out a triple in the seventh to drive in the only run which occurred during the régimé of Bill Swift, who rescued Klinger.

Hartnett Knocks Homer.

The Cubs' fourth, in which the battle was colored by four runs, began with Herman banging a single into center for the second hit off Klinger. Galan walked. Demaree singled to left, Herman scoring and Galan hustling to third. Hartnett hung around the plate long enough to watch three wide pitches and one strike float past. When the next pitch appeared Gabby slapped it well over the 365 foot sign in left. Swift came running to Klinger's assistance. Reynolds singled, but the next three men were stopped.

The Chicagoans came close to another splurge in the fifth. Hack led off with a single to center. Herman tried the hit and run again and this time couldn't be charged with faulty hitting. He spanked a low liner behind the runner, but Suhr made a dive and grabbed the ball with his gloved hand just before it could bounce. Hack was at second by this time so Suhr got up leisurely and

WAR ADMIRAL TO RACE AGAINST POMPOON TODAY

Handicap Stars Meet in Suburban at Belmont.

New York, May 27.—[Special.]—War Admiral versus Pompoon and seven other handicap stars is the prospect for the renewal of the Suburban handicap at Belmont Park tomorrow.

Because of the cancelation of the $100,000 Belmont special, there was speculation as to whether War Admiral, undefeated champion of 1937, would be sent to the post for what looks like his hardest race, and thus the best chance of his winning streak being snapped. Westchester officials are stalwart in their belief that owner Samuel D. Riddle will not duck the issue, especially as the son of Man O' War is rated a first class mudder.

Concedes Four Pounds.

Another meeting between Pompoon and War Admiral has long been desired since the three successive victories in 1937 that the son of Man O' War scored over Pompoon. War Admiral, under top weight of 132 pounds, will have to concede four pounds to Pompoon. The distance is to be a mile and a quarter.

While the footing was muddy today, the prospect is for a fast strip tomorrow, as Belmont Park dries very rapidly. It already was drying out by the end of this afternoon and, with no more rain, it should be at its best. Half a dozen of the others, in addition to War Admiral, are rated good mudders.

War Admiral Favorite.

Despite the top weight and the keen competition, War Admiral is certain to be the favorite. The 4 year old colt merits this confidence on his record which is one of the best in the history of racing.

Others beside War Admiral and Pompoon have an excellent chance, even long shots like Strabo, Rex Flag, and Piccolo.

Pompoon's most recent showing was a smashing victory in the Dixie handicap at a mile and three-sixteenths, where he set a new track record. The colt was not on the track this morning, but that may have been because of the heavy rain.

Midwest Gains as Retriever Breeding Area

BY BOB BECKER.

Nigger of Barrington and Glenairlie Rocket, two black Labradors owned by Gordon P. Kelley of Lake Forest and Fletcher F. Garlock of Winnetka, president of the Midwest Field Trial club, again put Chicagoland in the spotlight by victories in the retriever trial held recently in Minneapolis.

Nigger won first place in the open all-age stake and Rocket won first place in the Derby stake. These victories continued an enviable record for Chicagoland owners of retrievers in the series of field trials which have been held in the middle west this spring.

Nigger's Second Victory.

For Nigger of Barrington the victory was his second in open all-age competition of the spring. He won the open all-age stake in the retriever trial held near St. Louis several weeks ago, disappointed with his showing at the Midwest club's trial held near Barrington May 14 and 15, and then at Minneapolis outclassed his competitors. The record of this dog is a perfect example of how even topnotch trialers' performances may vary from one week to another.

When we acted as one of the judges at the Midwest club's trial on May 14 and 15 we saw Rocket, a son of Glenairlie Rover [first retriever in the middle west to win his championship] give a disappointing exhibition on his birds. Naturally, he didn't win the ribbon. His litter brother, Freehaven Jay, won easily. At Minneapolis the situation was reversed. Rocket was the blue streak up there and he won first handily.

Lauds Retriever Owners.

H. D. Bixby of the American Kennel club was a spectator at these trials. At Barrington he said that he was amazed at the interest in Chesapeakes, Labradors, and golden retrievers in the middle west, the large number of entries in the trials [there were about 70 at Minneapolis] and the progress made by sportsmen in this area with retrievers. He added that no other section of the country is doing as much as the middle west to bring the rugged retriever breeds before the public, and especially to the attention of sportsmen, who need these dogs in their hunting.

Winner trained by A. Swenke. Went to post at 5:06. At post half minute. Start good. Won easily, place driving.

CARBON COPY, outrun for five-eighths, began to move up steadily thereafter while racing wide, took command with a rush approaching the final eighth and won easily. GOLDEN PIGEON, never a great distance back and in hand for nearly three-quarters, moved up thereafter between horses and held on well in the drive but could not menace the winner. PARGO, in hand for three-quarters, lost ground on the second turn, responded to pressure, thereafter closed well.

Fall Shakes Jocky in 3d Aurora Race

Jocky Willie McCadden, a Chicago lad, was severely shaken up when he fell from the horse Playki during the running of the third race at Aurora yesterday. The horse stumbled and McCadden flew out of the saddle and over his mount's head. He was not able to ride during the remainder of the afternoon.

Col. Matt Winn has invited racegoers to drop in at Lincoln Fields tomorrow for "open house." The new electric totalizer will be tested and other new features displayed to the visitors.

Officials of the C. & E. I. railroad plan to operate a dozen special trains to Lincoln Fields to handle the Memorial day crowd. The first will leave Dearborn station at 12 o'clock and the last at 1:10.

For the twelfth day in a row Jocky J. G. Wilson broke into the winner's circle yesterday. It was the last day he will enjoy the apprentice riders allowance of five pounds. One year ago today on May 28 he rode the first winner of his career in Detroit.

Max Sussman, the genial fellow who rents binoculars to racegoers at most of the big tracks, was honored yesterday when the feature race at Aurora was named in his honor. The down and out fellow with a hard luck story who hasn't any money can always rent binoculars from Sussman. "Ninety-five per cent of them play when they get it," says Sussman.

Sussman once won a $4,100 daily double. It was the biggest ticket he ever cashed. He plays 'em from the ground up the year around and most of the time is quite thankful that he has field glasses to rent.

The winner of the Sussman claiming handicap was Merry Caroline, owned by Paul Kelley and energetically ridden by J. G. Wilson. She beat Gold Mesh, the favorite, by a nose in a photograph finish. Little Drift was third.

Sussman presented a beautiful bronze trophy of a horse in full stride to Owner Kelley, then sighed. He had wagered on the long shot, Bold Lover.

Morton Whips Oak Park Nine to Clinch Title

The Morton High school baseball team clinched the Suburban league championship yesterday when it defeated Oak Park, 11 to 0. The triumph was the eleventh against one loss for the Cicero school, which still must meet Highland Park.

Ken Polivka, Morton southpaw who has pitched two no-hit games this season, held Oak Park to four hits in winning his sixth league victory.

Calumet finished in second place in the city league's south section by beating Morgan Park, 9 to 8. The triumph qualified Calumet for the playoffs, pairings for which will be made today.

Calumet took an early lead, pushing over a pair of runs in the first inning, but Morgan Park wiped out this advantage with six runs in the second. Calumet finally tied the score on a home run by Diggins in the seventh, then won out in the first extra inning on Seibt's triple and poor return of the ball by Walsh which permitted the Calumet catcher to score.

touched first base for a double play. Another opening loomed in the sixth. Hartnett singled after Demaree had fanned, and with two out Collins walked. Swift struck out Jurges to end the threat.

The Cubs scored again in the seventh. Lee flied to P. Waner to start the inning and Hack ripped off a single to left center. Herman gave the ball a beautiful slap toward right, but Suhr also captured this with one hand after it had taken a low bounce. He threw to Vaughan in time to force Hack at second.

Galan then challenged Suhr. He drilled a liner along the first base line and Suhr couldn't reach it. It developed into a triple for Augie, Herman scoring. Demaree popped to Vaughan.

Lee's shutout was endangered in the ninth when he was plunked on the bare hand by a drive which Vaughan beat out for a hit. Suhr walked, but Jensen and Todd were easily disposed of by Collins and Jurges. Rizzo was asked to bat for Young and he was awarded a pass, filling the bases. Dickshot batted for Sewell and poked a grounder to Hack, who stepped on third to end the show.

BRYANT'S TURN TODAY

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 27.—Clay Bryant, who was ready to pitch at Brooklyn yesterday and was stymied by rain, will have his chance tomorrow in the second of the three game series. The Pirates plan on starting Russ Bauers against the Chicagoans.

Diz Dean today moved himself a step closer to a starting assignment. For the first time since Dr. John F. Davis ordered him into the repair shop more than three weeks ago, Diz pitched to a half dozen hitters during the pre-game batting practime. His arm was loose and after the workout he insisted there was no pain in the bothersome deltoid muscle. Manager Grimm was so interested in the matter that he took a turn as a hitter. The boss, after taking a few swings, conceded that "there's a lot of life in what Diz was throwing."

The fans who came out in droves when the Pirates were winning their April pennant must have gone elsewhere today for their amusement. There were about 2,500 in the spacious stands. The decline can be attributed directly to six defeats out of eight played by the Pirates during their eastern jaunt.

There is going to be some dealing in the National league before the deadline is reached but Scout Clarence Rowland, who also is the Cub ambassador on trades, denies that the Chicago club has anything on the fire. Somebody is going to get Pitcher Bucky Walters from the Phillies.

Salute the Brides.

And now comes lovely, radiant June
With its theme song of Lohengrin's tune,
Its blushing brides and nervous grooms,
Bright new flats and honeymoons;
Brides who can't get off their gloves—
"O, Promise Me!" some one sings
While the best man cannot find the rings.

Friends outside, if the weather's nice,
Then the merry drive through the old town's street
While shoes and cans on the pavement beat;
Wedding presents, moody fates—
Many of them are duplicates;
Home again—and how you rue it, a single with two out in the first inning and Hayes one with two out in the second inning. Steinbacher led off the fourth with another single, but Gee Walker popped to Gehringer, Radcliff flied to York and Owen tapped to Kennedy.

With one out in the sixth the Sox loaded the bases before Kennedy threw them into a siege of popups. After Berger had been thrown out, Kreevich singled, and Steinbacher and Walker walked to load the bases. Radcliff popped to Rogell and Owen popped to Gehringer.

Three popups disposed of three Sox in the seventh, but in the meantime Steinbacher, the White Sox hitter, got to bat and the Sox made two runs and had the bases full when the third popup popped. Hayes walked and went to third on Sewell's single to right. Thompson batted for Gabler and popped to Rogell, after which Berger popped to Gehringer. Kreevich walked, filling the bases. Then Steinbacher singled to right, scoring Hayes and Sewell and putting Kreevich on third. Walker walked, again loading the bases, but Radcliff popped to Rogell.

Rigney, second Sox pitcher, held the Tigers to a single by Greenberg in the eighth, but in the ninth he got nicked for four hits, one of them a scratch which drove in a run, and another a squeeze bunt which netted the Tigers their fifth run.

Bill Cox will make his first start of the season for the White Sox this afternoon in the second game of the series with the Detroit Tigers in Comiskey park. He will be opposed by Tommy Bridges, a semi-invalid many days of this season.

Monty Stratton will make his second start of the season tomorrow in the final of the home stand. Baron Poffenberger has been assigned to pitch for the Tigers.

5 MORE DRIVERS WIN PLACES IN 500 MILE RACE

Five Spots to Be Filled in Tests Today.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 27.—Five additional cars were qualified in time tests on the Indianapolis Speedway this afternoon, making a total of twenty-eight that are enrolled for the annual 500 mile automobile race on Monday. More time tests will be held from noon to 4 o'clock tomorrow with seven cars competing for the remaining five vacancies in the starting field.

In the early afternoon, between showers, Emil Andres of Chicago averaged 117.126 miles an hour for ten laps around the two and a half mile track, assuring himself of a place in the big show which is expected to attract more than 100,000 spectators.

The track remained idle until the sun set behind a black cloud this evening and then, in quick succession, four men bettered the required 110 miles an hour.

1933 Hero Qualifies.

Ira Hall of Terre Haute, Ind., a veteran of dirt tracks and a Republican candidate for sherif, averaged 118.255 miles an hour. He won the 1933 hero reward for holding his wrecked machine against a retaining wall, protecting cars that were passing at more than 100 miles an hour.

After the Hoosier had gone to the pits, Tony Willman of Milwaukee whipped around the track at 118.452 m. p. h. for a place in the ninth row.

Best Time of Day.

Louis Tomei of Culver City, Cal., did 121.594 m. p. h., becoming the eighteenth driver to do better than two miles a minute at this year's tests as compared with seven who maintained this pace at last year's preliminaries. Tomei's was the fastest qualifying time of the afternoon.

First row—Floyd Roberts, 125.681; Russell Snowberger, 124.027; Rex Mays, 122.845.

Tenth row—Emil Andres, 117.126.

DEMANDS RADIO INDUSTRY QUIZ BY U. S. SENATE

White of Maine Charges Licensing Frauds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—[Special]—Charging censorship, trafficking in licenses and various other abuses, Senator Wallace H. White [R., Maine] today urged the senate to approve his resolution for an investigation of the radio industry and the Federal Communications commission.

Senator White was supported by Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], chairman of the interstate commerce committee, which reported the investigating resolution favorably. Senator Wheeler said the congress could devote its attention to no more important problem than conditions in the radio industry and on the communications commission.

Insist Inquiry Necessary.

President Roosevelt averted a congressional investigation of the communications commission just before the adjournment of congress last year by appointing Commissioners Frank R. McNinch and T. A. M. Craven and otherwise reorganizing the board. The demands for an investigation grew out of charges that favorites of the administration, including members of the Roosevelt family, were receiving special privileges at the hands of the commission. Notwithstanding the reorganization, Senators White and Wheeler contend the need for an investigation still is imperative.

Senator White explained that the 1927 act, creating the Federal Radio commission, and the 1934 act, creating the Federal Communications commission, provided for the issuance of licenses only in the interest of public convenience and necessity and prohibited the assignment or transfer of licenses without written consent by the commission.

Charges Trafficking in Licenses.

"There also was written into both the 1927 and 1934 acts a provision designed to prevent the assertion of a vested right in any license or in any frequency," said Senator White.

"Yet we have seen growing up in this country the practice of trafficking in these licenses, selling stations, assigning frequencies, indulging in all sorts of financial transactions, vesting the real control of stations in others than the original licenses thereof. By devious means, sometimes with commission approval and sometimes without commission approval, the purpose of the congress in writing the provisions to which I have alluded into the law has been evaded or avoided."

Senator White said the question of censorship was a real one. The law, he said, provides there shall be no power of censorship, but there is no provision prohibiting the exercise of censorship by a particular station.

Threat to Press Freedom.

Senator White also saw a threat to the freedom of the press through newspaper investments in radio stations which can be destroyed overnight by refusal of the commission to renew a license.

"The question of newspaper ownership is one of great interest," he said. "While I do not know the exact figures, there are not far from 225 radio stations which are owned or in some manner controled by publishing interests in this country.

"I sometimes have been amazed at the seeming indifference of the newspapers themselves to what I think are the implications and the possibilities involved in ownership of radio facilities by newspaper publishers. There are some newspapers which may be called pioners in the radio industry. I have in mind a particular newspaper which has had a radio license for probably twelve years, at least.

Big Investment Noted.

"That newspaper probably has invested in its radio plant substantially in excess of half a million dollars. That particular newspaper is owned by a man of great courage and independence, and a man of great wealth.

"I cannot help having the feeling, however, that to whatever degree a newspaper makes an investment in radio, risks an investment upon a frequency and a license issued to it for only six months of time, which can be revoked by governmental authority and the renewal of which can be denied by governmental authority —I cannot help having a fear that that newspaper is subjecting itself in an extraordinary degree to the possibility of governmental persuasion.

How Government Could Rule.

"I have believed that the greatest danger to a free press in the United States is involved in this expansion of newspaper investment in radio, which in turn is immediately and directly subject to governmental control, for the commission can destroy every radio station or any radio station in the United States and the whole investment almost overnight."

Senator Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.] today introduced an amendment to the communications act which would prohibit radio stations of 50,000 watts or more from engaging in chain commercial broadcasting.

News of Radio

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Music from the Aragon ballroom, which has not been heard over W-G-N-Mutual since last January, will return on Saturday, June 11, at which time Bill Carlsen's band will play at this spot. The Trianon will continue to air its music over WIND, which has been carrying the Aragon pickups also since Chicago's major stations started a service charge of $100 weekly for broadcasts from entertainment centers.

At that time all the bands from prominent night clubs and hotels left the major stations except those at the Blackhawk, which stayed on W-G-N-Mutual, and the Chez Paree, on NBC. Bob Crosby and Lou Breese are providing the music from these two places at present.

Kay Kyser, who was at the Blackhawk until he left for New York two months ago, will be back on W-G-N-Mutual airways from the Pennsylvania hotel in New York starting next Tuesday evening. His Musical Klass broadcasts over NBC will continue.

Alfred M. Landon will speak on "The Opportunity of the Republican Party" at 7 o'clock tonight over WMAQ-NBC. Landon's address will be picked up from a meeting of the Young Republican clubs of New York.

For those listeners who are always complaining that there is not enough good music on the air, WAAF's new evening concert hour from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock may be worth catching. Classical music is presented nightly during this period. In addition WAAF still has its full hour of symphonic music from 12 to 1 p. m. daily and from 9:30 a. m. to 10:15 on Sundays.

The Man on the Street interviewer has stepped up one flight. John L. Sullivan of WAAF now conducts a question and answer program at 2 p. m. daily from elevated platforms. He calls himself the "L" Reporter.

A dozen or two of the daytime serial programs are shifting their broadcast schedules next Monday. Among them are Ma Perkins, Story of Mary Marlin, Vic and Sade, and Pepper Young's Family, which will be heard henceforth in that order over WLS-NBC from 9:45 to 10:45 a. m.; with repeat broadcasts of Mary Marlin, Ma Perkins, Pepper Young's Family, plus Guiding Light, from 2 to 3 on WMAQ-NBC. The Road to Life will be heard at 10:45 on WMAQ, and the O'Neills at 11:15.

The same sponsor is starting a full hour on WBBM-CBS from 12 to 1 p. m. Monday presenting in order the Goldbergs, Vic and Sade, Road to Life and the Gospel Singer.

Another new hour on WMAQ-NBC, starting Monday, from 1 to 2 p. m. will feature in order Betty and Bob, Arnold Grimm's Daughter, Valiant Lady, and Hymns of All Churches, with Betty Crocker supplanting the latter two days a week. These were formerly on CBS.

Station WSBC boasts the city's only singing news commentator, Anton Bendarczyk, who rhymes his daily bulletins into a humorous song. Anton was for eight years baritone with the Polish Grand opera in Warsaw.

DAUGHTER WINS $300,000 IN STOCK FROM H. C. LYTTON

Henry C. Lytton, 92 years old, owner of a loop clothing store, was ordered yesterday by Judge Walter T. Stanton to deposit $300,000 in stock of the store to the credit of his daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Benzinger, 64 years old, of Brunner, Switzerland. The order was made on a supplemental suit which charged that Lytton had failed to comply with an order issued on a suit for an accounting of his personal estate. The first suit was filed in 1935.

It stated that the $300,000 is due Mrs. Benzinger under a contract signed with her father in 1919, but charged that in recent years the Lytton estate has been dissipated so rapidly that there is danger he will be unable to fulfill the contract. Since the contract was drawn Lytton married a second time. Judge Stanton's order directed that the stock be deposited with the Harris Trust and Savings bank within ten days. Failure to comply will result in contempt action. Attorney Edmund W. Froelich filed the bill.

ALBERT JESSURUN DIES; LEADER OF '21 RENTERS' WAR

Albert E. Jessurun, food broker, who led the fight against "rent hogs" in Chicago in 1921, died of a heart attack yesterday in Madison, Wis., where he had been visiting friends two months. He was 73 years old and lived at 4708 North Racine avenue.

The "rent hog" fight was brought about by profiteering landlords who took advantage of the housing shortage here after the war. Mr. Jessurun founded the Chicago Tenants' Protective league, campaigned against excessively high rents, carried his battle into the state legislature, and succeeded in bringing about a rental reduction.

Mr. Jessurun was a veteran traveler. He was a passenger on the ill fated dirigible Hindenburg's first round trip to Germany from Lakehurst, N. J. In a modest manner he was also a philanthropist. Mr. Jessurun was born in New York City. He was a friend of many authors and artists, including John T. McCutcheon and George Ade. Masonic funeral services will be held in Chicago Monday.

Death apparently was caused by heart disease. He had appeared in good health when he left early today for his farm to supervise corn shelling. For twenty-five years he had devoted most of his time to farming and was a large land owner.

DR. A. B. KANAVEL KILLED IN CRASH; NOTED SURGEON

Auto Overturns on Tour in California.

Dr. Allen Buckner Kanavel, prominent Chicago physician and former president of the American College of Surgeons, was killed yesterday when his automobile overturned on Bishop highway, near Mojave, Cal. His Chicago office address was 54 East Erie street, but he had been living recently in Pasadena. He was 63 years old.

Dr. Allen B. Kanavel. [A. P. Photo.]

Dr. Kanavel was traveling with his two sons, David and Richard, to Glacier National park, in Montana, at the time of the accident. The scene is about sixty miles north of Los Angeles. Just what caused the accident was not learned late last night, but a tire blowout may have been responsible.

Native of Kansas.

Born in Sedgwick, Kas., on Sept. 2, 1874, Dr. Kanavel came to Chicago in his youth. He was educated at Northwestern university and received his medical degree, cum laude, there in 1899. He took postgraduate work in Vienna immediately after his graduation.

Returning from Vienna, Dr. Kanavel began his internship at the Cook County hospital. A year later he was made instructor in clinical surgery at Northwestern university medical school. In subsequent years he became assistant professor, associate professor, and then professor of surgery at the school, a position which he still held at his death. He was an attending surgeon at Wesley and Passavant hospitals.

Colonel in World War.

During the war Dr. Kanavel served as a major in the medical corps. He emerged with the rank of colonel. He was recognized as an authority on surgery and served as editor of Surgery, Gynecology and Obstetrics. He was author of "Infections of the Hand." In 1930 Dr. Kanavel was elected president of the American College of Surgeons.

He was a widower. His wife, the former Olive Rosencranz, died in 1936. They had three children, the two sons and Patricia.

PROF. GIDEONSE MAY QUIT U. OF C.; BLAMES FRICTION

Harry D. Gideonse, associate professor of economics at the University of Chicago, announced yesterday that he is contemplating resigning to accept a professorship of economics at Columbia university.

"A secondary consideration," he said, "is the friction that exists between Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the university, and me."

This friction is understood on the Midway to have arisen from the publication of two books. The first, "Higher Learning in America," was written by Mr. Hutchins a few years ago and advocated changes in the conventional education program. Prof. Gideonse then published "Higher Learning in a Democracy," which vigorously assailed Mr. Hutchins' views.

BIG AUTO FIRMS AGAIN INDICTED FOR MONOPOLY

System of Financing Sales Attacked.

South Bend, Ind., May 27.—(AP)—A federal grand jury returned indictments here late today charging three large automobile companies with conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust law.

The indictments named the General Motors corporation, the Ford Motor company, and the Chrysler corporation, their affiliated finance companies, and 50 individuals. They charged the companies with conspiring to promote monopoly by coercing dealers to finance car sales through the companies' own finance firms, District Attorney James R. Fleming said.

The indictments came after a five day investigation, during which the jury heard witnesses from many midwestern states. Its work finished, the jury adjourned after making its report to Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick.

Second Action by Government.

It was the government's second attempt to obtain indictments against the "big three" of the automobile industry. A grand jury at Milwaukee considered similar evidence last winter, but was dismissed on Dec. 17 before it could make a report.

Dismissal of this jury was ordered by Judge Ferdinand A. Geiger on grounds that government attorneys showed "impropriety" in discussing a proposed settlement with counsel for the automobile firms while the jury still was studying the evidence.

Charges against the three motor companies were contained in three separate indictments. These alleged, the district attorney said, that the companies conspired toward "stifling and interfering with interstate commerce for promotion of monopoly" and that their action caused "irreparable damage" to small automobile finance companies.

Companies, Officers Indicted.

One indictment was against the General Motors corporation, the General Motors Sales corporation, the General Motors Acceptance corporation, and 19 individuals, including Alfred P. Sloan Jr. and William S. Knudsen.

Another indictment named the Ford Motor company, the Universal Credit corporation and its divisions, and Edsel Ford and 12 other individuals.

A third indictment was against the Chrysler corporation, the Chrysler Sales corporation, the Dodge Brothers company, the De Soto Motor corporation, the Plymouth Motor corporation, and the Commercial Credit company and its branches. This also named Walter P. Chrysler and 17 other persons.

FREIGHT TRAFIC INCREASE MORE THAN SEASONAL

A slightly larger than seasonal increase in freight trafic was recorded in the week ended May 21, according to figures made public yesterday by the Association of American Railroads. The gain was attributable to increases in loadings of coal, live stock and ore. The movement of miscellaneous freight, the largest item in the association's classification, declined.

The railroads loaded 545,808 cars of revenue freight last week, a gain of 3,995 cars, or 0.7 per cent, from the preceding week but 229,266 cars, or 29.6 per cent, less than in the corresponding week of last year. The decline from two years ago amounted to 137,782, cars, or 20.2 per cent.

	Wk. ended May 21.	Change from Prev. wk.	Change from 1937.

CHIEF MARKETS WILL CLOSE FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Practically all leading securities and commodity markets in the United States, except the New Orleans cotton market and the Savannah, Ga., naval stores market, will be closed Monday in observance of Memorial day.

Banks and other financial institutions also will observe the holiday. Canadian and foreign markets, however, will remain open as usual.

Most of the New York commodity markets, including Commodity Exchange, Inc., the New York Sugar exchange, and the New York Coffee exchange, will be closed today and on succeeding Saturdays during the summer months. The New York Cotton exchange will continue to operate on Saturdays.

Slow Seasonal Decline in Auto Output Reported.

Detroit, Mich., May 27.—(AP)—Ward's Automotive Reports reported today a continued "slow seasonal decline" in automobile production, placing the current week's assemblies at 45,120 units, compared with 46,810 last week, and 132,425 this week a year ago. The survey said the factories would "work at lighter levels during June," and added that "two day schedules had been instituted in many plants, in order to keep them operating on a skeleton basis for the next month or six weeks."

Railway Heads Report a Few Cheerful Spots

Although most of the railroad executives who were in Washington, D. C., yesterday to attend the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Association of American Railroads, said that business on their roads was below the 1937 volume, a few declared they saw some encouraging signs.

E. M. Durham Jr. finds freight ratio improving.

Hale Holden, chairman of the Southern Pacific, said that he had observed minor signs of improvement affecting his road's business. The effects of the recent rate increases are beginning to be felt, he said, and the results of the May operations will be better than in recent months.

Expects Freight Increase.

Holden said there are indications of a pickup in loadings, particularly in automobiles and lumber. Automobile assemblies on the Pacific coast have increased somewhat, he said, and crop conditions are excellent. Car loadings are running about 15 per cent below a year ago.

J. B. Hill, president of the Louisville and Nashville, reported that car loadings during the last few weeks have been 4 to 5 per cent ahead of April loadings, principally as the result of the movement of vegetables from the south. However, they are still 24 per cent under last year.

E. M. Durham Jr., chief executive officer for the Rock Island, said that although car loadings in May have been 13 per cent below a year ago, gross revenues for the first three weeks of the month were only 7 per cent below a year ago.

Reports Wheat Crop Large.

J. M. Kurn, trustee of the Frisco, reported the wheat crop in his road's territory is the largest in many years and will probably require 12,000 to 15,000 cars for its movement. Car loadings are running about 15 per cent below last year, he said.

Duncan J. Kerr, president of the Lehigh Valley, said that car loadings during May have been 20 per cent under last year, but added that he expected an improvement in business in the fall as the government's contemplated pump priming program gets under way. This should influence an upturn in the cement and steel industries, he said.

M. W Clement, president of the Pennsylvania disclosed that the road had a net loss of $1,373,981 in April against a net loss of $2,108,170 in April, 1937. For the first four months, he said, net loss was $7,931,198, against a net income of $6,314,693 for the like 1937 period. For the first half of May, gross revenues were 31.9 per cent below a year ago. Freight revenues fell 36.9 per cent and passenger revenues 10.5 per cent.

CANADA TO BUY ALL STOCK OF ITS CENTRAL BANK

OTTAWA, Ont., May 27. — [Special.]—The Bank of Canada, central bank of the dominion, which was owned privately when first established in 1935 but of which the government took control in 1936, is to be completely nationalized, according to a statement in the house of commons today by Prime Minister MacKenzie King.

The 100,000 shares still in the hands of the public are to be purchased at an average of the price paid in recent weeks, which probably will be $57 or $58 a share. The par is $50.

King did not explain what motives had impelled the government to acquire complete ownership instead of majority ownership and control, but they will be generally interpreted as political.

The treasury department sold $50,020,000 of ninety-one day treasury discount bills at an average price of 99.94, or an average yield price of 0.025 per cent, Secretary Morgenthau announced last night in Washington. The yield price of 0.025 per cent equals that obtained on an issue of treasury bills sold earlier this week. The rate is the lowest in the history of such treasury financing.

The low yield indicates the difficulty of banks and other large investors in short term paper in finding investments.

At the 0.025 per cent yield, the purchaser of the bills would get a return of 2½ cents a year for $100 invested in the notes. For $1,000 he would get 25 cents a year, and for a million dollars he would get $25. If he was able to invest 100 million dollars at such a rate he would get a return equivalent to $2,500 a year.

Lead Reduced Again Lowest in Three Years

Leading producers yesterday slashed the price of lead $5 a ton, or ¼ cent a pound, the second such reduction this week, to establish the lowest price level in three years. The present quotation of 4 cents a pound, New York base, or 3.85 cents East St. Louis, culminates a series of price cuts spread over the last fourteen months from the recovery high of 7.75 cents quoted in New York in March, 1937.

Lead futures were quiet yesterday, closing 0.02 cent higher to 0.02 cent lower in New York. Other metals were unsettled, tin futures breaking 0.45 cent in bid prices, zinc slipping 0.01 cent, and copper futures closing unchanged to 0.05 cent higher.

Export Copper Unchanged.

The export price of copper continued in a range between 8.20 cents and 8.34 cents a pound, most transactions being made near the lower figure. The domestic price of copper was unchanged at 9 cents.

Other commodity markets were irregular yesterday on the eve of the long week-end holiday. Crude rubber futures closed 0.12 to 0.15 cent higher, after early declines of about the same amount. The spot price was marked up to 11.30 cents from 11.15 cents the day before.

Raw hides were up 0.01 to 0.10 cent in the New York futures market. Cottonseed oil futures were easier, closing 0.07 to 0.09 cent a pound lower. Wool tops were unchanged to 0.6 cent a pound lower.

Sugar, Coffee Steady.

Raw sugar was unchanged in the spot market at 2.65 cents with no sales reported, and refined prices were steady. Futures were 0.01 to 0.04 cent a pound higher. Coffee futures rallied following early easiness, the Rio contracts finishing 0.03 cent higher to 0.01 cent lower and Santos closing 0.03 to 0.08 cent higher.

The Dow-Jones index of 11 commodity futures prices, based on 1924-1926 as 100, closed 0.06 lower at 45.65, the lowest since Oct. 13, 1933, and the Associated Press weighted index of 35 wholesale commodity spot prices, based on 1926 as 100, was off 0.15 lower at 64.54, the lowest since May 26, 1934.

FORD'S BIG NEW TIRE FACTORY IS OPERATING

Detroit, Mich., May 27.—(AP)—The new tire plant in which Henry Ford expects to produce a finished automobile tire within four hours from the time crude rubber arrives from the East Indies is now in operation in suburban Dearborn. E. F. Wait, plant manager, said today that the same process in many tire factories requires a week. Automatic handling of materials in the $5,600,000 plant which spreads over four and a half acres is credited for the speed.

With the exception of rubber, Wait said, all ingredients are weighed or measured automatically and fed into the production process at the proper time. Production is routed straight from the hold of the rubber carrying freighters to the tire delivery truck. Materials are elevated or pumped to the top floor and fed down through the processing machinery.

The plant produces about 4,000 tires for each eight hour shift. Wait said that when fully completed the factory will produce 6,000 tires each eight hours.

AIR LINE TRAVEL WILL BE HEAVY OVER WEEK-END

Major air lines serving Chicago reported yesterday that air travel during Decoration day week-end will be more than 20 per cent larger than a year ago. Several announced some flights already were sold out.

United Air Lines will operate second sections on the Chicago-Cleveland-New York flight. Transcontinental and Western Air announced a 35 per cent passenger increase over a year ago, and Northwest Airlines executives said reservations for all flights are filled through next Wednesday. Braniff Airways announced that its night plane to Mexico will be filled through the week-end.

Waiting lists for all flights were reported by Chicago and Southern Air Lines. American Airlines will operate two special twenty-one passenger transports to Indianapolis on Monday for the automobile race there.

INVESTORS' GUIDE OFFERS DATA FOR TAX SCHEDULES

THE TRIBUNE Investors' Guide is prepared to supply April 1 quotations on stocks and bonds for persons filing their personal property tax schedules, and the amount of dividends paid on any stock in any year. Forms for filing these returns were mailed by the Cook county assessor's office this week.

It was stated yesterday in THE TRIBUNE that security holders of Illinois corporations would not be assessed on "securities" of corporations incorporated in Illinois. Stocks of Illinois corporations are not assessed, but bonds and debentures are subject to personal property tax, according to the county assessor's office. Requests for information should be accompanied by a self-addressed and stamped envelope.

SEARS-ROEBUCK SALES DECLINE FROM YEAR AGO

Aided by Easter business, which came earlier last year, the company held its sales drop to 7½ per cent in the preceding four weeks.

For the first four periods of the company's fiscal year—the 16 weeks ended May 21—sales amounted to $149,275,098. This is $14,973,591, or 9.1 per cent, less than the $164,248,689 aggregate business done in the corresponding period last year.

Stock Prices Rally from Early Decline

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 27.—The stock market rallied today after many issues had reached new lows for the year, but at the close declines exceeded gains by a wide margin. Early losses ran from fractions to 3 points, but many of the leaders finished higher.

Uncertainty and caution marked the trading. This resulted from anxiety over the contents of President Roosevelt's tax speech.

Highly pessimistic news also had a direct bearing on prices, it was said. This included the reduction in the General Electric company dividend, a further decline in automobile production, and the battle between police and Committee for Industrial Organization unionists at the Goodyear plant in Akron, O.

Steel Issues Mixed.

Steel shares closed mixed in a fractional range. United States Steel and Bethlehem received steady support after both had gone below the $40 level and closed at small net gains. Youngstown also pushed higher, but Republic, Crucible, and National finished lower.

Anaconda and Kennecott added substantial fractions in the copper group on good buying. International Nickel, selling ex dividend, worked fractionally lower. American Smelting rose 1 point.

Chrysler and General Motors also came in for a good bit of attention, with the former gaining a fraction and General Motors coming within ⅛ of a point of its preceding close. Yellow Truck also firmed.

Aviation Group Strengthens.

Aviations came back fairly strong from early easier tendencies. Douglas and Boeing both registered gains of 1 point on the day. United Aircraft added a major fraction.

Public utility shares were prominent in the recovery movement and the leaders closed at fractional gains.

General Electric and Westinghouse in the heavy machinery department were fairly active and made up most of their early losses to close only minor fractions lower. Case Threshing added 1½ points. Deere and Allis Chalmers edged fractionally higher and International Harvester came within ⅛ of Thursday's final price.

Oils were fractionally mixed. Allied slumped two points in the chemicals, but du Pont and Union Carbide worked higher in the late trading. United States Rubber and Goodrich in the rubbers added small fractions, the former in good turnover.

PRESIDENT SIGNS BILL TO BOOST U. S. BONDED DEBT

Washington, D. C., May 27.—(AP)—The amount of government bonds that may be outstanding at any one time increased from $25,000,000,000 to $30,000,000,000 today when President Roosevelt signed a bill which the treasury said would give it more flexible financing powers.

The act does not alter the $45,000,000,000 limit on the amount of public debt obligations which may be outstanding. It merely changes the dividing line between bonds and treasury notes, bills and certificates of indebtedness.

Under the old law $25,000,000,000 of the $45,000,000,000 total could be in bonds, and $20,000,000,000 in other obligations.

New Financing for Week Shows Gain Over Year Ago

New York, May 27.—(AP)—New financing during the week ended May 26 topped last year by a substantial margin for the first time in more than two months. New issues totaled $67,069,000, a special tabulation by Poor's Publishing company indicated today. This compared with $8,353,000 a week ago and $17,453,718 last year.

WHEAT RECEDES AGAIN ON LARGE CROP PROSPECT

Prices Revert After Brief Rally.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yester'y.	Thurs.	Year ago.
Wheat	$ .72	$ .72⅞	$1.15⅝
Corn	.56⅝	.56⅝	1.25⅞
Oats	.26¼	.26⅝	.45½
Rye	.53⅝	.54¼	1.06⅜
Soy beans	.87½	.88½	1.62¼

The prospect of a large winter wheat crop continues to dominate the wheat market. Although there was a strong rally at one time yesterday, which was attributed to short covering by an eastern trader, the upturn was short lived and prices declined late in the session to within small fractions of a cent of the lowese levels of the season, established Thursday.

Closing trades on the Chicago Board of Trade were ¾ to ⅞ cent a bushel lower. The Winnipeg market was ½ cent higher to ¼ cent lower. New low levels for the season were made on all deliveries of wheat at Liverpool, with the close ⅛ to ⅞ cent a bushel lower.

Loan Plan Curbs Selling.

Short selling of wheat futures by professional operators was said to be considerably restricted as the result of uncertainty regarding the basis on which the AAA will lend to farmers to enable them to hold their 1938 crop off the market.

According to Winnipeg advices the Dominion government will not announce its guaranteed minimum price for this year's wheat crop until after consultation with the American department of agriculture. The farm act provides that the department of agriculture may loan 52 to 75 per cent of the "parity" price of wheat, which is estimated to be about $1.20 a bushel.

Only small lots of cash wheat were reported to have been sold for export, the foreign demand being restricted by the high estimates on the American winter grain crop.

Corn Futures Prices Weaken.

Houses with seaboard connections were moderate buyers of corn futures. Closing trades were unchanged to ⅛ cent a bushel lower. The country sold only 32,000 bushels for deferred shipment and shipping sales to the east were placed at 144,000 bushels.

Oats closed ¼ to ½ cent lower, with the September contract in new ground for the season. Rye was ⅝ to ¾ cent lower. Soy beans declined ⅜ to 1 cent a bushel, with all deliveries at new seasonal low prices.

RAINS AID EUROPE'S CROP.

ROME, May 27.—(AP)—Belated spring rains have spared Europe from a serious wheat shortage. The International Institute of Agriculture reported today the continent was on the road to a better than average harvest.

Europe nevertheless will have to import large quantities of grain, as usual, since it does not produce enough for its subsistence.

When it goes into regular service between Chicago and New York on June 15, the Broadway will make the 908 mile trip in sixteen hours—thirty minutes faster than at present—or at an average speed of 56⅞ miles an hour.

Department Stores Sales 14% Lower than Year Ago

Sales of approximately 265 department stores located throughout the country averaged 14 per cent lower in the week ended May 21, than in the corresponding week of 1937, according to a report issued yesterday by the board of governors of the federal reserve system. For the four weeks ending May 21, sales also showed a drop of 14 per cent from the corresponding 1937 period.

U.S. Buys Less Pork Abroad, but More Beef

There was a sharp decline in imports of pork and live hogs during April, and a substantial rise in the flow of beef, veal, live cattle and calves from other countries, according to the monthly report of the department of commerce on foreign trade.

Imports of beef and veal for the month were largest since last September and 53 per cent over the March total. Imports of live cattle and calves were largest in many years and 105 per cent above March imports. Hog imports were smallest since February, 1935, and off 8 per cent from March. Dressed pork imports declined 23 per cent during the month.

Mexico Ships Many Cattle.

Although Canadian farmers sold fewer cattle to the United States during April than in March, finding England a better market for their offerings than this country, Mexico shipped in what is believed to be the largest imports of Mexican stock since the world war.

Imports of live cattle and calves, mostly from Canada and Mexico, totaled 89,018 head, compared with 43,244 during March, 24,249 during February, and 22,903 in January. April imports last year were 57,228 head.

The value of live cattle and calf imports for April, this year, was $1,271,146. A year ago they were valued at $1,502,885.

Hog Imports Fall Sharply.

Imports of live hogs at 2,202 pounds compared with 2,400 pounds for March and with 564,931 pounds a year ago. The department placed a value of only $190 on the live hog imports this year, compared with $49,757 during April last year.

This country received 9,113,023 pounds of beef and veal fom other nations last month, against 5,949,146 pounds for March, 3,618,905 during February, and 3,313,361 in January. Beef and veal imports still were behind the April total of 10,818,331 pounds last year.

Imports of dressed pork aggregated 5,159,529 pounds for April this year, compared with 6,777,252 in March, and 5,233,877 a year ago.

Washington, D. C., May 27.—[Special.]—The United States Steel corporation late today filed with the Securities and Exchange commission an amendment to its registration statement covering its proposed issue of $100,000,000 of ten year debentures, due June 1, 1948, giving the interest rate at 3¼ per cent.

The statement also gave the redemption provisions as follows: Up to June 1, 1941, at 103; thereafter to June 1, 1944, at 102; thereafter to June 1, 1947, at 101, and thereafter at par.

CHARGE SWINDLE OF SIX MILLIONS IN SIX TRUSTS

Paine Webber, Many Others Named.

New York, May 27.—[Special.]—Charging that $6,200,000 of the $16,100,000 assets of six investment trusts had been "siphoned out" and replaced with securities of questionable worth, State's Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr. obtained an order today restraining the activities of forty-one persons and firms, including Paine, Webber & Co., a stock brokerage house. Supreme Court Justice Samuel I. Rosenman signed the order and fixed June 7 as the day when the defendants must attempt to show cause why the order should not continue in effect pending trial and final determination of the action through which the attorney general will seek to bar those involved from the securities field in this state.

Paine, Webber Restrained.

Paine, Webber is restrained from advancing funds to finance transfer of control of any investment trust and from purchasing or selling securities from the portfolio of any investment trust, without formal consent of all interested parties. The firm asserted this order did not prevent other general dealings in securities.

A group of Boston men, several Canadian operators, members of the brokerage firm of Prentice & Brady, which is in liquidation, four investment trusts, and their officers are among the defendants.

Assistant Attorney General John R. O'Hanlon set forth in an affidavit a story of the acquisition of control of the six investment trusts which "have been subject to the depredations of the defendants," as he phrased it.

The trusts are the First Income Trading corporation, acquired last Aug. 5, then having investments with a book value of $800,000; the Continental Securities corporation, acquired Oct. 25, having $4,000,000; Reynolds Investing company, Inc., having $8,300,000; Insuranshares Corporation of Delaware, acquired Dec. 21, having $810,000; the Bond and Share Trading corporation, acquired Jan. 9, having $390,000, and Burco, Inc., acquired March 3, $1,800,000.

Placed in Three Groups.

The order which Justice Rosenman signed divides the defendants into three groups. Those in the first are enjoined from dealing in securities in this state; those in the second, including the defendant investment companies and their officers, from further negotiation or sale of securities in their portfolios, and the third from lending money with those securities as collateral or negotiating deals in the securities of any investment trust unless they have written permission from every holder of stocks or bonds in the trust.

The first group includes: Alexander B. Beverly of Toronto, financier; Philip A. Frear, former New York City securities dealer, associated with Beverly; George H. Clayton of Richmond Hill, associated on occasions with the firm of Prentice & Brady; Vincent E. Ferretti, a New York attorney; S. Leo Solomont, an attorney of Boston; Thomas W. Morris, a Belmont, Mass., attorney of the law firm of Robb & Morris, Boston; Ralph H. Robb, an attorney of Wakefield, Mass.; Howard F. Hansell Jr., securities dealer, New York City; Sartell Prentice, stock broker, of New York City; Jerome C. Brady, stock broker, of New York City.

New York Bonds.

New York, May 27.—(AP)—Bonds recorded another general decline today and thereby gave up what little remained of the early May advance. Selling was relatively light, as evidenced by the total volume of $4,837,300 face value, compared with $4,513,800 yesterday. The market's principal handicap, as traders saw it, was the continued apathy of buyers.

A few corporate issues rallied near the close in sympathy with a moderate late recovery in stocks. However, most rails, and many trading leaders in the industrial and utility groups were rather deeply in the rut.

Action of carrier loans suggested they still were subject to the depressing influence of Washington advices which some interpreted as eliminating all chance of rail relief at this session of congress.

United States governments were steady despite a few minor losses. Weakness of various foreign dollar issues carried the Associated Press average to the lowest in more than four years.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks were under selling pressure again yesterday, only six of the sixty-three issues traded closing higher, while thirty-five declined and twenty-two were unchanged.

The volume of trading slumped to 11,000 shares from 18,000 on Thursday. Middle West corporation capital stock was the day's volume leader, closing ⅛ lower at 5¼ on sales of 1,000 shares. Great Lakes Dock and Dredge lost ½ to close at 13 on sales of 800 shares.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were quiet and about steady yesterday. Continental Illinois National bank shares were quoted at $53.50 bid, $55 asked, or 50 cents a share less than Thursday's close. First National was steady at $162 bid, $166 asked. Other principal bank stocks were unchanged, except for American National, which was quoted $2 higher by most dealers.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Another rise in the market for hogs yesterday carried prices to the highest levels in thirty-nine days. Top loads sold at $8.95, up 15 cents from the preceding session and highest since April 18. The average for the session moved up 10 cents to $8.65.

The downturn in wholesale markets for fresh pork was halted yesterday, although consumer demand was narrow and the trade was stagnant. Fresh pork loins sold the same as on the preceding day, from $17 to $22 per hundred pounds.

There was an active demand for all other classes of meat animals at the Chicago stockyards yesterday. Supplies of all cattle were scarce and brought fully steady to strong prices. The limited supply of sheep and lambs sold quickly at steady to strong prices. [All prices are in dollars per 100 pounds.]

WIEBOLDT STORE SALES, EARNINGS BELOW YEAR AGO

Usual Dividends Voted on Senior Stocks.

Wieboldt Stores, Inc., announced yesterday that its sales were $5,571,614 in the three months ended April 30, first quarter of the company's fiscal year. This represents a decrease of 14.8 per cent from the corresponding period last year. E. F. Wieboldt, president, said profits currently are running considerably less than a year ago.

E. F. Wieboldt.

Directors declared the regular quarterly dividends of $1.25 on the prior preferred and 75 cents on the 6 per cent preferred stock payable July 1. Dividend action on the common stock is not due for consideration until next month.

Commenting on receipt of a condemnation award of $571,537 from the city in connection with the widening of Ashland avenue at School street, Wieboldt said the cutting off of the east 17 feet of the company's 7-story and 2-story store buildings, and restoration with new fronts is expected to be completed by Oct. 15.

He said estimates are that the net result of the project as reflected in the company's balance sheet will be a reduction of possibly $130,000 in investment in permanent assets, a reduction of $100,000 in the company's first mortgage debt, and a credit to surplus of approximately $125,000, representing non-recurring income.

BUTTER FUTURES SAG; LOWEST IN NEARLY 3 YEARS

November butter fell another ¼ cent a pound yesterday, closing at 25¼ cents on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, the lowest since August, 1935. Supplies in the cash markets were large and fresh standards were offered down to 24¼ cents, their lowest price level in nearly three years.

The Federal Surplus Commodity corporation held extras and extra firsts unchanged with purchases totaling 99,028 pounds in those grades, and cushioned the decline of undergrades by purchases of an additional 50,700 pounds. Total federal buying in all markets yesterday exceeded 280,000 pounds, the heaviest since April 14.

Hupp Motor.

Investors' Guide: I notice that Hupp Motor stock has been selling at a very low price. I have been considering the purchase of some to hold for an advance in price. Will you give me what information you have on the company?—T. G.

Answer: Although an old established company, the Hupp Motor Car corporation has operated in the red in every year since 1930. Inability of the corporation to earn in the last eight years can be attributed to unfavorable business conditions during most of that time and to stiff competition from larger manufacturers.

The Hupp Motor Car corporation was established in 1915. Peak earnings were in 1928, when sales soared to $8,790,222, or $8.12 a common share. From the 1928 highs sales fell to $416,403 in 1936, when the company was out of production.

Losses were $922,765 in 1930, $4,249,129 in 1931, $4,515,482 in 1932, $1,777,588 in 1933, $4,398,445 in 1934, $2,607,115 in 1935, $1,079,143 in 1936, and $1,817,486 in 1937. Loss in the first quarter of this year was $290,497, compared with $137,725 in the corresponding period of 1937.

The company resumed production of automobiles in July, 1937, after a shutdown of 19 months. One of the problems faced at that time was the rebuilding of a satisfactory dealer organization. The sharp recession in business last fall came before the company could become entirely reestablished.

Resumption of operations last summer was made possible by stock financing which raised $2,557,000 earlier in the year. The financing was preceded by a recapitalization plan under which one new share of $1 par common stock was exchanged for two old $10 par shares. Stockholders then were given rights which permitted them to buy 1.5 shares of stock at $3 a share for each new share held.

The company now has 1,648,285 shares of stock outstanding. The last dividend was $1.50 a share paid in 1930. The balance sheet for March 31, 1938, showed total assets of $5,794,580. Current assets were $1,150,005, compared with current liabilities of $738,904. The corporation had only $52,442 in cash on March 31, compared with $114,654 at the end of 1937.

GEN. ELECTRIC AND 3 OTHERS CUT DIVIDENDS

Two Corporations to Omit Disbursements.

The General Electric company and three other corporations yesterday reduced dividend payments to common stockholders. Two dividend omissions were announced. Usual payments were ordered by a large number of companies, however, including Texas corporation, United States Sugar, and Distillers Corporation-Seagrams, Ltd.

A dividend of 20 cents a share will be paid by General Electric on July 25 compared with 30 cents a share on April 25. The company disbursed $2.20 a share last year, including $1 on Dec. 20. The company also announced election of John P. Wilson to fill a vacancy on the board of directors. Wilson is a member of the Chicago law firm of Wilson and McIlvaine.

Cuts Dividend in Half.

Crown-Zellerbach corporation will pay 12½ cents a share on its common stock July 1, compared with 25 cents quarterly since dividends were resumed last year. The board issued a statement saying that the latest dividend is an interim payment and should not be regarded as placing the stock on a regular dividend basis.

United-Carr Fastener corporation will pay 10 cents June 15, compared with 30 cents on March 15. The company paid $2 in 1937.

Hoskins Manufacturing company declared a 15 cent dividend for June 15. It paid 25 cents on March 26 and $2.05 during 1937.

Directors of the Bower Roller Bearing company failed to declare the dividend due in June. The company paid 50 cents on March 25 and a total of $3 a share in 1937.

Eastern Gas & Fuel Associates will pay the regular quarterly dividend on the $4.50 prior preference stock on July 1, but no payment was declared on the 6 per cent preferred, which paid 75 cents on April 1.

Age of Steel Workers.

Through the increased use of labor saving machinery, which has lightened the toil required in the making of steel, there has been made possible the employment of an increasing number of older men in the steel industry. The present average age of workers in thirty-eight years—an increase of two years since 1930.

Twenty per cent of the steel workers are 25 years of age and under; 40 per cent are from 26 to 40 years old, and 40 per cent are 41 years and over. Most of America's steel workers are native born, 70 per cent of them to be exact. Another 20 per cent are naturalized citizens, and 10 per cent are foreign born residents.

Of those born abroad, the most from one country are Italians. Italy has sent 19 per cent of the foreign born steel workers. Of the other foreign born workers about 4 per cent were born in Germany, 3 per cent in Great Britain, 5 per cent in Hungary, 13 per cent in Poland, 34 per cent from other Slavic nations, and 22 per cent from various other parts of the world.

It Took

1,000,000 YEARS and ICE A MILE HIGH

to make marvelous Wonder Lake, which now lies 45 miles N. W. of Chicago. Truly, it is the gift of the great ice age to the people of this territory. NO OTHER LAKE CAN EVER BE LIKE IT!

A Lake of Wonders

Would you like to know why it is called Wonder Lake? Nature herself supplied the name and here is the reason: Wonder Lake occupies a scenic valley the sides of which are true glacial moraines—rock, sand and polished gravel brought down from the far north by towering walls of slow moving ice which, in the dawn of time, crept relentlessly over this part of northern Illinois.

One mammoth finger of the third and last ice cap pushed down just far enough to carve out the bed of the Wonder Lake valley. Then the glacier receded and a prehistoric river of torrential proportions flowed out of it to the south.

Today a great blue, peaceful lake sparkles there in the sunshine and colorful, inviting summer homes dot the tree clad glacial hills that form its shoreline.

It IS a lake of wonders. As you look at it for the first time you realize in a flash that this is no ordinary lake. It is so totally different from anything else in the whole section because it was created differently—a child of the great glacial finger which reached only this far to deposit the valuable cargo so long held captive by millions of tons of ice.

Thrill to Its Marvels

That is why you can have today at Wonder Lake a summer place that is unique—a place of ever-changing interest; a place apart from the flat plains country in which we live. In an hour you can be as far away from Chicago as you like, for at Wonder Lake it is easy to imagine yourself in the Kettle Hills, at an Adirondack lake or even in a miniature Norway or Switzerland.

Gaze from your hill top or lake front cottage at gorgeous sunsets, look out over enchanting islands, listen to the call of the wild life that is there in abundance—and when autumn moonlight bathes the hills and dances across the waters, you may imagine you hear the swish of an Indian paddle. It was indeed a happy Indian hunting ground and even now you can find arrowheads and Indian relics around the shores.

Controlled Water Level a Unique Feature

Few inland lakes enjoy scientific water control. Today's Wonder Lake cottage owner has this added protection at no extra cost—shoreline and water depth always maintained at proper level.

IT IS AN ABSOLUTE FACT THAT THE WATER LINE OF THIS LAKE HAS REMAINED THE SAME EVEN IN DRY SUMMERS THAT HAVE BAKED AND SEARED THE MIDDLE WEST AND TESTED TO THE LIMIT THE NATURAL SPRING WATER SOURCES OF WONDER LAKE!

The killer got in through a broken window facing the Illinois Central tracks and left the same way. He was seen by the victim's sister, aroused by the screams of the woman as she was attacked.
